SENATORIAL DOPE POINTS TO BAD LEGISLATIVE TIE-UP

Smith Forces Said to Be Disorganized---Talk of Resentment of Alleged Political "Deal" Between Smith and Hudson--Candler Waiting for Something to Turn Up.

SIZING UP SITUATION IN SENATORIAL FIGHT

According to the dope handed out around the Kimball lobby Tuesday, estimates of strength, said to be conservative, among the various candidates for senator are made as follows:

Senator J. M. Terrell, 75.
Pleasant A. Stovall, 25.
Judge W. A. Covington, 30.
Thomas E. Watson, 25.
Total 155, out of membership of 228; necessary to elect, 115.

This would leave a balance of 73 votes for Governor Smith; but just what his strength is no one appears to know, because of the alleged disorganization of the Smith forces in the legislature.

Muddled—that is the one word that best expresses the situation in the senatorial contest.

One might with impunity offer a handsome reward for any person who knows anything definite about it.

But on one point there seems to be an almost general agreement—that if Hoke Smith remains in the race without announcing, there is going to be a deadlock.

Further, there is a pretty general opinion around the Kimball lobby, the scene of the greatest senatorial activity, that, unless Governor Smith announces his candidacy and goes actively to work for it, he has no chance whatever for election.

Two members of the house, long known as Hoke Smith men, told one of Governor Smith's warmest friends Tuesday they would vote for Governor Smith provided he announced his candidacy; otherwise they would not.

It is said it has been practically put up to Governor Smith by his friends that he must either announce or abandon all hope of winning.

A representative of The Constitution called at the office of Governor Smith, in the Peters building, but was informed that he had nothing whatever to say.

Candler in the Thick of It.

Railroad Commissioner C. M. Candler was right in the thick of it Tuesday.

He refused to be quoted, but his friends said for him that he was simply in "a waiting attitude."

In other words, Mr. Candler is ready and waiting to take on the harness, provided Governor Smith gets out of the way.

Mr. Candler spent the day in talking with members of the legislature in the Kimball lobby, and his friends there were quick to express the opinion that he could be elected if he were only given the opportuntiy to go after it.

On the other hand, it was reported that certain members of the legislature, generally in sympathy with Governor Smith, had announced they would not stand for a transfer of their votes to Candler or anybody else; that they were for Smith if he wanted to go to the senate, but after that they felt free to vote as they pleased, and did not propose to be dictated to.

Tom Watson Is Cheered.

Thomas E. Watson entered the crowded lobby of the Kimball just after the arrival of the 1 o'clock train on the Georgia railroad.

A ringing cheer resounded through the lobby as he came in, and a minute or two later there was another round of cheering as Mr. Watson started for the elevator, followed by a crowd of admirers. The elevator was packed with his friends, who accompanied him up to his headquarters in room 107.

"Good trick of Watson's in arranging that," remarked a Hoke Smith man who stood in the lobby watching it. But, in any event, the cheering was well sustained, and for some minutes it was the talk of the lobby.

It had the effect of strengthening be-

LYNCHING OF NEGROES WAS FREELY PREDICTED BEFORE THEIR ARRIVAL

Governor Brown Ready and Willing to Send Militia for Protection of Prisoners, but Authorities of the County Made No Demand---Allen Was Taken From Atlanta by Three Deputies.

By E. C. Bruffey.

Monroe, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Not content with snatching Tom Allen, the young negro assailant of Mrs. Leila Knight, of this county, from officers of the law and putting him to a horrible but quick death by rope and lead, near Social Circle, at 3 o'clock this morning, a large mob made a spectacular march this noon through the very heart of Monroe to a grove less than three-quarters of a mile from the county courthouse, and lynched Joe Watts, another young negro.

Two lynchings in a single day at separate points in the same county is a new record in the hasty but always effective work of well organized, well trained and effectively commanded mobs.

Tonight the city of Monroe and the county of Walton are as quiet and serene as though there had never been an infraction of the law within this section of the state. Tonight the bloody events of today are closed incidents with the people, apart from the mooted question as to placing the blame for the loss of Tom Allen's life.

Two factions come to the surface when that feature is being discussed. One faction lays the blame upon Judge C. H. Brand, of the Walton superior court, while another faction is equally emphatic in asserting that Sheriff Stark, of Walton county, it to blame, because he did not exercise his right to ask the governor for troops to guard Allen from Atlanta, where he had been in safe-keeping, to Monroe, where his trial for criminally assaulting Mrs. Knight three months ago, was

WEBSTER IN ATLANTA FOR SAFEKEEPING

Acting under instructions from Judge Brand, it is said, Sheriff Collier, of Jackson county, last night brought Tom Webster, convicted of criminal assault, to the city and lodged him in the Tower for safekeeping until the day of his execution. It is said that there was no trouble in bringin the negro away from Jackson, but owing to recent developments it was feared that violence might be done unless he were removed from the scene of his crime. Webster is to be hanged July 22, and will probably be kept here until the day before his execution.

NO ACTIVE KISS GIVEN BY BRIDE TO BRIDEGROOM

Gambier Still Unbosoming Himself About the Coldness of His Atlanta Wife.

SOUTHERN BRIDEGROOMS ON THEIR WEDDING NIGHTS

Accused of Being Alcohol-Filled---Gambier Said He Didn't Get Drunk, but His Bride Didn't Appreciate His Abstention From Liquor---Says She Suggested They Get Drunk.

New York, June 27.—(Special.)—Edward Victor Gambier, cashier of the Merchants' Exchange National bank, was on the witness stand most of the day before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton in the suit brought by his wife Edith Russel Gambier, for a separation on the ground of abandonment, and under a sharp cross-examination by Augustus Van Wyck, counsel for Mrs. Gambier, he insisted that he had done all a husband could be expected to do within reason to show his affection for his wife.

He said she finally told him that she didn't love him but that she preferred marrying him than going to work to support herself. Then he told her they had come to the parting of the ways, and both said good-bye.

Mrs. Gambier's Man Friend.

It developed during the day that Harvey C. Sickler, president of the Atlantic Fertilizer & Oil company, who lives at 1 West 68th street, has been attending all the sessions of the trial under subpoena in behalf of Gambier.

Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Gambier, said that there was no longer any mystery about the "man with the suppressed name" and that Sickler is the man.

Questioned by Littleton as to whether his wife showed any affection on the steamer going to Europe, shortly after their marriage, Gambier said she didn't. He once told her:

"Edo, dear, put your arms around me just once."

Gambier said that she did so, and he described his display of affection in this manner:

"She touched the tips of her ten fingers together as she put her arms around me. She had the tips of her fingers together for the fraction of a moment, and then she withdrew them. Her arms might as well have been barrel hoops."

She Never Gave Him Active Kiss.

"Did she ever bestow an active kiss upon you?"

"Never. I frequently kissed her, but she drew away from me when I did. A full and responsive kiss, I never had from her."

They talked on the boat, Gambier said, but didn't discuss their future plans, and he had to do most of the talking because his wife always gave him short answers. She would walk with him on deck only occasionally and then after they had gone a short distance she would tell him she was tired. He said he tried to be unusually considerate of his wife because her father had said she was not in good health.

"Once at the beginning of our honey-

WAR ON WEEVIL WITH CORN SHOW

Merchants and Manufacturers Give Show Indorsement.

Estimated That $10,000 Will Be Needed, and of This Total a Large Part Has Already Been Contributed From Various Sources.

Realizing that the boll weevil is a menace that threatens the financial interests of the entire state, and agreeing that all business classes should unite to counteract its encroachment, members of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, at a meeting held yesterday, gave their indorsement to the corn show as one of the most feasible methods of making war on the pest. Several generous donations for the support of the show were given and a committee was appointed to solicit further contributions from among the members.

Given Strong Support.

The corn show is thus receiving the support of many classes of business men. The fertilizer interests have raised $1,000 for it, the retail merchants about the same amount and the agricultural implement people between $1,500 and $2,000. The Merchants and Manufacturers' Association at first thought of raising $1,000, but the general opinion seemed to be that this would be too small a sum, and it is probable that a much larger amount will be donated. It has been estimated that at least $10,000 will be necessary for an adequate show.

Statements were made during the meeting that Atlanta jobbers are already feeling the effects of the presence of the boll weevil in southern Alabama. Orders for goods from this section have been countermanded because the retailers there fear that a money shortage may be created by the pest.

Walter G. Cooper, Frederic J. Paxon and Dr. H. E. Stockbridge spoke of the steady advance of the weevil to Georgia, of the certain results it would have upon the general welfare of the state and advocated the corn show as a means of teaching the farmers the value of a corn crop as a substitute for the depleted cotton crop.

Weevil Sure to Come.

"The boll weevil is absolutely certain to come to Georgia," stated Dr. Stockbridge. "In either 1912 or 1913 it will cross the Chattahoochee into this state." After speaking of the damage the weevil had done in Louisiana by reducing the cotton crop 66 per cent, he continued: "In all human probability it is more reasonable to suppose that it will do more damage in Georgia than it has done in the west."

However, Dr. Stockbridge pointed out that in spite of the fearful havoc wrought by the pest to Louisiana's cotton, the cash value of the state's aggregate field products had been greater than ever before. This had been because the farmers had turned their efforts to the cultivation of other crops. It is to obtain a similar result in Georgia that the corn show is being planned. "The corn show is to show the people that they can get money out of other things," he said.

The farmers cannot escape the danger to the cotton crop by planting early varieties of cotton, he said, because black rot will attack early-maturing cotton.

Mr. Cooper pointed out the direful effects the partial destruction of Georgia's $150,000,000 cotton crop would have on the business interests of the entire state. He said that the evil

LEGISLATURE 1911 SESSION CATHERS TODAY

Much Work Ahead and the Session Throughout Is Expected to Be a Lively One.

HOTEL LOBBIES ARE ALIVE AND CANDIDATES ARE BUSY

Both Houses Meet at 10 A. M., Will Proceed to Organization, Notify the Governor and Then Receive His Message --- Little Else to Be Done on First Day of Session.

Georgia's general assembly of 1911-12 will convene at 10 o'clock this morning.

The house will be called to order by Clerk John T. Boifeuillet, of the last house, and the senate by Secretary Charles C. Northen, who held that position the last session.

The first thing in order will be the organization of the two bodies by the election of presiding officers; Hon. John N. Holder, of Jackson, will go in without opposition as speaker of the house, while Senator John M. Slaton, of Fulton, has opposition in the person of Senator J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter. All indications, however, point to the easy election of Mr. Slaton, who was president of the last senate.

Other Officers to Be Elected.

There is no contest for president pro tem. of the senate, as Senator A. O. Blalock, of Fayette, will go in without opposition.

But there is a hot fight for speaker pro tem. of the house, and it has been waged right up to the last minute in the hotel lobbies, which are alive with members, practically all of whom reached the city by Tuesday afternoon and night.

Hon. M. C. Tarver, of Whitfield, and Hon. Carl Vinson, of Baldwin, are the contestants in this scrimmage, and if

HART WILL TAKE PLACE OF BARRY

Big Change in Atlanta Postoffice Rumored in Washington.

New Superintendent of Mails for Atlanta Comes From Charleston, Where, It Is Alleged, He Was Removed for Incompetency.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 27.—(Special.)—Irving C. Hart, formerly connected with the Charleston postoffice, has been transferred to the Atlanta postoffice by Postmaster General Hitchcock, according to reports in Washington today from sources which are believed to be authentic.

He will succeed R. E. Barry, of Atlanta, who now holds the position of superintendent of mails at the Atlanta office, according to this story, and Mr. Barry will be given other work to do, the nature of which has not yet been announced.

While in Charleston Mr. Hart was the superintendent of mails in that city, and his services were so unsatisfactory, it is stated, that his removal was demanded by Postmaster William M. Harris.

Finding that Postmaster Harris would no longer put up with Mr. Hart, a new place had to be found for him, and the decision was reached to send him to Atlanta, where he will have charge of both the incoming and outgoing mails in a city of 160,000 people. The explanation of how he came to be "demented" for inefficiency in this peculiar manner from a city of 60,000 people, is told in the charmed words, "He was a favorite of Hitchcock."

When Postmaster Harris would not longer put up with Mr. Hart, and demanded his transfer, it is said Mr. Hitchcock cast about for some new position for him, and decided to test the patience and kindly disposition of Postmaster McKee. So Hart is to be transferred to Atlanta.

R. E. Barry, who was formerly connected with the department as an inspector, will be relegated to the ranks again, it is reported, though no complaint has been made against his work. It is said that the only reason the change has been made was because Hart was "a favorite of Hitchcock," and a place had to be made for him.

Hugh McKee, postmaster of the Atlanta office, last night stated that he had not been notified of the coming of Mr. Hart, or of any change in the position of superintendent of the mails, now held by R. E. Barry. "All that I can say," said Mr. McKee, "is that Mr. Barry has been of great assistance to me in the reorganization work in the postoffice."

NO COMMISSION NEEDED BY CITY SAY SPEAKERS

CITY CHARTER REVISED DECLARED GOOD ENOUGH

Commission Form of Government Criticised---Addresses by Some of Most Prominent Men of Atlanta--City Officials Show What Good Work Has Been Done Under Present Charter.

An audience that filled the first floor and partly filled the gallery at the Grand last night gathered to hear discussed a revision of the present city charter as against a commission government. There were between 1,200 and 1,500 people present.

In the audience was a large number of legislators and a few ladies.

The first applause came when the chairman said that Atlanta did not want a commission government.

When Judge Hines was speaking he asked the question: "Are you in favor of commission government?" Several people shouted out, "No", and one man called out: "We ain't taking it seriously."

Speakers at Meeting.

The speakers were: Judge John S. Candler, Judge J. K. Hines, Hon. William M. Smith, Hon. John E. McClelland, Hon. B. Lee Smith, Colonel James D. Kilpatrick, Hon. Aldine Chambers.

C. T. Ladson was on the list of speakers, but he was prevented from being present. A letter written by him was read. The letter is given in full elsewhere in The Constitution.

The speakers confined themselves to either praising the proposed charter revision, or criticizing the proposed charter for a commission government.

Some of the speeches were by city officials who showed what good work had been done and was still being done under the present form of government; other speakers were citizens who spoke against the proposed commission government, and pointed out what they believed to be gross discrepancies and fallacies in the charter as submitted by a committee of citzens.

The closest attention was given the speakers, and the enthusiasm of the audience gave evidence of many adherents of charter revision being present.

The speeches were all calm, thoughtful discussions of the question which is now foremost among the matters for civic consideration.

Resolution Adopted.

The following resolution offered by H. F. Garrett, was adopted:

"Whereas, the charter of the city of Atlanta is to be amended so as to meet the requirements of modern times.

"Therefore, be it resolved by this body now assembled that the city coun-

"I FEEL SORRY FOR THE MAN, TOO" SAYS JUDGE IN ALIMONY CASE

"Madame, there is nothing in the world that will make a man madder than to have his wife come up and hug him just after she's been fussing at him," was the terse response of Judge John T. Pendleton, yesterday morning to Mrs. Nannie Fleming, who, in the course of her fight for alimony, was explaining to the judge just how she treated her husband.

"It was all his fault," pleaded the woman, in effect. "If he had come home at night and brought his money it would have been all right."

The judge who had listened to Mrs. Fleming's testimony on the witness stand, seemed to think that maybe there was some excuse for the husband's delinquency in the matter of not coming home at night, for, after listening to the recountal of her domestic infelicities, he said: "Madame, I do not know but that I would have gone the other way myself."

At the close of the hearing the judge said: "This is a hard situation. The woman needs the money, and should have it; but I feel sorry for the man, too. Still, he knew the woman before he married her, and ought not to have done it."

A number of interesting features were brought out in the hearing, and it was shown that the woman is a habitual user of morphine or similar drugs; but after considering the case in its entirety, the judge awarded the wife $25 a month as alimony.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTION OF THE MOB IN WALTON COUNTY?

Governor Brown—"The constitution of this state provides that the civil authorities shall be superior to the military authorities. When I was ready and stood willing to aid the civil authorities, the facts presented to me by the communications above set forth (the letters from Judge Brand and Sheriff Stark) did not authorize me as commander-in-chief of the military forces in this state to order out the military and send them to Walton county in charge of the official, when no civil official of the county, nor the judge of the superior court, had requested me to do so, but on the contrary, had written me that they would not request such action on my part."

Sheriff W. B. Stark—"I did not ask for troops because the judge took the responsibility upon his own shoulders in saying that we did not need them."

Judge Brand—"I deny that I am responsible for the lynching of this negro. My conscience is clear before man and God. The duty was upon the sheriff, not only under the act of 1893 as to summoning citizens, but also on him in my absence as to requesting the military to accompany the prisoner. And while I want to discharge and have performed every duty which the law imposes upon me, I don't propose to be the engine of sacrificing any white man's life for all the negro rapists in the country by assuming a responsibility that the law does not impose upon me, and in taking this position, whatever other people may think about it, I am in perfect accord with my conscience and my God."

MORMON CHURCH IN SUGAR TRUST

b Washington, June 27.—The Mormon church is in the sugar business for the benefit of its people. It sought Henry O. Havemeyer's help to extend its sugar enterprises, not because he was Havemeyer, but because his money would be for the benefit of the Mormon people; it regarded Havemeyer not as an "industrial pirate" but rather as a benefactor and in combining with him in the beet sugar business the heads of the Mormon church believe that no law of the United States was violated.

This in substance was the declaration to the house "sugar trust" investigating committee today of Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, and president of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company. He was supported in his testimony by Bishop Charles Nibley, business manager of the Mormon church, who also testified.

The Mormon leaders attracted wide attention and were followed on the witness stand by W. G. Gilmore, managing partner of Arbuckle Bros., competitors of the American Sugar Refining company, who will be examined tomorrow.

Disciples Accompany Prophet.

Mr. Smith was accompanied to the hearing room by Senator Reed Smoot, Bishop C. N. Nibley, business manager of the Mormon church; Thomas R. Cutler, a former bishop of the church, and Representative Joseph Howell. With the party also was R. W. Young, of Salt Lake City, counsel for the representatives of the Mormon hierarchy.

This was not Mr. Smith's first experience before a congressional committee. Many present today when the Mormon leader appeared recalled his visit during the investigation into the right of Senator Smoot to retain his seat.

Though his mission today was an entirely different one—submission to examination as to business relations of the Mormon church with the American Sugar Refining Company, through the Utah-Idaho Sugar Refining Company—it was expected that the interests of his people in Mormonism would not escape inquiry.

SENATE TANGLED BY RECIPROCITY

Fate of Agreement Is Far From Being Settled.

Regular Republicans Pushing for Early Vote on Pact and Tariff Bills in Order to Embarrass Insurgents---G. O. P. Insurgents Fight for Time.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 27.—(Special.)—The fate of the reciprocity agreement was still far from being settled when the senate adjourned this afternoon. A situation exists where almost anything might happen within the next two or three weeks. There was some talk of an adjournment early in August.

Caught Napping by Penrose.

The parliamentary status of the bill was considerably advanced by a determined move made by Senator Penrose late in the day to force immediate action, but this advantage was later yielded. On his motion to report the bill to the senate from the committee of the whole, the question was put and declared carried by the vice president, almost before the opponents of the bill were aware of what had happened. Immediately there were protests. Senator Bailey asked that the motion be reconsidered, and the bill returned to the consideration of the committee, and when this request was denied by Senator Penrose, moved that it be done. Finally Senator Penrose consented, warning the opponents of the bill that they must be ready to continue the debate or to vote.

The progressive republicans are still industriously at work framing amendments to various schedules of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, which they will offer as riders of the Canadian reciprocity agreement.

Senators Bailey, of Texas, and Simmons, of North Carolina, who oppose the reciprocity agreement, will also offer the tariff bills framed by the house.

Thorough Tariff Revision.

If these amendments are voted down and the Canadian agreement is passed without amendment, the question will then come on the wisdom of entering upon a thorough and exhaustive tariff revision program as a corollary of reciprocity. Such a proposal will have friends in both the republican progressive and democratic camps, but whether it will be done depends upon whether either or both sides really want tariff revision or simply seek a tactical advantage.

The attitude of the president will be a large factor in the situation and if he adheres to the public declaration that he will not approve the reciprocity agreement if incumbered with any other tariff revision measure, that fact will have considerable weight. It is also known that the president prefers for all tariff legislation to go over until the tariff board is ready to report.

However, both progressive republicans and democrats are determined to force a vote on other tariff bills, either before the final vote on reciprocity or as separate and distinct measures.

Penrose Wants Date for Vote.

The session today began with an unsuccessful attempt by Chairman Penrose, of the finance committee, to secure an agreement for a vote on reciprocity July 24, on the wool bill July 26 and free list bill July 28. Friends of reciprocity will insist upon coupling all tnree measures in any agreement to vote.

After refusing to permit such an agreement, the opponents of the reciprocity bill allowed that measure to advance one important parliamentary step before they realized what had happened.

For a quarter of an hour the senate was in executive session. At its conclusion, no one being ready to speak on the measure and following the parliamentary custom of that body, Vice President Sherman announced that the bill would be reported from the committee of the whole to the senate.

The bill actually passed through all the stages of being reported to the senate before members realized what was going on. While under consideration in the committee of the whole the measure could be amended, but could not be voted upon. In the senate it could be brought to a final vote at any time.

Strong Protest by Some Senators.

Senators Nelson, Bristow, Clapp and Bailey joined in the protest that arose when it was found what had happened to the bill.

At first Senator Penrose objected to having the measure reinstated in the committee of the whole. He said the senate had shown no disposition to hurry in its consideration of the bill, and had rejected his proposal for a definite time for a vote on the measure. He, therefore, thought no backward step should be taken.

Friends of the bill on the democratic side, however, led by Senators Stone and Bacon, said the senate had evidently been off its guard, and had permitted the bill to be advanced unintentionally. Senator Penrose finally consented to having it restored to its former status.

The feeling that developed over this incident was not so marked, however, as that which greeted Senator Penrose's attempt to fix a time for the vote on the bills.

Smoot's Objection Saved Committee.

Insurgents objected to any definite date for the reciprocity vote, and the finance committee was extricated from the embarrassing position of having the other votes determined by an objection from Senator Smoot. Several democrats and insurgents would have welcomed the fixing of the other two dates, so that the tariff bills could be forced up to President Taft ahead of the reciprocity bill, and the latter held back as a means of forcing his signature to the others.

The Penrose request will be renewed from time to time, and whenever conditions seem favorable. Ultimately the friends of reciprocity may consent to change the order, allowing the vote on the tariff bills to come first, but they will not do so at present, nor in taking this position will they consent for one to go through without the others.

In this attitude they have the indorsement of the president, who has advised them in individual conferences that while he does not shrink from consideration of tariff measures at this time, he thinks that reciprocity should come first in the natural order. His position, as expressed to senators who have talked to him, is that the present session should be confined as strictly as possible to reciprocity, that being the subject which it was called to consider.

They Had Fun With Martin.

Senator Martine, of New Jersey, who has qualified as a farmer in the senate, had an interesting passage at arms with Senator Borah, who spoke in opposition to the reciprocity bill. He questioned the latter's statements as to the benefits of protection to the farmer.

"I've been looking up the senator from New Jersey since he announced that he was a farmer," retorted Mr. Borah, "and I find that 18 or 20 years ago he had a farm of 120 acres in New Jersey, that he farmed it for a while, played politics a little, and that finally a great manufacturing town growing to it, he cut it into building lots, built houses on it, and is now many times a landlord, and has come to the United States senate."

Senator Martine answered with heat and declared he had been an active farmer up to three years ago.

The dialogue was terminated by Senator Gallinger's observation that Senator Martine must have been a farmer by a "straw vote."

The senate was compelled to adjourn because of the storm that raged about the capitol late in the afternoon, which made further proceedings impossible.

WIFE IN FAINT BEFORE HUSBAND

McManigal, it was said, had been taken from jail to plead with his wife to be a witness for the prosecution instead of the defense after she had persisted in refusing to answer questions put to her before the grand jury.

When she emerged from the grand jury room Attorney Joseph Scott, an associate of Clarence S. Darrow in the defense of the McNamara brothers, rushed among the detectives surrounding her and with clinched fists swept the officers aside with threats of violence if they did not cease "hounding this woman."

Later when Mrs. McManigal and her attorneys reached the street and departed in an automobile, another machine, occupied by three private detectives followed.

The detectives admitted they are making every attempt to win Mrs. McManigal to the side of the prosecution and that they have taken an apartment next door to the one she occupies so as to note her every movement.

NO MARKED CHANGE IN GENERAL EVANS

Throughout yesterday General Clement A. Evans held his own, and no marked change was noted in his condition. Characteristic of his fortitude he gives no expression to the acute suffering he often experiences. It is only by his involuntary actions that those at the bedside are not made aware of any slight change.

Considering his advanced age, General Evans is holding out remarkably well and his friends still entertain hopes that he will get well.

WATSON WANTS PRIMARY HELD

At Meeting Held in His Headquarters Last Night Resolutions Are Adopted Favoring Election of a Senator by the People---Mr. Watson Speaks for Free Books.

Hon. Tom Watson arrived in the city early Tuesday afternoon and immediately went to the Kimball House, where he was greeted by a large gathering of his friends, who gave him an enthusiastic reception. In spite of the fact that he was suffering from a severe sore throat, he spoke a few words and was greeted with applause.

All during the afternoon Mr. Watson's headquarters in the Kimball House was besieged by callers, who sought to hear some expression from him on the senatorial situation. He had visited a specialist to have his throat treated, however, and they were disappointed.

At night a meeting was held, at which Mr. Watson spoke and resolutions were adopted.

In regard to this meeting the following statement was given out by C. H. Kittrell, of Dublin:

Primary Is Favored.

"Although many were unable to get to the meeting on account of insufficient room, every congressional district in the state was well represented, and enthusiastically they rallied to the interess of 'Old Man Peepul.'

"No a single district failed to be represented. Many of the representatives in the legislature were in the meeting, and without an exception were heartily in favor of a primary to elect Senator Clay's successor.

"The people from every quarter of Georgia reported in no instance less than 90 per cent of the voters favoring the primary."

During the progress of the meeting the following resolutions favoring a primary for the election of a senator were adopted:

"In keeping with the national democratic policy and the overwhelming sentiment in Georgia, resolved that we urge the representatives to refer the selection of United States senator to fill the unexpired term of Senator Clay to the people."

Give 'Em Hell, He Says.

In his speech Mr. Watson said that he was here in the interests of no particular candidate, but was fighting for the people's right to make a choice.

He alluded to the educational movement of last fall before Senator Clay died or before anyone could know that he would so soon be called away. One result of this educational movement, he said, was taht when Senator Clay's death left a four-year vacancy to be filled, the people were prepared for the emergency and the politicians were not.

"They don't know what to do, and we do," he said.

Mr. Watson said further: "You are here to contend for a great principle. The people did not send you here to fight Hoke Smith or to boost Tom Watson. You were sent here to demand that the servants of the people in the legislature give the people the opportunity to say who they prefer for senator.

"I am not here antagonizing any particular candidate or advocating one. I am contending for the people's right to choose, and no matter how distasteful to me personally may be the people's choice, I will humbly bow to the will of the majority.

"Let us work, also, for free school books for the children, for a restoration of our county unit plan, and for an election law which will require nothing more of the voter than a white face and a set of tax receipts.

"Let us labor with our senators and representatives. Of those who remain faithful to the people at home, we will carry back reports that will enshrine them in the hearts of their constituents.

"But if any of those representatives betray their people, forgetting the interest of the people who elected them, let us carry home with us a report that will cause the traitors to catch h—ll at the next election."

Mr. Watson's headquarters will be open every morning at 8 o'clock, and for the present will be in charge of C. H. Kittrell, of Dublin.

BARREL OF MONEY TO ELECT LORIMER

Witness Before Senate Probers Says Hines So Said.

Contradictions in the Testimony Regarding the Money Furnished by Hines to "Put Lorimer Over" Marked Tuesday's Session of the Probers.

Washington, June 27.—Contradictions in testimony concerning the pecuniary assistance Edward Hines, the Chicago lumber millionaire, may have rendered in the election of Senator Lorimer marked today's session of the senate investigating committee.

The most significant of these was the direct denial by Shelby B. Jones, a druggist in Marquette, Mich., that he had ever said Mr. Hines had remarked in his presence that he "had put Lorimer over" as a United States senator, and that he had collected a fund of $100,000 to do it.

In so testifying, the witness contradicted affidavits of E. D. Mosher, deputy United States marshal at Marquete; Frank J. Russell, editor of The Mining Journal, of Marquette, and Robert C. Lowe, a Chicago newspaper reporter, before the committee appointed by the Illinois senate to investigate the Lorimer election. The statement also contradicted the testimony given by Morris B. Coan, an investigator for the commmittee at that hearing.

It Cost a Barrel of Money.

According to Mr. Jones' statement to the committee today, the conversation in which Mr. Hines figured occurred in Marquette in 1907, or about two years before the senatorial election. He said Mr. Hines remarked that he was a friend of Mr. Lorimer, and something was said about the latter's election.

"I suppose it cost a barrel of money," remarked one of the men with Mr. Hines, but whose name the witness could not recall.

"Yes, sir," the witness said Mr. Hines replied. "All these elections cost a lot of money."

"To what election were they referring?" inquired Senator Kenyon.

"I suppose to Mr. Lorimer's election."

William O'Brien, a lumberman of Duluth, Minn., and vice president of the Virginia and Rainy Lake Company, of which Mr. Hines is president, and of which W. H. Cook, another witness of the day, was a director, said they were in Mr. Cook's room at the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago about the time of Senator Lorimer's election, and that Mr. Hines held a telephone conversation from that room.

All the Money Necessary.

Mr. Cook repeated the testimony he gave to the Helm committee concerning that, varying it, however, by declaring that when the telephone operator rang up and asked if Mr. Hines was there the girl said, "Here is Governor Deneen."

Mr. Hines was quoted, as saying Lorimer must be elected and that he would be down on the next train prepared to furnish all the money necessary.

Mr. O'Brien testified that he was expecting a telephone call and heard Mr. Cook say when he answered the telephone: "Mr. Hines, the governor wants to speak to you."

"Did you hear the telephone conversation?" Attorney J. J. Healy, for the committee, asked the witness.

"No, I am a little hard of hearing, and it was none of my business."

The witness denied he had ever claimed Mr. Hines was talking to ex-Governor Yates.

Witness Made Them Laugh.

Mr. Cook related an alleged conversation with Mr. Hines at the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago in May, 1909. It was at that time, Mr. Cook declared, Mr. Hines remarked he "was having a h—l of a time" at Washington.

"Now, for instance," Mr. Cook testified, "Mr. Hines said, 'there is old Stephenson. After I got him elected he has gone down there and started working for free lumber. The southern democrats are the worst of the whole lot.' He (Hines) said he would have them all fixed up one day and the next day they would flop."

The crowd in the committee room, including Mr. Hines, laughted over this testimony, but not so Senator Johnston, of Alabama, a southern democrat. Finally Senator Fletcher, of Florida, nudged Mr. Johnston and the Alabama senator joined in.

CUPID HAS HIS WAY; COUPLE MARRIES

Fiery young lovers on gallant steeds, with their ladyes faire seated behind them are out of date. In the twentieth century it is the same ardent lover, perhaps, and certainly a fair lady, but she sits by his side on the front seat of a big touring car.

At least that was the version of the famous poem given by Augustus T. Small, Jr., 21 years old, and Miss Lucille Platt, 18, of Macon, yesterday, when, after a race through the country, they gained the Fulton county court house and were safely married by Judge Orr before relatives could interfere. Though later arrested—but that's getting ahead of the story.

The marriage ceremony was hurried up by the obliging judge to allow the young couple to reach the ball game in time. They spent the afternoon pleasantly and were driving slowly past the Piedmont hotel on their return to town when there was the sharp rap of a policeman's club. The car continued and Officer Ed McWilliams took a flying leap, caught the running board and precipitated himself within.

"What's the matter?" was the excited question.

"Don't know. Orders to take car 4139 into the station along with contents," was the businesslike reply.

"Oh, I know what it's all about," laughed the bride, without any fear. "But goody, goody, we're already married."

At the police station, where the party went in the machine, John S. McClelland appeared for Mr. Small, Sr., and it was brought out that the cause of the arrest was a telegram from him. He had intended to cause the detention of his son on the technical charge of taking the automobile without consent, but when the marriage was already consummated this was useless. The young bride proudly produced her wedding certificate and they were allowed to go unmolested, carrying with them the best wishes of all present.

LOWLY WATERMELON SAVING MANY FARMERS FROM RUIN

Albany, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Many a grower who was placed "in the hole" by the aristocratic cantaloupe this season has been pulled out by the lowly watermelon. It is a story told in every town in this part of the state, and the end is not yet.

This has not been a joyous season for the cantaloupe growers. The season, right up to the time when shipments were beginning, was the very finest within the memory of growers. But without warning a heat wave struck this section of Georgia, and in two days havoc had been wrought in vines shriveled up and turned brown almost as if by magic. In rare cases the growers secured half crops. Most of them will have to be content with a good deal less.

But the watermelon has suddenly taken the center of the stage.

For some years past the cantaloupes have rather driven the watermelons from public notice in this part of the state, and comparatively few fields of the more old-fashioned fruit have been planted. Now growers hereabouts are regretting that more acreage was not given to watermelons this year.

Buyers are eagerly taking up all the melons offered, and growers are selling cars on their sidetracks at prices ranging from a little below to a good deal above $100. Such a price, of course, is net, and the grower eliminates all risk. There is splendid profit in watermelons at a good deal less than $100 per car.

Special arrangements made by Sweetwater Park Hotel to meet guests coming out on 10:45 a. m. and 3 p. m. trains at Austell.

WIFE TO BE TRIED WITH HUSBAND

Albany, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—A special session of Baker county superior court convened at Newton today, Judge Frank Park, of the Albany circuit, presiding. The special term is being held in lieu of an adjourned term which had been set for July 2.

Among the principal cases to come to trial is that of Joseph Leary and Mrs. Joseph Leary, both of Dougherty county. They are charged with complicity in the murder of Ernest Barksdale, the young merchant of Tampa, Fla., who was killed near Elmodel, Baker county, his murderer throwing the body into an abandoned well. It was found there a week later. Jesse Hudgins, Mrs. Leary's son, was tried and convicted of the murder, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Mrs. Leary is charged with being accessory after the fact, and Joseph Leary with being accessory after the fact. The case is one of the most remarkable in the history of this part of Georgia.

Ira Jones, a white man, is also to be tried at the special term of Baker court for the murder of a white woman, Mrs. Dean. The evidence on which Jones was indicted was strictly circumstantial. He has been in jail since his arrest, months ago.

ACQUITTED OF CHARGE, THEY WILL DINE JURORS

All Pulaski County Invited to Big Fish-Fry and Barbecue.

Macon, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—The four Pulaski county men, Sheriff John Ross Rogers, Deputy Sheriff Joab Horne, William E. Chauncey and Luke Dupree, who were recently acquitted of the charge of peonage in the United States district court, will, on July 4, at Hawkinsville, entertain the twelve jurors who found them not guilty.

The entertainment will consist of an immense fish fry and barbecue, to which all of the friends of the four ex-defendants, numbering practically every resident of Pulaski county, will be invited. Hon. T. S. Felder, counsel for the four men, will also be present. The affair will decidedly be a unique one in this part of the country.

JUDGE A. G. DORSEY DIES AT GAINESVILLE HOME

Gainesville, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) Judge Anderson G. Dorsey, after a brief illness from acute indigestion, died at noon today at his home on the Boulevard. He was 72 years old.

He was a veteran of the confederacy, attending the recent reunion at Little Rock and was among the oldest and most prominent citizens of Gainesville, where for years he had been justice of the peace.

He was the father of Mrs. Annie Harris, of Havana, Cuba, Mrs. J. D. Woodside, of Greenville, S. C., Mrs. Eula Hulsey, of Atlanta, and John B. Dorsey. The funeral will occur here and the burial in Alta Vista cemetery.

PRAISES ROSE DHU RANGE.

Inspection Made at Savannah by Macon Officers.

Savannah, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—The Rose Dru Rifle Range has been inspected by Colonel W. A. Harris and Lieutenant Colonel Baxter Jones, of the Second Georgia regiment, infantry, with headquarters in Macon, and declared ready for the encampment of the state troops. Both Macon officers express themselves as greatly pleased with the camp site and with the range itself.

"Rose Dhu," Colonel Harris said, "shows evidences of a great deal of work and preparation. We ought to be able to get in some good rifle practice there."

BOULEVARD TO CONNECT ATLANTA AND PENSACOLA

James M. Clark, of the Owen-Clark Company, of Pensacola, Fla., yesterday commenced active work toward the establishment of a model boulevard between Atlanta and Pensacola in the near future.

Mr. Clark called on Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and other influential members of that body and sought their cooperation in the matter. He also wired the Pensacola Commercial Association, of which he is a member, asking if they would aid Atlanta in the work.

The assistance of The Constitution, as one of the leading workers for good roads in the south, was asked by Mr. Clark, and he was assured that every resource would be put at the disposal of the project. G. A. Waterman, secretary of the Pensacola Commercial Association, wired an enthusiastic reply and the Atlanta chamber subscribed heartily to the plan.

It is the purpose of Mr. Clark, assisted by many other prominent Pensacolans, to run at least three scout cars from Pensacola to Atlanta by as many different routes some time during the early part of September. This will determine the best route and will place the project on a practical basis where work can be commenced as soon as possible.

Mr. Clark returned Tuesday to Pensacola after spending three weeks in the city on business. He will agitate the highway establishment at once in Pensacola.

FIVE TECH BOYS COMPLETE LONG TRAMP TO THEIR HOMES

Fitzgerald, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) J. W. Spears, of Brunswick, and W. E. Osborne, of this city, two of the five Tech boys who undertook to make the trip home from Atlanta by traveling on foot, arrived in this city exactly on the schedule they had previously marked out. The other three, T. B. Bethel, of Thomaston; H. N. Pye, of Woodland, and J. T. Peacock, of Madison, dropped out of the trip at the points nearest their homes, leaving the two to make the balance of the long walk alone. They took the national highway to Cordele, and speak in praise of that road. Seven days were allowed for the trip, twenty-eight miles being the average distance walked in one day and forty miles the longest, that being from Barnesville to Macon.

Although the young men enjoyed the novelty of the trip and arrived in this city feeling "fine," Spears will not continue the walk to his home in Brunswick, but will take the train after spending a few days visiting with Osborne

GUARDED, IN LOCKED BEDROOM, HE SLEEPS SECURE FROM WIFE

Macon, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Claiming that he sleeps in another room from his wife, with the door between them securely locked, and a man on guard to protect him, Lens S. McConnell, a well-known local grocer, today filed suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Bessie May McConnell. They were married in 1900 and have three children.

McConnell alleges that his wife has sworn to kill him, and that repeatedly, before he employed a guard, she attempted to enter his room at night while he was supposedly asleep. He says that he is afraid she will kill him at the first opportunity. They live in the same house, notwithstanding the strained situation.

SOLICITOR GENERAL'S WEDDING MAY COMPLICATE COKER TRIAL

Savannah, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) Because the state's most important witness, J. H. Ingram, a Central of Georgia railway clerk, had not been subponaed and, it was shown was ill in Perkins, Ga., the case against John Coker, the negro charged with the murder of Mrs. J. C. Hunter, had to be continued in the superior court today. The delay may occasion complications seldom met with in a criminal trial.

The husband of the Hunter woman is under death sentence for the murder. He was granted a respite by Governor Brown until Coker, who the state charges was an accomplice in the butchering of the three white women in Savannah in December, 1909, could be put on trial.

Unless Ingram is able to come to Savannah in the morning and is prepared to testify for the state there is little or no likelihood of the case being tried at this term for the very good reason that Solicitor General Walter C. Hartridge will get married Thursday and take his bride for a trip to Europe.

The court officials all know the program and realize that unless the Coker case is taken up promptly in the morning and pushed to a conclusion there is little chance of finishing it before the time set for Solicitor Hartridge's wedding.

It is not believed that the state will be able to get witness Ingram in time to go on with the trial, in which event the Hunter case, which has become a rather famous one in Georgia, will find its way before Governor Hoke Smith. Coker has been identified as the negro who was employed in the yard of the Perry street house on the morning that Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Ohlander and Mrs. Gribble were slain. Witness Ingram saw the negro at work in the yard, later saw him go into the house and close the door, saw someone striking blows on the inside and later saw the negro go out into the yard again and shut the kitchen window.

Davisboro, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—A negro woman living on the Garlic place, a few miles west of this place, who left a son about 14 years old to nurse a younger child about two years old, found the infant dead from a bullet wound in its chest and stomach, and the boy fled.

WITH CINDER COLONY

Attractive Pullman coaches have been put on the "Seaboard Mail," leaving Atlanta at 8:55 p. m., and the "Atlanta-New York Special," leaving the city at 1:15 p. m. The new coaches are of steel construction, and were made for the road by the Pullman company along the same luxurious lines as the sleepers. They are electric lighted, heated and contain thoroughly up-to-date toilet facilities.

The agricultural display in the ticket office of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic continues to attract much attention. The local management is making a consistent effort to advertise the resources of the state by exhibiting specimens of its choice products. The present show includes sheaves of wheat, oats, rye and rye straw and bags of various varieties of flour, meal and grains. The display will be varied with other exhibits as the season progresses.

Wrightsville Beach is enjoying an unprecedented popularity with Atlanta summer resorters this season. Extensive bookings have been made by the Seaboard for dates as far ahead as July 26.

BESSIE TIFT RAISING LARGE ENDOWMENT FUND

Forsyth, Ga., June 27.—The campaign to raise a $300,000 endowment fund for Bessie Tift college, at Forsyth, has now been under way nearly a year, and already more than $100,000 has been given by loyal Baptists in Georgia. In Emanuel county alone the field secretaries raised a fund of more than $4,000 in a few days, several gifts of $1,000 each being made. Captain H. H. Tift, of Tifton, will soon be called upon for a check of $20,000, having promised to give that amount for each $100,000 raised in the state. The field workers, Rev. R. A. Lansdell, Rev. J. B. Holley and Miss Mattie Morris, will be at work in Bartow county this week.

Dr. E. C. James, former president of the Greenville (S. C.) Female College, has been made dean of the college. Professor W. T. Davidson, of Eastern College, Virginia, will have the chairs of history and English, and Professor G. P. Whatley, of Mercer, will head the science department.

IN THE FIELD OF LABOR

Members of local Pressmen's Union No. 8, who have been on a strike for about three years, feel much encouraged by the action taken by the international body at the recent convention in Tennessee. It was decided at that meeting to continue indefinitely the strike benefit fund contributions that are being contributed to the local pressmen.

The regular monthly meeting of the Atlanta Typographical Union, which will be held next Sunday, promises to be an exceptionally interesting one.

The regular meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Trades occurs tonight in Federation hall. The general interest in the proposed changes in the city charter that is being manifested among labor men promises to crystalize in some definite action on the subject at this meeting. It is not unlikely that a committee will be appointed to investigate both sides of the question.

DR. JOHN T. GRAY DIES IN GRIFFIN

Death Induced by Paralytic Stroke of Five Years Ago.

Griffin, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Dr. John T. Gray, for many years one of the most popular and successful physicians in Spalding county, died at his home on West Broadway street at 6:40 o'clock this morning. He suffered a partial stroke of paralysis about five years ago and had been in declining health since that time. He was critically ill for several days, and his death was not unexpected.

Dr. Gray was born near Sunny Side, Spalding county, Georgia, sixty years ago. He came to Griffin some twelve years ago, and has since resided here as a most worthy citizen. He was twice married, first to Miss Lillie Florence, of Hampton, who died about ten years ago, and secondly to Miss Annie Thompson, of Butts county, whom he leaves a widow. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Barham, of this city, and Mrs. T. C. Andrews, of Pomona.

The deceased was a member of the Masonic order and also the Knights of Pythias. He was a member of the Christian church, from which the funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon. The interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery.

SAYS HER HUSBAND TOOK CHILDREN AND VALUABLES

Deserted by her husband, whom she claims took their two young children and all of her valuables, Mrs. William Wilson Acheson, Jr., formerly of Florida, and recently of Rockmart, has sworn out a warrant for him before Judge Ridley, charging larceny.

Mrs. Acheson reached the city Monday night and at once appealed to the police for aid. She was advised to take out a warrant, which she did yesterday. So far her husband has not been apprehended, and Mrs. Acheson, hopeful in spite of her distress, is at a local hotel awaiting developments.

CENTENARIAN DIES.

Tom Miller Came of Long-Lived Stock.

Dublin, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Tom Miller, a centenarian, died at his home in this county a few days ago. The records of his age were lost when he was a small child. His third son is more than 70 years old, and there is every reason to believe that he was approximately 100 years of age at the time of his death. His mother died at the age of 115.

The days are growing shorter, yet the session will be long.

Keep cool. Warm weather and legislatures will pass away.

We shall need a quick cool spell to temper the legislative fires.

What fine field hands these early morning lawn-mower pushers would make!

Smash the thermometers in the capitol. It will be warm enough without them.

We now hear of "reasonable" trusts. Pretty soon they'll be using the word "righteous."

Unfortunately, there is no demand for coronation garments in the home pawn shops.

Hot waves recede, but the Georgia legislature promises to be the warmest number ever.

No harm done, since the graduates didn't get out in time to become legislative candidates.

Senators who do not need investigating are not proclaiming the fact from the housetops.

At least, the trusts are good enough to take their medicine when they can't dodge the doctor.

Whatever happens, it will cost Senator Lorimer but a trifle to give a banquet to his friends.

And sometimes the country goes wild over the celebration of the freedom it does not enjoy.

Would you call it a sane Fourth where a married man reads the Declaration of Independence?

Watch the Georgia legislature give congress points on how to get down to business and then work up to it.

Rumored that Colonel Bryan is making a new platform. Why not haul out one of the forgotten old ones?

They say that Colonel Roosevelt "has a candidate for president," but the Colonel is too modest to name him.

Of course, we can have an enjoyable Fourth without the insane Americans who blew in their cash on the coronation.

Missouri is so proud of Champ Clark she is afraid she wouldn't be believed if she shouted hallelujah in meeting.

President Taft will spend the Fourth in Indiana, but he will be well protected from the army of authors with odes to read.

"Life is worth living still," says Poet Alfred Austin. But he doesn't live it "still;" he is always twanging his tuneless harp.

The Washington Post speaks of "whales for food." No good; can't even swallow the big fish tales the boys are bringing home.

Notwithstanding the place has been thoroughly swept and garnished for the legislature, there are one or two hidden hornets' nests there.

Certain American authors who went to Europe to get a reputation, made their expenses by writing up the coronation for home papers.

The country needs the philosophy of the Dixie singer who warbles:

"At no thermometers I fret:
Old Worry slips his tether;
I plow the furrow straight, and let

AN OPENING WORD TO THE LEGISLATURE.

Today the general assembly convenes in its annual session of fifty days.

One of its most important duties will be, by one method or another, the election of a United States senator to fill the almost four-year unexpired term of Senator Clay.

The democratic state executive committee, in which is vested the supreme power of the party in this state, has denied to the people the inherent and established right to vote for their senator. The attitude is the more indefensible in that this particular committee is wholly composed of representatives of a campaign issue which time and again reiterated its solemn declaration that the choice of all officials should be brought closer to the people.

That principle was the ostensible shibboleth upon which the victories of the last campaign were won, and upon which this very legislature was elected.

Let us pass by the fact that the committee has, with deliberate choice, repudiated principle and pledge. The people of Georgia have long memories and the matter now leaves the committee's jurisdiction.

The issue is up to the general assembly. The sole hope of redeeming the honor of democratic Georgia rests with the duly chosen representatives of the people of Georgia.

A United States senator is to be elected for a term twice as long as the term of a governor or the term of a member of the national house of representatives—two offices the most impudent politician would not dream of striving to make other than popularly elective.

By legislative enactment, both national political parties now stand committed to popular election of senators, not only for full terms, but, explicitly, for ad interim vacancies.

For many years—four separate times, to be exact—the house of representatives had passed a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment providing for popular election of senators. Four separate times the senate had rejected the resolution. Meanwhile, national sentiment was becoming steadily irresistible.

It reached a climax at the current special session of congress. The first democratic house in sixteen years passed a resolution providing for popular elections for regular and, specifically, for ad interim vacancies.

It might have been thought this clean-cut enunciation of democratic policy would have reminded Georgia's committee of its oft-repeated pledge. It did not.

Another powerful evidence of public sentiment manifested itself. The senate, after four times refusing, finally accepted the resolution making its own membership popularly elective. By an overwhelming vote, it even accepted the house provision applying popular elections to ad interim vacancies.

National democratic policy is declared. National republican policy is declared. There is no doubt of sentiment wherever men think in this nation. Additionally, Georgia wet-nursed the principle of popular elections.

In the face of this unchallenged situation, Georgia, alone and solitary, stands blazoned as repudiating a principle abandoned even by republican reactionaries. The pitiable pretext that this is an ad interim vacancy is riddled by the fact that the nation has adopted the principle that ad interim vacancies shall be popularly elective.

Such is the situation upon the opening day of the general assembly. There is one last chance for democracy in Georgia to be redeemed from this perfidy.

That chance rests with the general assembly.

How it may be materialized is summed up in another column by J. C. Bennett, chairman of the democratic executive committee of Jackson county, who analyzes the situation with admirable clearness. In effect, he says to the legislature:

"The committee, the party's final tribunal, has betrayed the people. Democratic Georgia stands in danger of being held as a synonym for contempt in the nation. You are the representatives of the people of Georgia. It is in your power, if you choose to exercise it, to save the state from this blistering political disgrace."

The procedure is the simplest matter in the world, if the general assembly sees the light. This morning begins a fifty-day session. A short resolution calling upon the various counties to call a primary within thirty days, with the specific purpose of allowing the people to express their choice for senator, will solve the problem. That declaration at the ballot box will govern legislative action on the senatorship with the same binding force as the regularly established primaries, before the time when the pledge was made to "bring government closer to the people." Under the law, the general assembly must ballot on Tuesday, July 11, on the senatorship.

If the general assembly really wants to let the people name the senator, it can call this primary and comply with all the technical requirements of the law and the constitution by perfunctorially balloting pending the primary.

Pursuing a course of this nature, the legislature can be of genuine service to the people, from whose votes it holds power. It can perform an act of statesmanship in showing that it regards with due solemnity a sacred right inhering to the people of Georgia, but withheld from them by reasons best left unelaborated.

In Georgia and in party history there will be an exalted station for the legislature that so courageously performs a manifest public duty.

Failing in it, not one man who voted against such a resolution can defend his action before the people.

The Constitution can afford to thus strip the issue to the general assembly. With us it is not a matter of persons or candidates, but of principle. Our one selfish motive is that we gag at the prospect of having to attempt the defense of something that is indefensible.

Let the members of the general assembly, irrespective of faction, take these words to their minds soberly, advisedly, in full knowledge of the consequences of their decision.

SHAMELESS OFFICIAL NEGLECT SOMEWHERE.

A negro was taken from the hands of officers of the law early Tuesday morning in Walton county and lynched while on his way to trial. It would have been bad enough had the law been thus defied on the impulse of the moment, but under all the surrounding circumstances it may be safely said that no more flagrant outrage against the law was ever perpetrated in the state.

To add to the violence of the first offense, another negro charged with "loitering" was taken from the Monroe jail and lynched during the day.

When the victim, Allen, was first put on trial the governor was notified that a lynching would take place unless troops were sent to guarantee an orderly trial. Three companies of the state militia were sent to Monroe, but on account of a legal technicality it was found necessary to postpone the trial. The prisoner was brought back to Atlanta by the militia for safe-keeping in the Atlanta jail until a special term of the court should be convened to hear the case.

The judge of the court fixed June 27 as the date of the trial. From the very announcement that court was to convene in special session the air became full of rumors that the prisoner would be lynched when brought back for trial. Rumor assumed the proportion of open defiance, and more than two weeks ago there was not a man in Walton county who did not know that complete organization had been effected to lynch the prisoner when brought back for trial.

The judge of the court knew and openly declared that the negro would not be permitted trial without militia escort.

The sheriff of the county knew beyond the possibility of a doubt that the law would be openly defied and he so informed the judge, and yet this same sheriff refused to write even a line to the governor asking the protection of the law, with full knowledge of the fact that the governor was ready to respond at a moment's notice to a call for assistance.

The governor knew beyond any possibility of doubt that the lynching of the prisoner was probable if he permitted him to be sent for trial without military protection. But he held that he had no right to call out the troops after the sheriff had distinctly notified him that there was no need for such action on his part. He gave the sheriff every possible opportunity to call for executive assistance, which he felt could not be forced over the sheriff's attitude of apparent tranquillity.

Notwithstanding this full knowledge of the situation by every official, from the highest to the lowest, charged with the sacred responsibility of maintaining the law, two prisoners presumed to be in the safe-keeping of the state, and solemnly guaranteed a fair trial under its constitution, were OPENLY, WILFULLY AND DELIBERATELY SENT TO DEATH AT THE HANDS OF A MOB.

The Constitution does not undertake to fix the responsibility. It states the absolute facts—facts that should bring the blush of shame to every Georgian who believes in law and order. Somebody is responsible, and somebody ought to be held accountable, not only for the purpose of fixing the blame for criminal official indifference, but to prevent a repetition of such an outrage in future.

If officials in Georgia are going into the lynching business, it is time for those who believe in law and order to sit up and take notice!

RECIPROCITY'S CHANCES ENHANCE.

The Root amendment to the reciprocity pact, which would have gone far toward defeating the principle of the agreement, has been overwhelmingly defeated in the senate. Debate continues, with Boies Penrose, titular republican leader, striving to force a vote in less than a month, with good chances for success.

The curious and ironic feature of the situation is the inconsistent attitude of a few of the so-called republican "progressives." They are viciously attacking the pact, for local reasons, of course, and using every device to bring it to grief.

So rapid and kaleidoscopic are the shifts in the senate that prophecy is hazardous. But out of the ruck of uncertainties it begins to appear that the pact will be put through, after all steam has been blown off, by a wierd combination of progressives, regulars and democrats.

The main thing, so far as the democratic party is concerned, is that its senators should keep the record straight with the democratic house leaders. Prospects in this direction, in the majority of instances, are promising. Meanwhile, the element appearing to least advantage is that composed of the republican "insurgents." Making their original fighting ground tariff revision, they now loom as the chief obstacles to progress in that direction. The country is not likely to lose sight of this particular brand of stultification.

PUT THE "VAGS" TO WORK.

The Rev. J. W. Ham is to be commended for his excoriation of the evil of vagrancy in Atlanta, delivered last Sunday evening at the Baptist Tabernacle. The Constitution has often directed attention to this condition, not only in Atlanta, but the state-at-large, and urged stringent and persistent repressive measures.

The state has a comprehensive law directed at vagrancy, but it is honored rather in the breach than the observance. At spasmodic intervals, sheriffs in the various counties clap on the lid and either run the loafers out or put them to work. But it is not long before the problem is again on us in all its phases, and the whole thing must be done over again.

A systematic and unremitting enforcement of the law up and down Georgia would work a transformation in two respects: It would lower the crime rate and it would secure the building of many good roads in places where they are now badly needed.

The professional loafer, white or negro, has in him the germ of the criminal. He needs only the temptation and the opportunity to become one. In his most harmless aspects he is a parasite on every community, reaping where he has not sown and creating just one more crime-breeding source for the authorities to watch. Made a producer, instead of a drag, he would improve his own condition and add to the wealth of the state.

Sooner or later Georgia must face and solve this problem of the white and black vagrant. Homeopathic dabs at it are insufficient. The quicker we adopt a uniform, cooperative and rigorous policy, the better it will be for the vagrants and the state itself.

On the Hurricane-Track.

They're now in the country of summery joys:
Trot out the bills, and hurrah for the boys!
Bills from the mountain, an' bills from the plain,
Bills for dry weather, and Lord send the rain!

And don't you stand back,
For they'll go with a rush

Open the glorious meeting with prayer:
Make the acquaintance of Providence there.
Riddles to read and the lessons to learn

A Voice From Billville.

We hope the legislature won't interfere with our home-arrangements this session. Outside of a little nigh beer, we're so dry in this settlement that we have a man hired to pray for rain every day in the week. It is true there are seven moonshine stills in the county, but since the government can't catch 'em, it would be useless for the legislature to interfere, so we don't think we'll be bothered from that source—at least we're prayin' not to be. All we're askin' is to be let alone, and if they grant us that much we won't feel lonesome.

Nuggets by the Wayside.

It's a mighty good and patient world to meekly bear the blame for the troubles we make for ourselves.

If your faith is that Providence is running the weather, what's the use in praying for rain?

Once on the hilltop, some folks look so small that the folks in the valley can't locate 'em.

"THE SOLONS HOLD REPUTATION OF DEMOCRATS OF GEORGIA"

—Chairman Bennett.

Editor Constitution: I am a reader of your paper and admire the firm stand you have taken in the interest of the people in the matter of electing a senator for the next four years. When the present legislature was nominated and elected there was no issue as to who should be senator. Hon. A. S. Clay, who had been nominated and elected by the people, was the encumbent and in good health. For almost twenty years this custom has prevailed in Georgia. The United States senate has said by a vote of that distinguished body itself, 64 to 24, that it favors the people electing their members, even for unexpired terms. A partisan executive committee in this state has refused to call a primary, thereby saying the people cannot be trusted. Is this progression or retrogression? Is this bringing the government nearer the dear people or putting it further from them? Is not this course in direct contrast to the Macon platform of 1906 and the Atlanta platform of 1910?

Here is a suggestion that should solve the question: Let the legislature, when it convenes, exercise its sovereign right and call upon the various county executive committees to hold a special primary election, not later than July 20, 1911, in which the legally qualified democrats of Georgia shall say by their votes who is their choice for United States senator to fill the unexpired term of Hon. A. S. Clay, deceased. Let the result of such primary be certified to the chairman of the state executive committee and he in turn to the president of the senate and the speaker of the house. Then the man receiving the highest number of votes should be declared the nominee for senator, and the legislature should ratify the same by electing such nominee as senator.

If this plan is not a good one let somebody suggest a better one.

J. C. BENNETT.
Chairman Democratic Executive Committee Jackson County.
Jefferson, Ga., June 26, 1911.

(From The Athens Banner.)

Yesterday Mr. W. F. Whatley dropped into the reportorial room of The Banner office to bid a friend on the newspaper force goodby. "What are you going to do, Whatley?" some of the fellows asked him in the door. "I'm going to farm—that's what I've been training for," he replied quite as a matter of course.

And yet his career just ended in college and just begun in life is not "a matter of common course." He is beginning to establish a type. He is the sort of whom there ought to be a hundred just graduated from the State College of Agriculture this week. He is the forerunner and the pioneer of the great classes that will in the future years be turned out from the institution on Lumpkin Heights. With all deference to personal allusions, Mr. Whatley is of a fine south Georgia family; he is a splendid physical specimen of young manhood, clean and wholesome, rather handsome and certainly cultured; he is bright, and has had a much better than ordinary literary education as a broad basis for the specializing work he has done in the school of agriculture. He has now prepared for his work on the farm, and he is going back proudly to work on the plantation—an intelligent, practical man of agriculture, not a faddist or a theorist—a man who now knows the better and the best ways, and who has a love for and an enthusiasm in his work just as the lawyer or the artist, a call for his vocation just as the preacher and the poet.

There is not a man sent out from Georgia this week with the seal of the university upon him who stands for more than this young farmer. Something about the college career of Mr. William Fred Whatley, of Helena, Telfair county: He is a B. S. in the agricultural department. In literary society affiliation he is a Demosthenian of the Demosthenians; as touching his record, he joined the freshman class; he has been a private in company C; corporal in company A; senior color sergeant cadet corps; winner of the sophomore scholarship, 1908; winner of the junior scholarship in 1910; winner of the Empire State Chemical Company's prizes, first prize in 1908, second prize in 1909; winner of the trustees' prize in 1909; assistant business manager, local editor and editor-in-chief, in turn, of "The Georgia Agricultural Quarterly," the publication published every two months during the scholastic year by the student body of the college on Lumpkin hill. He is a splendid type of the kind of young men turned out from the agricultural college—practical farmer, polished gentleman, ready speaker, correct writer, knowing the theory and practicing it on the real farm in a real farm career under a new and better regime than the south has ever known.

NEW TRUSTEES NAMED FOR SOLDIERS' HOME

Governor Brown yesterday made public the appointments to the new board of trustees of the Soldiers' Home, their terms of office to last five years from December 21, 1911.

The board: First congressional district, Simon E. Theus, Savannah; Second district, John Triplett, Thomasville; Third district, A. C. Pate, Hawkinsville; Fourth district, R. A. S. Freeman, West Point; Fifth district, Frank M. Myers, Atlanta, succeeding W. S. Thomson, of Atlanta; Sixth district, C. M. Wiley, Macon; Seventh, R. DeT. Lawrence, Marietta, succeeding C. D. Phillips, of Marietta; Eighth, W. D. O'Ferrell, Athens, succeeding Thomas E. Winn, of Greensboro; Ninth, H. W. Bell, Jefferson; Tenth, C. E. McGregor, Warrenton, succeeding W. M. Dunbar, Augusta; Eleventh, A. P. Perham, Waycross.

With the exceptions named the members of the board succeeded themselves.

CITY NEWS

Rev. Bernard Smith Here.—Rev. Bernard Smith, former pastor of the West End Christian church, and now pastor of a church in Kingston, N. C., is in the city spending a few days. He will conduct the prayer meeting service tonight at the church.

Pool Balls Cause Arrest.—M. J. Roberts, a white man who tried to sell five pool balls to a Decatur street pool room keeper Monday night, was bound over yesterday by Judge Broyles under $100 bond for larceny from the house. He explained that he had found the balls in an alley, but Condy O'Donnell, of 125 Decatur street, identified them as having been stolen from his place last week.

Selected Some Socks.—Jim Buchanan, a young negro, chose a bunch of socks as his booty last Saturday night when he went into a department store and left with them on the double-quick. He was caught by a clerk and the goods recovered, and yesterday Judge Broyles sent him to jail to answer to a jury for the crime of larceny from the house, bond being fixed at $100.

Water Cooler for Playground.—In the recent announcement of arrangements for the seventh ward playground park, known as Dargan park, the land having been loaned for the purpose by Mrs. J. T. Dargan, an error was made in the name of the company furnishing the water cooler for the use of the children. The cooler was furnished by the Benscot Lithia Company, and it has proven an important and an attractive addition to the West End playground.

Check-Raising Charged.—For raising a Southern railroad pay check from $2.16 to $29.16, Arthur Woodward, a negro employed at the shops, was yesterday bound over by Judge Broyles for forgery under $500 bond. Woodward is said to have presented the check to A. N. Kaplan, a Mitchell street tailor, in payment for a suit of clother. Kaplan was told at the bank that it had been raised and had the negro arrested by an officer of the railroad.

International Socialism.—The socialist organization of Atlanta is congratulating itself upon the presence in the city of Claude Andrewes, one of its travelling members. Mr. Andrewes was a resident of Kentucky and toured that state during the exciting night-rider time as the socialist candidate for governor. The first socialist officials, one of them a woman, elected in the state of Ohio was seated as a result of his campaign work. He has been prevailed upon to deliver his celebrated lecture, "The Historic Basic of Socialism," Friday, June 30, at 8 p. m., at Red Men's hall, 86½ Central avenue.

Fly Screen Fine.—Disregard of the fly screen ordinance by various dealers who leave their doors open and windows up is being brought out at police court in cases tried there. L. Pazal, of 30 Fort street, faced the recorder on this charge yesterday and paid a fine of $5 and costs, and a few other cases have come up in the past. Since it was shown that the ordinance did not cover some of the most important points, fruit stands not being included in the places of business required to have screens, many dealers have taken to leaving their screens open. Judge Broyles is holding all such responsible as are brought before him.

Jealousy Causes Arrest.—After having twice been arrested on the same charge and for the same offense, J. T. Harris, a painter of 113 1-2 Capitol avenue, has been detained at police headquarters for disagreeing with Mrs. E. Randall, a boarding house keeper of 113 1-2 Capitol avenue. Early yesterday afternoon, it is claimed, Harris, spurred by jealousy, became engaged in a dispute with Mrs. Randall, who is aged 39 years, and at whose place he boards. He was arrested at the woman's instigation, and upon returning, resumed the row. The result was cases docketed against both, Mrs. Randall being given a copy of charges and Harris arrested. The exact cause of the dispute is not as yet known.

Church Picnic.—The annual picnic of the Avath Achim and Shareth Israel will be given at White City today. The Hebrew orphan children are invited. Mrs. J. Buchman and Mrs. J. Jacobs have generously provided ice cream, sandwiches and soft drinks for the children. The thanks of the Hebrew Orphans' home and congregations is extended to these two ladies for their benevolent work. Thanks are also extended to the management of White City park, who generously donated to the orphan home children all the amusements free of charge. This picnic is usually attended by about four hundred children.

Sick and Homeless.—Harry Carlson, a Swede, 24 years old, was found wandering about in an open field near the eastern part of the city early last night. He was brought to police station, where charges were docketed against him for idling and loitering. Carlson claimed his home address as Illinois, but said that he had been in Florida where he was working until overcome by malarial diseases. Being without funds, he was compelled to stop over in Atlanta on hies way to Illinois, and when arrested, was intending sleeping in the open field.

MANSION SITE IN DRUID HILLS

Commission Will Recommend Lot Owned by Preston Arkwright.

A site for the new executive mansion was selected yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the commission appointed from the legislature last year to submit a report to the legislature upon the disposal of the old executive mansion and upon a site for the new one.

The site which will be favorably recommended to the legislature by the committee is owned by Preston S. Arkwright, and is located on the corner of Ponce de Leon and Oakdale avenues, in Druid Hills. It is beautifully located, and is in a desirable section, and this, coupled with the fact that the price will not be exorbitant, led the committee to favor its purchase.

According to a member of the commission the price asked is in the neighborhood of $20,000, though he refused to name the exact amount. Forrest Adair, who is handling the deal, also declined to give any details until Chairman Davis, of the commission, was consented.

The commission will make its report to the legislature, which will afterward act upon the disposal and purchase of the old and new sites. The commission has no power to complete any deal, or to in any way agree to a deal, save to report it favorably to the legislature.

Mississippi Banks.

Jackson, Miss., June 27.—The combined resources of the state and national banks of Mississippi are $99,305,523.43, according to a statement issued from the state auditor's office today. This is an increase of $11,108,247 over the resources on the same date last year. The figures include statements from 342 state banks and thirty national banks. The banks are carrying individual deposits amounting to $54,334,153.14, an increase of $9,520,419.84 compared with the same date last year, which sets a new high-water mark in the financial history of the state.

8 NEW INMATES FOR FEDERAL PEN

Washington, June 27.—(Special.)—A party traveling in a special car over the Southern railway left Washington this morning for Atlanta and its destination was the United States penitentiary. There were eight men in the party convicted and sentenced for various crimes against the government, left in charge of Warden McKee and several guards. The prisoners are:

White—Frank Jefferson and Harold Weber, one year and one day each for grand larceny; George W. Taylor, two years, embezzlement.

Premiums by Firms.

J. K. Orr, president of the association, said that he thought the best method of giving subscriptions would be in the form of premiums in the names of the various firms. Half could be given in cash and half in the form of a prize for the various exhibits at the show.

The suggestion was quickly taken up and Ludden & Bates was the first company to offer a prize, a $300 piano.

The committee appointed to solicit further subscriptions from among the members of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association is as follows: A. C. McHan, C. J. Williamson, H. P. Wey, L. E. Floyd and H. M. Ashe.

"BRIGHT AND FAIR" WEATHER FOR TODAY

No Rain to Come for Several Days, Says the Weather Forecaster.

"The weather for Wednesday will be bright and fair," said Forecaster Von Herrmann, of the weather bureau, yesterday afternoon. "Today there are local showers throughout the southeast, but no general rains are reported anywhere in the south.

"The heat will probably be as annoying Wednesday as it was Tuesday, though I think it will go but little higher. I can see no real rain for several days to come.

THE LEGISLATORS ARE HERE.

"Did you think those frenzied citizens with the carpetbags and papers who were rushing so madly into and out of the New Kimball all day yesterday were South American revolutionists or dwellers in Brooklyn?" sighed the Gopher, as he leaned against a desk, vainly endeavoring to recover from the effects of bad cigars and "nigh-beer." "No, it was not that. Those citizens were merely members of the legislature preparing to elect a senator and to change the destiny of nations.

"You'll have to hand it to 'em, though, bo. There's sure some good scouts in that bunch, and believe me, it's the legislature for muh just as often as I can manage to recover from the 'night before' by the next night.

"Some of them may be wearing all kinds of curious hirsuite adornments, and most of them are strong on the slouch hat, but every member's heart is in the right place and they can have anything I've got."

DEATH OF V. L. MARTIN DUE TO PELLAGRA

He Was One of Pike County's Most Successful Planters.

Griffin, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—V. L. Martin died at the Griffin hospital at 2 o'clock this morning after an illness of seven weeks. He first had an attack of rheumatism, which developed into pellagra, causing his death. He had been at the hospital for some time.

Mr. Martin was one of Pike county's most successful planters. His home was at Milner and the remains were carried to that place this morning, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wilson and B. B. Brown. The funeral and burial will take place Wednesday morning.

The deceased was 38 years of age. He was unmarried and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Della Martin; two brothers, Joshua and J. C. Martin; two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Cauthen and Mrs. Bloodworth, all of Milner.

Odd Fellows' Picnic.

Macon, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—The annual picnic of the combined Odd Fellows' lodges of Macon will be given at Beach Haven on Friday, July 14. It is expected that several thousand will attend.

JUSTICE JACKSON RETAINS OFFICE

Judge Ellis Revokes Order Suspending Justice of Peace.

Following the recommendation of the grand jury, Judge W. D. Ellis yesterday ordered that Justice Robert R. Jackson, of the 1422d district, be suspended indefinitely from office, the suspension to be effective until the charges against the justice were heard and disposed of in the Fulton criminal court, but shortly after signing the suspension paper, Judge Ellis revoked the order against the magistrate, having learned that the charges were not formulated so as to warrant his suspension.

"So, for the present the order is revoked," said Judge Ellis, "because the grand jury in recommending the suspension of Justice Jackson, charged malfeasance in office, while the bill of indictment against him charges personal misconduct. Until the misdemeanor charges are heard in the criminal court, the suspension of the justice is not warranted."

The report of the grand jury stated that Justice Jackson had been indicted "for conduct unbecoming to the character of an upright magistrate," and recommended his suspension from office. Jackson was indicted in the true bill returned for the use of profane language.

Attorney William M. Smith, representing Justice Jackson, has demanded an immediate trial of the misdemeanor charges against Jackson, which means that they must be taken up within two terms.

General reports were also made by the grand jury on the Lynn case, and the locker clubs. In connection with the former the jury took occasion to report that they had made a most thorough investigation of the statement made in a published report to the effect that many of Atlanta's women were connected with Mrs. Lynn's establishment. Judge Ellis brought this clipping especially to the attention of the jury, and asked a comprehensive examination.

The jury says: "We have investigated this matter in a most thorough manner, and are unable to connect a single name with the alleged nefarious practises of Mrs. Lynn other than those named in the bills of indictment. We deplore such sensational publications, and declare the innuendo conveyed in the clipping to be utterly false, without any foundation in fact, and damaging to the fair name of our city and the unimpeachable character of our women."

A favorable report was made on all the locker clubs except the Union and Mechanics against which two bills of indictment have been returned, one against the club as an organization and the other against the managers.

DR. GARNER SEEKING FEDERAL PRISON PLACE

Washington, June 27.—(Special.)—Representative Howard received a call today from Dr. J. R. Garner, of Atlanta, who is a candidate for the position of physician at the United States penitentiary at Atlanta to succeed Dr. A. L. Fowler.

Dr. Garner intended to call on Superintendent of Prisons R. V. Ladow, but found that the latter was out of town and will not return until the latter part of the week. He has asked Mr. Howard to file his testimonials and letters of indorsement with Mr. Ladow.

Among the other candidates for the place of physician are Drs. J. Calvin Weaver, O. H. Mathews and J. D. Cobb. In addition to his work as physician this officer is also a member of the parole board of the prison.

KNIGHT, YANCEY & CO. LOSE 1,400 COTTON BALES

New Orleans, June 27.—W. S. Lovell, trustee for the bankrupt cotton firm of Knight, Yancey & Co., today lost the suit filed in the federal court against Isadore Newman & Son for the possession of 1,400 bales of cotton which were delivered to the Southern railway in March and April last year for shipment to European spinners.

In the testimony in this case, heard before Judge Rufus E. Foster, in the United States circuit court, it was shown that Knight, Yancey & Co., after selling 1,400 bales of cotton to European spinners, received payment for same on drafts attached to thirteen forged bills of lading. Later the cotton was delivered to the railroad company for shipment and the genuine bills of lading were suppressed. The court held that Knight, Yancey & Co., by suppressing the genuine bills of lading, gave evidence of their intention to allow the purchasers to claim the cotton on the false bills and the cotton therefore passed from their possession absolutely.

COLD DEAL GIVEN TO A GEORGIAN

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 27.—(Special.)—David Comfort, of Tifton, Ga., appeared before the house committee on expenditures in the postoffice department today to complain of the treatment accorded him by the department in his efforts to have tested a most meritorious patent tieing device he sought to have adopted by Uncle Sam.

The device was given a fair try-out in the Philadelphia office, and a warm letter of approbation was written by the postmaster of that city. Mr. Comfort visited the office personally and instructed the postal clerks in the operation of his device.

The department refused, however, to permit him to send a card of explanation with illustrated diagram along with the samples that went out to other parts of the country, and the men were left to work out the puzzle by themselves and did not care to bother about it. These reported adversely. Had he been given a fair opportunity to show the merit of his device, Mr. Comfort, formerly in the postal service himself, believes he could have convinced all postal clerks as he did those in the Philadelphia office that his patent was meritorious.

The postoffice department now spends $200,000 a year for tying twine and is also allowed an appropriation to test tying devices. Mr. Comfort estimates that his invention would save the department $75,000 a year. Furthermore, there would be a considerable saving in time.

Chairman Ashbrook announced this afternoon that on July 12 the committee would take up the famous case of the Lewis Publishing Company, of St. Louis. This was the case discussed recently in the senate by Mr. Davis, of Arkansas, who charged that Lewis was the victim of a conspiracy to destroy his publishing business and his property. This investigation will prove the biggest job the house committee has yet undertaken, but Mr. Ashbrook says it will be probed thoroughly.

moon," he said, "I called her by her pet name and said, 'Edo, if your affection for me is timid and does not prompt you to respond with ardor to my affections why bide your time.' Then I added, 'Edo, are you afraid of me?'"

Mrs. Gambier had said that her husband suffered from headaches a great deal during their honeymoon and Littleton asked him if he was subjected to headaches.

She Suggested Getting Drunk Together.

"I never had a headache in my life until I discovered that I was a party to a one-sided marriage," said Gambier. "I never took a powder for a headache even then."

Gambier said he renewed his advances when they reached Paris, but that his wife remained cold and impassive, and that was her attitude in The Hague, Amsterdam and Berlin. In Berlin, when he taxed her with her coldness, he said she suggested that they go out and get drunk together.

"I said to her that what she was doing was robbing us of the mutual affection that should be growing up between us, and then it was that I received the blow that shattered the whole thing.

"'I don't love you,' she told me; 'and I never did love you.' 'Then, why did you marry me?' I asked her, but she made no reply at that time. After that there was not much embracement, even on my part."

He Gave Her $200 and Left Her.

"Did she ever take back her statement that she did not love you, or attempt to explain it?"

"She never did. When we were returning home, and were within one day of New York, I talked with her for half an hour about her duties as a wife, and again asked her why she married me. During all this time she did not reply to any of my questions."

When they first reached home they lived at the Marie Antionette for a time, and then went to the Canoe Brook Club at Summit, N. J., and later returned to the Prince George hotel, where he left her. They had an hour's talk that morning, which resulted in Gambier's saying that nothing but unhappiness was staring him in the face. He gave her $200, shook hands with her, and then left. She did not shed a tear, he said.

Gambier admitted on cross-examination by VanWyck that he did not introduce his wife to anyone on shipboard, and that, although he could dance, he didn't ask his wife to dance with him.

"When did you make up your mind to physically disassociate yourself permanently from this lady?" asked Mr. VanWyck.

Knocking at Door of Her Affections.

Gambier couldn't remember, and VanWyck wanted to know if he "hadn't been knocking at the door of this young lady's affections for four or five years."

The witness said he hadn't. He said that when he was single his amusements consisted of going to theaters, seeing his friends, reading the newspapers, and staying at home. As to card games, he played euchre, pinochle, hearts, whist and canfield.

"Isn't solitaire your favorite game, as your wife said yesterday, the game you play most?"

"No; canfield is my favorite game.

"Canfield is a mighty interesting game for a banker," said VanWyck.

"He doesn't mean the Canfield you mean, judge" put in Littleton. "I should think he played hearts more than any other game in the past year."

Alcohol-Filled Bridegrooms of South.

"Tell us what you said to your wife about the alcohol-filled bridegrooms of the south," continued Van Wyck.

"I didn't say that. I told her I didn't want her to think of me as of southern men I had heard of, who were full of liquor on their wedding night. I got that from her father."

Gambier said that after he and his wife returned from the Canoe Brook Club just before he left her he consulted the matron of honor at the wedding and asked her for advice.

"She told me I had been too good to my wife, and said I ought to act more like an animal," he answered.

Van Wyck insisted that the witness recount all that was said and done on the morning of August 9, 1910, when they decided to separate.

Found Her Wearing Dressing Gown.

"I found my wife in her room wearing a dressing gown. She asked me about an electric iron that I was going to send her. Then I said, 'Edo, we have come to the parting of the ways.' She replied, 'The situation has been in your hands all the time.'

"I called her attention to the many times she had repulsed me and said:

"'Edo tell me why, if you didn't love me, did you ever marry me? She replied, 'My parents had supported me long enough; it was a question of my marrying or coming to New York to support myself, and that I didn't want to do.'

She Said He Was Old Woman.

"She told me that if I had not been an old woman and had been half a man, that we'd have come together.

"I told her it wasn't my fault."

Charles R. Symes, a stationer and friend of Gambier, followed him on the witness stand. He told of going with detectives on several occasions and following an automobile in which Mrs. Gambier was riding with her friend, Sickler.

Sickler said yesterday in the court room that he knew Mrs. Gambier and had gone about with her to some extent. He said he didn't know whether he would be expected to testify but he has been compelled to be on hand constantly.

The case may be concluded tomorrow.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

WITH THE TRAVELERS

N. F. Estey, of the Carolina Mill Supply Company, a former Atlanta traveler, arrives in the city today, and will spend three days of his annual vacation here. Saturday morning he leaves for Gainesville, his home, where he intends spending the remainder of the outing.

B. B. Braswell, of the Ulaca Company, is here for a few days.

Almost all Atlantans who attended the recent annual T. P. A. convention in Baltimore have returned. However, a few are visiting eastern cities of interest, but will be back shortly. Every delegate from this city, many of whom were accompanied by their families, report a glorious trip, and only registered one kick, that being the trip having been such a short one.

J. A. Cook, of Gainesville, a traveler well-known throughout Atlanta, and an officer on the G. T. A. staff, spent a few days in the city recently.

"An Atlanta traveler's spirit is contagious," recently said W. S. Lounsbury, of the Travelers' Bank and Trust Co., a man well-known in local traveling circles. "All of them are boosters, and what little time they are not giving a lift to the quality of their wares, they are eagerly 'dealing Atlanta dope' to customers, friends, strangers and a general collection of listeners. It is a well-known fact that Atlanta is known far and wide largely through consistent boosting of Atlanta travelers. And it can well be added that Mr. Lounsbury meets with no opposition in his views of the Atlanta traveler.

Ragland-Adair.

The marriage of Miss Leonora Ragland and Dr. Robin Adair was a beautiful event of yesterday morning, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Ragland, on Ponce de Leon avenue at 9:30 o'clock in the presence of close friends and relatives. The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. W W. Memminger, of All Saints' church.

The house was beautifully decorated with potted plants, palms and ferns effectively placed and with vases and bowls filled with pink roses and gladioli.

The bridal party stood before an altar of palms and ferns in the music room.

The bride entered with her father and was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. W. C. Gilmore, of Staunton, Va.

Miss Evelyn Ragland was her sister's maid of honor. Master Walter Dobbins, the young nephew of the bride, and little Miss Sarah Redwine, of Newnan, were the ribbon bearers.

The bride was charming in her going away gown of natural color pongee trimmed with brown satin and wearing a tan straw poke bonnet trimmed in brown velvet and tiny white roses. She carried bride roses and valley lilies.

The maid of honor wore white marquisette trimmed in Irish lace and her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony. The bride's table had for its centerpiece a large basket filled with Killarney roses, pink gladioli and ferns, the handle of the basket being tied with pink tulle. The bonbons, ices and cakes were in pink and white. Coffee was served in the library by Miss Sarah Powers.

Mrs. Ragland, mother of the bride, received the guests wearing a black silk mull gown. Dr. and Mrs. Adair left for Colorado and California and will also visit Alaska. On their return they will be at home at 518 North Boulevard.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. James Gilbert, of Columbus; Hon. T. T. Ragland and Miss Elizabeth Ragland, of Talbotton; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powers, Misses Eva and Sarah Powers, of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hines, Misses Ruth and Grace Hines, of Bainbridge; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Redwine and little Miss Sarah Redwine, of Newnan.

For Mr. and Mrs. Brumby.

Mrs. S P. Muse was hostess Monday evening at a very delightful dinner given at her home in West End in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence T. Brumby, whose marriage was an interesting event of the month.

The table had for a centerpiece a plateau of red and white begonias, red and white being the color used in the other details of the pretty table. The guests invited to meet the guests of honor were Mrs. C. C. Brumby, Dr. J. C. Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack V. Hayes, Miss Merle Hayes, Mr. J. J. Singleton, Mr. Austin Emerson and Mr. L. H. Muse.

Mrs. Muse was gowned in a black marquisette and Mrs. Brumby wore tan silk mull with touches of coral.

Heart-Dice Party.

A pretty compliment to Misses Julia Conn, Dessie Sudderth, Anne Russell, the guests of Mrs. Leo Sudderth, and Misses Lizzie Williams and Virginia Perrow, the guests of Miss Sue Haley, was the heart-dice party at which Mr. and Mrs. Sudderth entertained Friday evening.

The house was decorated with quantities of pink roses and ferns. The dining table had, as a centerpiece a cut glass bowl of pink roses surrounded by silver candlesticks holding pink silk shades. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the mints, cakes and ices. Punch was served during the game by Mrs. Sudderth. The prizes, a lace fichu and a necktie, were won by Miss Dessie Sudderth and Mr. Robert Shumate.

Mrs. Sudderth was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. James Robinson, and wore a white marquisette dress draped over white satin and painted in pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Robinson wore a white lingerie dress.

Latimer-Hilton.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Latimer, of Texarkana, Texas, announce the marriage of their daughter, Marie Ann, to Mr. James Harold Hilton, the wedding having taken place at the Church of the Incarnation, June 25.

Automobile Ride.

One of the enjoyable events of last week was a straw ride given by the F. T. C. last Saturday evening. The party was motored to Cascade Springs, where lunch was served, and later out Peachtree street nearly to Buckhead.

Those in the party were the Misses Wells, of Anderson, S. C.; Miss Una Bell Minor, Miss Aleyne Torain, Miss Theodore Hicks, Miss Marie Seitzinger, Miss Lillie Mae Squires, Mr. Henry Minor, Mr. George Pace, Mr. Lee Minor, Mr. Raymond O'Quin, Mr. Robert Gartrell, Mr. R. L. Holbrook, Mr. William Terrell, Mr. Roy Butler and Mr. Walton Bobo. Mr. and Mrs. Squires were the chaperons.

At. St. Simons.

Among the many Atlantans now at St. Simons Island, at the new St. Simons hotel, are: Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Horine, Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale and children, Miss Alice May Massengale, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Percy, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Akers, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Simpson, Judge and Mrs. Spencer R. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Duncan and children, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Harris and children and others.

For Misses Jones.

Miss Gertrude Carr Jones and Miss Laura Jones, of Selma, Ala., who are the attractive guests of Mrs. C. K. Ayer at her home on Myrtle street, are receiving many delightful social attentions while here. Mrs. W. T. McCullough will entertain at a box party tonight at the Lyric in their honor. Mrs. T. H. McRae will give an informal dancing party tomorrow night for Mrs. Ayer's guests. Miss Aimee Hunnicutt entertains at a matinee party Friday, and Misses Katie and Lillie Sturdevant entertained informally Monday night for them.

Wagner-Lanier.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jacob Wagner announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie, to Mr. William Clements Lanier, of Atlanta, the marriage to take place August 9, at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, Linden Court apartment.

Johnson-Nash.

The wedding of Miss Irene Mildred Johnson to Mr. Eugene F. Nash will take place at the Edgewood Baptist church this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Virgil Norcross officiating. Following an extended honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Nash will return to Atlanta where they will be at home to their many friends. Miss Johnson is an attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Johnson, of this city, and Mr. Nash is a prominent Atlanta business man.

For Visitors.

Miss Laura Wyatt entertained her bridge club yesterday afternoon in honor of her guests, Misses Winnie May and Fannie Hill, of Macon, and Miss Lois Crosby, of California, the guest of Miss Margaret Nutting.

Miss Edith Watts won the prize, silk stockings, for top score, and Miss Lois Crosby won the guests' prize, which was a blue enamel bar pin, and Miss Margaret Nutting cut the consolation, a gold hat pin.

For Bridal Party.

After the rehearsal at the church last night for the wedding of Miss Annie Dent Melson and Mr. James Ives Barton, which will be a pretty event of tonight, Misses Melson entertained for the bridal party and out-of-town guests at a buffet supper at their home in west end.

Buffet Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lowry Rockmore entertained last night at a delightful buffet supper at their home after the rehearsal for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruby Rockmore, and Mr. Grieve Ridley Harwell, which will be a pretty event.

The home was beautifully decorated, pink and white being the color scheme, and with palms and ferns. Mrs. Rockmore received the guests wearing a black marquisette over white satin.

Miss Ruby Rockmore wore white lace over blue satin with blue satin sash. Miss Irene Rockmore wore white marquisette hand-embroidered in blue.

Double Wedding.

A pretty ceremony was the double wedding which took place last night at the Central Baptist church at 8 o'clock, when Miss Lou Ouida Felts and Mr. Earl La Fayette Fowler and Miss Maureen Felts and Mr. Robert William Dowdy were married in the presence of a large company of friends. Rev. B. P. Robinson was the officiating minister.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns. Miss Eula Roberts, Miss Nina Hadley, Miss Virgie Dowdy and Miss Claire Booth were the bridesmaids and Mr. Joseph Little, Mr. S. D. Williamson, Dr. McClure and Mr. R. C. Simpson were groomsmen. The ushers were Mr. A. J. Boswell, of Penfield, Ga.; Dr. Maiden, Mr. W. K. Booth, Mr. William Adams, of Macon; Mr. Paul Roberts, of Atlanta, and Mr. S. P. Moncrief.

The brides wore white embroidered marquisette over white satin and carried white roses. The bridesmaids wore white marquisette over pink satin and carried pink carnations.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Mann and before the bridal party entered Miss Annie Lou Mann Culpepper sang a beautiful solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler and Mr. and Mrs. Dowdy left for Talulah Falls and the mountains of North Carolina.

Among the out-of-town guests who were present were Mrs. J. R. Boswell, Penfield, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Adams, Macon; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boswell, Penfield, Mr. M. L. Felts, Warrenton; Mr. Fowler and Miss Fowler, Cummings; Mrs. Ernest Neal, Calhoun; Mr. C. S. Davenport, Warrenton; Mr. E. P. Boswell, Penfield.

GEO. BOND ASKS R.F.D. CARRIERS TO SEND IN THEIR ANNUAL DUES

George Bond, secretary-treasurer of the Georgia R. L. C. A., has addressed a letter to the rural carriers urging them to send in their annual dues before the next Georgia convention in Atlanta next Monday.

The Letter.

The appeal follows:

"My Dear Brother Carriers: Our annual meeting of the Georgia Rural Carriers' Association is near at hand, and now as one more meeting will soon go down in history, why can't we all unite and make this the best and largest attended convention we have ever had?

"It has been some time since the convention convened in Atlanta and lots of the carriers are anxious to go to Atlanta. Anyway, send in dues to me before we meet there July 3-4.

"The dues are only $1.50 per year, and it does look to me that any carrier that wants to see the rural free delivery service reach its highest at an early date could pay this small sum into the treasury of the association to help bear the expense to assist the department in perfecting so great and grand a thing as the rural free delivery.

"I am just in receipt of a letter from President Lindsay saying that headquarters would be at the Kimball house and the convention would convene in its assembly hall.

"Among the most prominent men we are expecting to be with us, so far, is General DeGraw. Now, boys, you know you all want to see and hear this great big man talk to you about the rural free delivery business, and he can tell you something that you will never forget, besides he will send you home a much better carrier than you was before you left home.

"Other big men will be with us. Will let you come to see who they are, but you don't want to miss the general's address.

"Now in conclusion, to make a long story short, I hope every carrier who hasn't done so already in Georgia will send me $1.50 before July 1 for one year's dues. This will save a lots of time and worry, as I can't write all receipts at one time, so to be on an easy street, send in dues now.

"Hoping to meet over 600 brother carriers in Atlanta July 3-4.

UPSHAW SPEAKS TONIGHT.

Will Give "John and His Hat" at Southside Baptist Church.

Tonight at 8 o'clock William D. Upshaw, whose breezy speeches have caused him to be known as the "Georgia Cyclone," will deliver a lecture at the South Side Baptist church, Capitol avenue car line. Mr. Upshaw created great enthusiasm by his speech before the Social Union, and it is expected that he will be greeted by a great crowd when he delivers his famous lecture, "John and His Hat."

Dividend Is Passed.

New York, June 27.—Directors of the Chicago and Alton railway met today and passed the dividend on the preferred stock. The stock has been on a 4 per cent per annum basis.

THEATERS

(At the Lyric.)

Never before has dainty Miss Emma Bunting appeared in a role which gave her better opportunity to display her remarkable talent than that of the little California girl in "Pretty Miss Nobody," which is this week's offering at the Lyric. George Whitaker, the leading man, also has a role that affords him a chance to appear at his very best. The other members of the company have parts that are important to the working out of the plot, and an unusually entertaining performance is the result.

The play is produced in splendid fashion, the scenic effects being especially fine. Not a detail that makes for completeness has been ignored and "Pretty Miss Nobody" is given a decidedly metropolitan presentation. Miss Bunting selected the play herself and the favor that it has won at the hands of patrons of the Lyric is conclusive that she understands thoroughly the preference of Atlanta theatergoers.

NO RULE BY COMMISSION, SAY SPEAKERS AT THE GRAND

cil be requested to have the charter of the city of Atlanta amended by adding the following as a charter amendment:

"All laborers employed by the city shall be required to work eight hours a day; they shall not be required to work more than that time, provided, however, that this shall not apply to the fire department, and provided further, that in case of emergency all employees subject to this provision may be required to work extra hours, but shall be paid for such extra hours at the rate of one and one-half times the rate for regular hours.

"That all contracts and subcontracts shall be let by the city on the basis of eight hours work per day for the employees of said contractor or said subcontractor, with the provision that for any extra hours above said eight hours the men working for such contractor or subcontractor shall be paid one and one-half times the rate for one and one-halg times the rate for regular hours."

Judge George Hillyer presided, and before introducing the speakers he made a short talk in which reviewed the history of Atlanta under the present charter. In the course of his remarks Judge Hillyer said:

Judge Hillyer's Remarks.

Talk about abolishing the city council! I had rather see you make it forty or forty-nine councilmen, locally chosen, and responsible to their own constituents.

The people of the older parts of Atlanta are just and fair, though greatly excelling in numbers, they do not want any advantages, but they do demand equality.

Do you know that commission government has been long ago tried, right here in Georgia, every city in Georgia, practically, and found a failure? Read any charter in Georgia as it existed up to 1874, and if I am not greatly mistaken you will see that there was just one governing body in each, composed of a few men, with powers, in real essence, singularly like those that are now advocated by this movement for commission government; only, be it said, those old-time city fathers did not demand the gigantic and unheard-of $6,000 salaries that are now proposed. Nearly or quite every city, not only in Georgia, but anywhere around, broke down and lost its credit and defaulted on its bonds if it had any, and settled with their creditors at a discount or left them in the lurch. This was under the old wornout and discarded system of a single body or house or council like commission government.

What happened here in Atlanta? There was an annual deficit sometimes amounting to $100,000 or $200,000. A treasury nearly always empty. The policemen and other employees were often paid in city checks, which, as the best they could do, were usually sold to the brokers at a discount of 60 or 70 cents in the dollar or less. The city when she made temporary loans thought she did well if she could borrow money at 1½ per cent per month, or 18 per cent per annum; and her 7 or 8 per cent bonds could hardly be sold for 75 cents on the dollar. These evils went on in greater or less degree for years.

What did we do? I know all about it, for I was in the legislature as senator of this district, and introduced a charter in 1874 in that body.

"The charter of 1874 threw away absolutely the old despotic method of 'one-house' council; and adopted the present system.

"And what has been the consequence? The answer is, an undeniable success! The credit of the city at once began to improve!

Talk About Galveston.

"Talk about Galveston! If Atlanta had a harbor so that ships drawing 32 feet could come up to Whitehall, we would easily have had half a million free and happy people before now. Atlanta does not claim that she is perfect. She is willing for her charter to be amended and improved as the times require. Indeed, she demands, and insists, that it shall be revised and improved, and brought down to date.

"She has no beds of coal, or ore or minerals at her gates; no navigable river or fine harbor—nothing but her brazing mountain air; her splendid people, and the wise principles of her charter."

Councilman Chambers Speaks.

Below is given a synopsis of the remarks by the other speakers.

Councilman Aldine Chambers discussed particularly what Atlanta was doing under the present charter, and he said:

"My opposition to commission government is inherent and fundamental. I believe it undemocratic and it is certainly not representative. It undertakes to abolish ward lines, but gives no guarantee that it will not be sectional. I fear the result of such elimination would give sections inhabited by influential citizens an advantage over others that would be unfair and unjust. Experience affords ample ground for this apprehension.

"My objections to the particular charter proposed by our commission friends cover more ground than those generally against commission government. A great many words are used, but very few new ideas, and no improvements suggested to our system. In fact, they denounce our system as cumbersome, containing lost motion, and unwieldy, and yet re-enact it in almost every detail.

"But my business is to tell you something of our system; the method that now prevails in our handling of affairs. In the first place, our June apportionment shows an expenditure of a little more than $4,800,000, about four-fifths of the income of the state. Since this paper was adopted, we have sold more than $800,000 additional bonds, and now our income and expenditure will exceed $5,500,000, or if we had five men to handle it, $1,100,000 each.

"All of our bond money is going to permanent improvements, and on this sheet you can find every item of income and every item of expenditure, even to the pay of the mayor's stenographer. This system has prevailed for years, although our commission friends would have it appear entirely new and of their devising.

"They call for monthly statements from the comptroller showing income and expenditure. I exhibit to you here the statements which he has this year made to council, not monthly, indeed, but semi-monthly, and each one contains the amounts paid out, the number of the voucher, the department from which it issued, the name of the party receiving it and the amount.

"What I want now to say is that we have added last year and this $3,000,000 to our capital stock, and that in doing this, we have so far been obliged to provide nearly a half million dollars increased appropriations on account of maintenance and equipment not allowed out of the bond money, and this we have provided with but slight assistance from increased income from bond investments while the construction work is going on. In three years we have provided a sliding scale of pay which increases the compensation of policemen and firemen from $75.00 to $90.00 per month. Our school teachers have all received material increases, some of them from $40.00 to $60.00 per month. The laborers in all departments have been increased from 10 to 20 per cent. All these things were in favor of the people who actually do our work. We have been very careful about increasing the pay of the heads of departments, so that now we have the most competent and efficient heads of departments with the smallest salary, as a rule, of any southern city in our class. We may have followed a mistaken policy in paying the men who do the work, but I don't believe it.

"Notwithstanding the enormously increased expense we have had to meet out of our ordinary income, we have managed this year to use 25 per cent of that income in permanent improvements, and if you add the assessments paid by the property owners, it will increase this percentage to more than 30.

"The total bonded indebtedness of the city of Atlanta, outstanding and authorized, is $6,800,500. Against that in the sinking fund, we have $1,079,900.00, leaving a net total indebtedness of $5,721,500.00.

"I might take up one department after another, and I state without fear of successful contradiction, and I once again challenge the gentlemen composing the committee having in charge the proposed commission government, to appoint a committee or to come collectively to the city hall and take up item by item the city's method of transacting its business, and I confidently assert that if they will do so, instead of repeating the charges of inefficiency, lost motion and an antiquated system, that they will be dumfounded at the results obtained, and will then admit that so far from Atlanta's system of transacting its business being behind commission government, that all the cities which have adopted commission government, can, by taking lessons from Atlanta, improve their own systems, even with commission."

Remarks by Mr. Kilpatrick.

Hon. J. D. Kilpatrick confined himself mostly to a criticism of the proposed charter for a commission government. He said, in part:

"The commission government proposed for the city of Atlanta gives to five men the absolute power to make all of the laws and to have these laws interpreted by a creature of their will, and then execute these laws. My objection to this part of the proposed charter is radical and fundamental. The history of the past admonishes me that in the end such unlimited powers are bound to be abused. I am fully persuaded that God Almighty never made five men wise enough, good enough, just enough, considerate enough, to be worthy to hold within the hollow of their hands the destiny of one hundred and fifty thousand people. Let the laws be made by a separate, distinct and independent body, and then let these laws be interpreted by an independent judiciary, and when these things are done I do not object to giving to the executive authority large and practically unlimited powers of execution.

"Section ix of the act provides that a commissioner shall hold no other office of a civil nature; but, strange to relate, a commissioner is made the judge of his own acts, and the commission itself must declare the vacancy before such vacancy can legally exist.

"Section xxiii of the act gives the commission the right to declare a vacancy whenever a commissioner without approved cause is absent from three successive meetings of the commission, and then gives the remaining commissioners the right to fill the vacancy thus created. A commissioner who opposed the schemes and wiles of the other four could very easily be deposed under this clause in the charter, and his place filled by someone who would be submissive to the wishes of the other four.

"Section xxvii gives the commission, as a whole, the right to remove a commissioner from one department of the government and place him at the head of some other department. In other words, the power is given the commission to take a man who was elected a commissioner by the people because of his peculiar knowledge and fitness in civil engineering, and place him over some department that he did not understand.

"Section xxviii practically makes one commissioner the sole tax assessor.

"Section xii does not fix any definite term of office for the city clerk.

"Section xiii of the act does not fix any definite term or salary for the recorder.

The recorder will stand constantly reminded that his decisions must be in accordance with the wish of the commission or else he may be supplanted by some other person who will conform to the will of the commission. Such a proposition as this has never been countenanced in the English-speaking world since the days when a corrupt and tyrannical king used the brutal and beastly Jeffries to work his corrupt purposes.

"Even such officers as the city engineer, marshal, treasurer and city attorney hold their office for no definite time, but only at the will of the commission, and such are the provisions of section xiii. of the act.

"Not satisfied with these unlimited powers, section xliv. of the act further provides that the commission shall have the right to create such additional offices and to fix such compensation as the commission may deem best. Neither the congress nor the state legislature has been clothed with such unlimited power. Five commissioners are authorized to do that which the people heretofore have reserved to themselves the sole right to do.

"My next objection to the proposed charter grows out of the provisions of section xlv. It will be noted that this section puts no time limit upon the life of franchises granted. In my opinion no franchise ought to be granted whose life shall be longer than thirty-five years.

"My next objection to the proposed charter is predicated upon the provisions as to the iniative, the referendum and the recall. There can be no referendum except at the wish of the commission. There can be no recall of measures, the recall being limited to commissioners only. Only one election can be held within any given six months. It may be that the iniative and referendum and the recall are good things in and of themselves, but the iniative, the referendum and the recall provided by this proposed charter is a delusion and a snare."

What Judge Candler Said.

Judge John S. Candler spoke as "a representative of the city government," and he said in part:

"I make no apology for anything this city has ever done. I am proud of and satisfied with all she has done. We rose from the smoke of Sherman's army and have grown and prospered. For forty years we have had not a single municipal scandal and no city on the face of the earth can show a better record. We appeal to the legislature to let us have local self-government. We have ten wards and each ward has two councilmen; we have a higher house in an aldermanic board; then we have a chief executive—all to be voted on by the entire city. With a white primary the people select those whom they want to represent them.

"The very first basis and principle of our government is no taxation without representation. Yet the personal guests of a very clever fellow want our government to be turned over to five men. They say we can vote for the five. Oh, yes, we will only get one lick at them and that will be the first.

"Those five commissioners will divide up with 3 against 2 and the 3 will rule. When you try to recall them you will have to wait six months. We are learning wisdom from poor Montgomery. You let five or three men get hold of the city government and they will keep themselves in power until death.

"We are not a Galveston or a Darien. We are just a lot of plain white folks who own a city that is a credit to our state and our country."

Speech by Judge Hines.

In the course of his remarks, Judge Hines said:

"I am opposed to the commission form of government; and I shall briefly state my objections to the plan.

"The people of Atlanta have the right to change the form of their city government, whenever it fails to fulfill the purposes for which it was created. For with us, all government is based upon the consent of the governed.

"But while we have this right, it ought to be exercised with great care and caution.

"What is the matter with the present government of the city of Atlanta? I have lived in Atlanta for more than two decades. During all that time, I have been proud of our great city and our municipal government. The latter has been singularly free from scandal, graft and corruption. During all that time, our city government has been the best and cleanest city government in the state, yea, in the United states.

"It has been said that nepotism has been displayed in the selection of the city employees. This is no reason why you should abolish your present government.

"It is further charged, that we are afflicted with ward politics under our present system. I do not deny the existence of politics in our municipal government, for wherever government has existed since the days of Adam, you will find politics.

"It is proposed to abolish ward politics by abolishing the wards; and they are going to supplant ward politics by city politics. The disease is now local. It affects the body politic in spots. The new plan will spread the disease over the whole body politic.

"Do gentlemen dream that they can abolish ward politics by statute or ordinance? If they do, they are woefully mistaken. It can't be eradicated in that way.

"The remedy is for the people to take more interest in their city government, and see to it that their public servants are faithful to the public weal and welfare.

"It is objected, that the present system is too unwieldy, that the present boards are too large, and that it takes too long to accomplish results.

"In view of this large population and the magnitude of its municipal affairs, the council and its boards are not too large.

"It is charged that the city government is not conducted on business principles, and it is urged that business principles should be applied in the conduct of the affairs of the city.

"In the first place, this charge is not well founded. The government of the city of Atlanta is run upon strict municipal business principles.

"In the second place, the business of a city ought not to be run in strict analogy to a business corporation. The business corporation is run to make money. The city government should be run to make men.

"Speaking for myself, I am opposed both to the commission form of government and any revision of the charter of Atlanta, which will reduce the number of its aldermen and councilmen, and especially any revision which will lessen the popular branch of the city government. I believe that there is both safety and wisdom in a multitude of counselors.

"Atlanta is on trial. Her city government was about to be convicted of high crimes and misdemeanors when it was not guilty. The people are becoming aroused over the situation. They are exercising their sober second thought, and when they render their verdict you will hear the death knell of commission form of government."

About "Tax Dodgers."

Councilman John E. McClelland said in part:

"I am not here to tell you all I know about taxes, for if I did, either I would be run out of town or a lot of other folks would."

He gave some instances in which he said that people were dodging taxes. He stated that the present city government was determined to have an equalization of taxes, and it was the tax doddgers who were behind the movement for commission government.

On Atlanta's Record.

Ex-Councilman B. Lee Smith, in a brief speech, declared that Atlanta had the cleanest, the best and the most honest government of any city on the face of the earth.

William M. Smith started off by saying that "ex-Mayor Robert F. Maddox was not now a citizen of Atlanta, as he had moved into a country home on a fine boulevard, which had been built for him by a county which was ruled by a commission."

He jumped on the county board and said it was enough to put anybody against a commission government.

"They say our present government is too unwieldy," he said. "Of course it is too unwieldy for certain interests to easily control."

He said that two of the commission committee were corporation lawyers, and that one of them, Charles T. Hopkins, and Luther Still, the only working man on the committee, almost came to blows."

Mr. Smith stated that the commission committee paid William Jennings Bryan $250 to come to Atlanta to speak for a commission government.

He exhibited a copy of a Houston paper and said it contained a full page expose of the failure of the commission government written by one of the commissioners.

He said that commission government had failed in Galveston and Des Moines, and citizens had resorted in the latter city to injunctions to stop the graft and corruption.

VIEWS OF C. T. LADSON ON COMMISSION FORM

Hon. Charles T. Ladson, who was to have been one of the speakers at the charter revision rally last night, after asking that he be excused because of impaired health, wrote the following letter, which was read by the chairman:

"I am in thorough sympathy with the objects of such meeting, sincerely believing that the charter revision movement will prove vastly better, in the long run, than the plan or system commonly called 'commission government,' put forth by the committee of five as the proposed charter of our city. This conviction of mine is stronger because reluctantly arrived at, by reason of the fact that I have a very high admiration for the personnel of such committee of five and for the many excellent public-spirited citieznS favoring such commission plan; but, for the life of me, I cannot distinguish between this so-called 'commission government' plan and the bureaucratic system, which has been the bane of the autocratic and monarchical governments of Europe. I also regard the same as a dangerous attempt to create the one body (combination legislative and executive powers) as against the two-body system of government, adopted by our forefathers after much travail and much disputation and trying-out more than a century ago.

"I cannot escape the belief that this old bureaucracy system, paraded under the new and fanciful name of 'commission government,' is the most insidious and dangerous assault that has ever been made upon our representative form of government, which representative form of government, as I understand it, is a golden mean between the government of kings and autocrats, and the impractical scheme of those who believe that the people, in the mass, without 'select men' or chosen representatives can wisely frame and have executed the many technical laws made necessary by our complex civilization.

"I am not prepared to believe that our representative form of government has proven a failure. This attempt to vest the power, legislative and executive, to control the affairs of our great city, in one body composed of five men, however upright, patriotic and able they may be, with the doubtful and largely untried checks of the initiative, referendum and recall, will not prove, in my humble judgment, ultimately successful, and I believe that the checks and balances sought to be retained in the charter revision plan, lopping off as it promises to do unnecessary impediments in reducing boards, committees, etc., is vastly preferable.

"These attempts to frame municipal commission charters by writing therein multitudinous legislative provisions in an endeavor to frame laws for all sorts of contingencies in an attempt to curtail the powers of commissioners, is radically unsound, and in the teeth of the highest and best authorities on municipal laws. A charter, as its name implies, should be simple and succinct, carrying merely basic fundamental provisions, leaving to the two-body city council to frame necessary laws as exigencies arise. See the proposed charter of the committee of five, able and patriotic as these gentlemen are; it is shot through and through with grave imperfection, as will doubtless be pointed out by the speakers of the evening—showing, only too plainly, that the whole scheme of commission form of municipal government is utterly unscientific and wrong from beginning to end.

"Healthy unrest is to be desired in our civic life. Reforms are quite often synonomous with true progress. The world cannot stand still. He who would blindly inveigh against reforms and reformers does not read aright the signs of the times. Ultra-conservatism often spells stupidity. But there are wise limits to reforms and reformers. The whole country seems now on a wild jamboree. There is too much hysterical hullaballoo, rhapsodic rhodomontade and perfervid flub-dub. Even great cities are exploited by shrewd, though well-meaning advertisers, as tails to their business kites. It is high time to call a halt. Let us not get too frenzied in this important behalf. Let us hold fast to that which the wisdom of the ages and lamp of experience have shown to be good and worthy of acceptation.

"Such are my honest convictions, at least, and I shall esteem it my civic duty to vote against the proposed commission charter if an election should be called thereupon.

"Very sincerely yours,

"C. T. LADSON."

CHILDREN MUST NOT WORK IN FACTORIES

On condition that her minor children are, under no circumstances, to be allowed to work in the cotton factories, Mrs. Eula Key was yesterday awarded the custody of the seven children for whom the father, W. T. Key, sued out a writ of habeas corpus.

Four of the children, however, are lying in the tuberculosis sanatorium, the prey to disease, and these, the judge said, are to stay in the hospital until they are quite cured. Then the question may be taken up again.

The eldest daughter, who expressed a desire to remain with her father, was allowed to do so, but the four who are ill with tuberculosis and three other little ones are to be in the mother's custody.

"It is just a case of too many children with parents who are too poor to properly provide for their needs," said Judge Pendleton in commenting on the case.

The father lives in the country and was poor, so the mother picked up and left, taking the seven children with her. Some of them she placed at work in the cotton mills and she herself went to work to support herself and the children.

7,000 TAX RETURNS HAVE NOT BEEN MADE

Only three days more are left for people to make their tax returns, and Tax Receiver Armistead says that about 7,000 people have failed to make their returns. The books will close on the last day of June, and those who have heretofore neglected to return their property are urged to do so at once. Further delay will not only add greatly to the inconveniences of those who are receiving the returns, but it will also be disadvantageous for those who come in at the very last minute, as long waits will be unavoidable.

NO COMMISSION FOR MACON CITY

Considerable Opposition Makes Change in Government Very Unlikely.

Macon, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Despite the fact that the mayor and council have authorized a mass meeting, and the chamber of commerce has called another, both for the same purpose, it is now conceded by those in authority that Macon will not have a commission form of government this year, if at all.

Considerable unexpected opposition from influential sources has recently developed, and it is certain that any further attempt to change the local system of municipal regulation will bring on a determined fight. The further fact that none of the representatives from this county now plan to introduce a bill authorizing the change makes it practically certain that the project will not be consummated for some time.

NEGRESS HELD FOR KIDNAPING

Charged With Carrying Pauline Thompson Away to Knoxville.

Marietta, Ga., June 27,—(Special.)—At Judge B. V. Greer's court this morning Essie Traylor, alias Hendon, was bound over to the superior court under a bond of $1,000, and in default of it she went to jail to await the meeting of the grand jury in July.

This is the negress who is charged with assisting in kidnaping Pauline Thompson and carrying her to Knoxville, Tenn., last week. The Thompson girl herself was held under a bond of $250 as a witness in the case against the Traylor woman.

At the same sitting of the court J. N. Adams was bound over under bond of $150 for assault and battery on the person of Bob Dobbs.

BOOK ADOPTION OCCURS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

American Book Company, of Atlanta, Awarded Largest Proportion of Business.

The state board of education of South Carolina, which includes in its membership a number of the ablest educators of the state, has just awarded contracts for the supply of textbooks for the public schools for the next six years. The American Book Company received the greatest proportion of the business. There were thirty-six companies bidding and nineteen received contracts. The entire sales in the state during the six-year period of the contracts are variously estimated at from five hundred thousand to one million dollars. Several other Atlanta firms received awards, among them being Ginn & Company, D. C. Heath & Company, The MacMillan Company, World Book Company, and others. These companies all have depositories in Atlanta and it is from this point that most of their books are supplied throughout the southern states. The state of South Carolina is in the territory of the Atlanta branch of the American Book Company, managed by J. Van Holt Nash and Robert Stafford Nash. Following is a partial list of the awards:

SHERIFF W. B. STARK.
Of Walton county, who puts responsibility of lynching up to Judge Brand.

THIRD LYNCHING IS THREATENED

Judge Brand Warns Sheriff Collier to Protect a Jefferson Negro.

Athens, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Sheriff Collier, at Jefferson, Jackson county, was warned tonight by Judge Brand to be in readiness to carry Tom Webster, colored, in jail and convicted of assault on a white woman at Hoschton, to a safe place.

The sheriff assured the judge that he can protect the prisoner in the Jefferson jail and will not move him.

Judge Brand was advised by solid citizens just from Monroe that the mob had determined to visit Jefferson in the adjacent county tonight and take a third victim to task.

COMMERCIAL CONGRESS GOES TO NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., June 27.—Nashville gets the 1912 convention of the Southern Commercial Congress. Secretary E. S. Shannon, of the board of trade, received a telegram from Clarence J. C., stating that the executive committee had unanimously decided to hold the next annual convention in Nashville.

It is expected that the convention will bring some 4,000 or 5,000 visitors and del to have been opened in the superior court.

Lynching Was Inevitable.

Tonight there is not a resident of Walton who now denies that he knew, or at least, felt reasonably sure that Allen would be lynched if an effort to land him in the courthouse here was made without the presence of a strong military guard. So emphatic and general is that declaration that it seems impossible to believe that a call upon the governor for a military guard for Tom Allen in transit was not made.

When Allen was brought hither two weeks ago, accompanied by the battalion of state militia, the presence of soldiers irritated and irked the people of Walton and adjacent counties, especially from that section wherein Mrs. Knight resided. Since the soldiers went away it has been openly asserted and generally believed that a conflict at that time was only prevented because of the great body of soldiers and their efficient work. As it was, clashes at two points were prevented only in the nick of time.

Brand Denied Calling Troops.

When Judge Brand discovered the inability of the assailant's victim to come into court and postponed the trial until Mrs. Knight's physical condition should improve sufficiently, he pacified the somewhat turbulent gathering by an address in front of the county courthouse. In that speech Judge Brand stated that he was not responsible for the presence of the state troops and congratulated his hearers upon the conservatism and peacefulness of the people of his judicial district. Publication of what Judge Brand said that day produced from him cards in public prints denying certain statements accredited to him.

Since the adjournment of the Walton superior court at that time and Judge Brand's open declaartion that he would again convene the court in special session to try Tom Allen as soon as Mrs. Knight's physical condition would warrant her presence in the court room, speculation has been rife as to whether troops would be used to bring the negro back. It was Sheriff Stark who made the request upon Governor Brown for state troops upon the former occasion, and for this he has since been freely criticised by his political enemies.

Sheriff Is Censured.

Realizing that he was being censured for requisitioning troops at that time Sheriff Stark took counsel with friends and not long ago let it be generally known that if troops came with the negro at the next time that they would come upon the request of someone other than himself.

The prevalent impression in this section is that only a judge or a sheriff can ask a governor for a military guard in time of danger. The sheriff having announced that he would not call upon the governor, focused attention upon Judge Brand, caused his every utterance touching the case to be watched with absorbing interest.

Interest Quickens.

Interest in the situation quickened two weeks ago tomorrow when Judge Brand issued an order directed to the officers of the Walton superior court, Sheriff Stark included, under date of June 15, to make ready for a special term of court to be convened in the court house at Monroe Tuesday, June 27. That order provided for civil as well as criminal business.

In Judge Brand's order to the sheriff he directed that the jurors who served at a previous session of the Walton court be summoned and that all witnesses necessary to the conduct of the called session of June 27 be subpoenaed. The final paragraph of the order to Sheriff Stark advised that officer that the criminal case against Tom Allen, charged with rape, would be called. The order directed the sheriff to have Allen in the court house at Monroe at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, June 27, to make answer to the indictment returned by a grand jury in May last.

No Reference to Troops.

Nothing was said in the order touching the transfer of Allen from the Fulton county to the Walton county court house. No reference was made to troops or to the character of the guard. The form of the order was legal. It was the form generally properly used under similar condition.

Sheriff Stark, it is stated, did not make a secret of the contents of the judge's orders to him, but he acquainted all who cared to know with the exact verbiage of that order. That order, as Judge Brand had sent it, put the transfer of the prisoner up to the sheriff. It made it discretionary with Sheriff Stark to requisition the governor or use his own force of deputies and bailiffs as he saw fit. The order made it evident to all who read it—and there were few in this section who did not have the chance to read it—that Judge Brand did not wish to stand sponsor for a military guard for Allen should the militia show a face in Atlanta.

Judge and Sheriff at Odds.

The order and the results of the troops' presence in May strained the relations between Judge Brand and Sheriff Stark. The situation became acute and it was in no way blunted by the letter from the sheriff to Judge Brand acknowledging receipt of the judge's orders. That letter from Stark to the judge was evolved after a hard study on the part of the sheriff and his warm personal friends and trusted advisers. In Stark's reply he informed the judge that he would essay the transfer with his deputies and bailiffs.

The next day, June 23, Judge Brand made answer to Stark's letter in which he denied that he was acquainted with the conditions existing in Monroe.

Governor Brown's Letter.

The mail bringing to Stark Judge Brand's letter of June 23 brought to Stark a letter of the same date from Governor Brown. Governor Brown, after telling Stark that Allen was at that time confined in the Fulton county jail, asked Stark pointedly whether he (Stark) would call upon the executive for the use of troops. Governor Brown quoted for the sheriff's knowledge and benefit section 1434 of the state code. He requested the sheriff to give him abundant notice if he contemplated asking for troops so that the soldiers might be easily prepared for the trip. In his letter of June 23 to the sheriff the governor said in his closing paragraph:

"I am further constrained to call your attention to the matter in question because of a conversation I had with Judge Brand last Tuesday, in which he (Brand) expressed the opinion that the negro would be lynched if he and the court are not protected by the military." Governor Brown closed his letter by telling the sheriff that he had written by the same mail a similar letter to Judge Brand at Athens.

The Sheriff's Reply.

Sheriff Stark's letter to Governor Brown replying to the governor's inquiry, put at rest for the time being at least any doubts as to Allen's safety as the sheriff saw the existing conditions.

That was the condition of affairs here oMnday when Sheriff Stark, accompanied by five of his select and trusted deputies, started for Atlanta to bring back to Monroe Tom Allen.

here Monday when Sheriff Stark, acwas in almost constant wire communication from his hotel in Atlanta with his chief deputy, John Gibson, located at all hours of the day in his office in the court house within a step of the telephone.

Longed For the Troops.

Throughout the day Stark's friends were hopeful something might occur to cause the governor to call out troops. They knew if the negro came without a military guard he would never reach Monroe. They felt confident that he had done all he could, that he had placed Allen's life in Brand's hands. They knew that if the sheriff asked for troops the appearance of soldiers here would mean the sheriff's absolute ruin.

They knew, too, that if the sheriff attempted to bring Allen through with his limited guard that the negro would be lynched beyond all doubt, even had the mob found it necessary to reach the negro over the dead bodies of the sheriff and deputies. Of the sheriff's complete and absolute inability to deliver the negro none had the slightest doubts and yet they feel sure Stark had done all he could and that the judge would be to blame if the negro was lynched.

Brand's Reported Conversation.

Supporting their contention that it was Brand's place to call for troops, Stark's friends here quoted and repeated a declaration Judge Brand is said to have made a few days ago in Athens. During commencement Judge Brand advised an old friend that Allen would be lynched if he were brought back without a military guard. Judge Brand's friends repeated that declaration to Governor Brown. The governor sought the judge to verify. Judge Brand then repeated to the governor what he had said to his friends, emphasizing to the governor his previous statement that only a heavy military guard would safeguard the negro in Walton county. It was that conversation between the governor and the judge to which Governor Brown referred in his letter of June 24 to the sheriff. It is public property here—that talk between the governor and the judge in Athens during commencement week, as are the names of all parties taking part in that conversation in Athens.

Tonight Judge Brand's friends here are throwing the blame on Sheriff Stark for not asking the governor for troops. These say that the sheriff's failure to request of the governor troops makes the sheriff responsible for Allen's death. Stark's friends argue from the same angle to charge the judge with the negro's death.

Take Your Choice.

"It's a case of look at what you've read and take your choice to side with sheriff or the judge. In this case, however, nearly all of the evidence has been reduced to writing and has been committed to the strong boxes in a couple of big iron safes in Monroe. What is behind a combination back in Athens is not known here.

That Allen had been lynched was made known here before sunrise by one of the deputies who had been "cuffed" with the prisoner as he came into town from the scene of the lynching. Stories of that lynching are gruesome and revolting in the extreme.

Before 9 o'clock this morning all officers of the court were present for the called session, but Judge Brand did not appear upon the scene and as there was no judge present there could be no court. So far as I have ascertained and I have talked to a great number of people, no one in Monroe has received any kind of a message from Judge Brand.

The Mob Gathers.

Anticipating the arrival of the negro from Atlanta, ruralists from every section of this county and from Gwinnett, Jackson, Oconee, Morgan, Newton and Rockdale counties began pouring into the city of Monroe early yesterday morning. The stream of inflow never stopped throughout the day and Monday night there were over a thousand strangers in the city.

Long guns and exposed pistols were inevidence and open were the declaration that not even the presence of militia would stop those wanting to lynch the negro.

This morning the crowd was larger than ever. Late last night it became known that Stark was coming to Social Circle with the prisoner and would attempt to drive before daylight through the country to Monroe. An hour late the great crowd had disappeared. No one doubted the objective point of that crowd. All knew the mob had gone to intercept the officers and take the negroes' lives, for it was thought Sheriff Stark and his deputies had both Tom Allen and his father, Matt Allen.

When the train stopped at Social Circle the officers saw a great crowd outside. They knew in an instant what it meant. They knew the jig was up. The negro had been cuffed between Deputies Brooks and Patrick. Masked men entered the car and hustled the officers and their prisoner out.

Sleepers Searched by Mob.

The leaders would not accept the statement that Matt Allen had been left in Atlanta. For a half hour they held the train, searching it from coaches to rear platform. Sleepers and smokers were searched alike. From the train the deputies and the prisoner were hustled into the motor car that was in waiting for a rapid trip to Monroe. Three miles, out, where the highway crosses the Monroe railway tracks the car was stopped. The two white men and the negro yet chained together were lifted out.

"Where's the keys to them handcuffs," asked the leader. He was told the sheriff in Atlanta had kept them. "Then we'll swing all three together," shouted someone. That threat caused the key to come out. In a jiffy the cuffs had been removed. "Back into your car," shouted the leader to Patrick and Brooks.

Negro Cool and Callous.

The two deputies climbed in and looked on. Tom Allen was cool. He was callous. He was apparently stunned. He did not seem to appreciate his position. Not a word had he spoken until he was asked to confess. That request loosened the negro's tongue and in a never-ceasing flow of words he declared his innocence of the offense charged up to the very last.

"The rope, where's the rope?" asked a foghorn voice. Quickly a rope was around Tom Allen's neck. A man skinned up a telegraph pole carrying the other end of the rope in his teeth.

Throwing the rope over a cross bar he swung down the rope again in his teeth.

"Haul away," came from the foghorn. A dozen men grabbed the rope pranced away as a drove of ponies. Up into the air went Allen, the taut rope cutting into his denial of guilt. "Let him have the lead, boys," came the command. A fusillade followed. A good marksman or a poor one sent a bullet against the rope a foot above Allen's head. As a sharp blade that bullet chopped the rope. Allen's probably lifeless body dropped with a loud whack to the earth.

"Tie that rope," yelled someone. Up the pole went a man. The long piece of rope was brought down. In a second the body was again dangling in the air and the crack of guns and pistols were reverberating once more through that otherwise still night air.

Placards telling why this negro died and advising that all hands leave it hang where found as a warning to negroes inclined likewise were pinned upon his clothing. Bullets, buckshot and slugs cut Tom Allen's body into shreds, actually dissecting it.

No Effort at Concealment.

Quickly the mob scattered. Many of the men made no effort to conceal their identity. Surnames as well as given names were called out before, during and after the lynching.

By 9 o'clock this morning hundreds ofpersons living for miles in all directions had gathered about the suspended form to view it.

The Second Lynching.

Shortly before noon it was recalled by the big crowd that there was confined in the Walton county jail a young negro named Joe Watts. The young negro had been arrested only last week and as the arrest was being discussed in an assembly near the court house when someone asked the charge against the young negro.

"Why, Watts is the young negro who laid around Bud Hawks' house eight miles from here a day or two last week watching Bud's little girls when their father was away from home."

"Well, that coon ought to be our meat," said someone.

"He's a bad negro, at that."

"No room here for bad negroes."

And almost before anyone appeared to realize it a crowd was marching towards the county jail. At first it was not large, but as it moved, it grew numerically. It was quiet and orderly. There was no noise except that made by the falling of men's feet as they shuffled along. Suddenly masks came from the pockets and went over faces.

Woman Defies Mob.

Directly in front of the jail the mob stopped. The sheriff, who lives in the jail, being in Atlanta, left his home without a guard. Mrs. Stark faced the mob and bravely demanded what they wanted.

"We want Joe Watts," said one of the men.

"You can't get him," fearlessly responded the spunky Mrs. Stark.

One of the crowd assured Mrs. Stark that no one but Watts would be molested. He pledged his word for the crowd and the crowd assented. "And we'll have him," said one of the men, "if we have to tear down the jail."

Mrs. Stark told them of serious illness in her bed room in the residence part of the jail, and pleaded with them.

For a second the crowd hesitated. The spokesman asserted positively that they would be quiet and orderly. Seeing the crowd was determined, Mrs. Stark accepted their word and gave the leader a key to the cell. Someone knew Watts' cell, and to the door a committee, faces covered with masks, went quietly, orderly and with system. No one could turn the lock. A leader called on Mrs. Stark to unlock the door. She pleaded ignorance of the lock's mechanism.

Deputy Sheriff Rushes In.

As they were debating, Deputy Sheriff Gibson, who had been informed of what was transpiring, rushed into the jail to Mrs. Stark's assistance. Instantly he was seized by a half dozen men. He was ordered to unlock the cell door. Deputy Gibson declined. Quickly a half dozen pistols were pointed against his head and body. "Now, you'll be good, won't you?" called out one of the party. Deputy Gibson was assured no one but Watts would be molested. That the crowd would take him away quietly. He was told that Watts would have to come if the jail had to be razed to secure him.

Fearing for the life of Mrs. Stark's mother and accepting in good faith what had been promised, he thought it were better to give up one negro than have the jail destroyed, cause the death of the sheriff's mother-in-law and the possible escape or lynching of his other prisoners, told one how to unlock the door.

Watts was brought out, and the mob, led by a phalanx, every one showing a pistol in hand, moved along the main streets of the city to a grove on the west confines. Hardly a word was spoken as the procession moved along. Store doors and windows and sidewalks were crowded with curious spectators, many of whom fell in once the body of men had gone by.

In a grove off the main highway west of the town, less than three-fourths of a mile from the courthouse, Watts was quickly put to death, a rope and many pounds of lead being used. Under an old tree with many limbs the crowd halted.

Watts was wearing a hickory shirt, blue overalls, but neither shoes or hat. A rope attached to a leather halter was placed around his neck. A man climbed the tree, carrying the leather halter around his own neck. Watts, with the rope around his neck, was made to climb up behind him until he reached the lowest heavy branch. Upon this he was told to stand.

Bids Negro Goodby.

The white man climbed higher to a limb 5 feet further up. He tied the leather halter, then coming down he stopped on the limb upon which the doomed and half dead negro was standing. Putting out his hand, the white man grasped the negro's hand, his arms had not been pinioned, saying, "Goodby." A second later the white man was on the ground. "Pray if you want," said someone. The negro prayed, but before he reached his amen, the command was given and the rapid crack of gun and pistol was heard up town.

The negro was actually and literally shot from his perch and dropped down. That rope was not cut by a bullet. The body was allowed to sway from the rope up to dark.

During the afternoon hundreds of men and boys stood under that tree or near it, gazing at the swaying but lifeless form. The inquest will be held tomorrow.

LYNCHING TO GO TO LEGISLATURE

Freely Predicted Walton County Mob's Action Will Be Sifted.

That the failure of court officials to provide sufficient protection for the negro Tom Allen, who was lynched yesterday, will be brought to the attention of the legislature for discussion and probable action, is being freely predicted by prominent officials at the state capitol, and also by members of the legislature.

It is claimed that Judge Brand knew of the bitter feeling in Walton county against the negro, and that instead of calling upon Governor Brown for troops reported that feeling had subsided and that the situation did not call for extreme action.

Several days ago the governor wrote a letter to Judge Brand, setting forth his doubts as to the advisability of letting Allen return to Walton unaccompanied by troops, and stating his position under the code of Georgia.

In reply to this letter Judge Brand said that he did not think it necessary to send troops, and it was through failure to provide troops that the opportunity to lynch Allen was given the mob at Social Circle.

Following the news of the lynching Tuesday morning Governor Brown issued a statement, setting forth his position throughout, and telling of Judge Brand's and Sheriff Stark's attitude. The statement follows:

Governor Brown's Statement.

Governor Brown issued the following statement Tuesday afternoon after a conference with the adjutant general and the attorney general:

"Referring to the lynching of the negro, Tom Allen, at Social Circle last night, I will state that while at Athens last Monday and Tuesday I heard rumors and suggestions which pointed toward the possibility of the occurrence above referred to.

"I met Judge Brand and had a hurried conversation with him on the campus wherein I called his attention to certain rumors that this defendant might be lynched when taken to Walton county for trial.

"Returning to Atlanta and being unwilling for this possible issue between anarchy and enacted law to rest upon a casual conversation, I addressed a letre to Judge Brand, and also one to Sheriff Stark, of Walton county, calling attention to the case in question, and asking each of these gentlemen if it was his purpose to request the assistance of the military in taking the prisoner from Atlanta to Monroe and preserving order there during the session of the court which would be engaged in trying him. In the letter I quoted section 1434 of the criminal code of Georgia, which defines the duty of the governor, judge of the superior court and county sheriff:

"No man more than I appreciates the inadvisability of thrusting the military arm of the state into any county, unless requested to do so by local or circuit authorities named in the above sections of the code. But when the call is made by such authorities the code plainly says that it thereupon shall be the duty of the governor to order such operation of the militia of the state as he may deem advisable for the enforcement of the law.

Lynching to Go.

"In answer to the letter addressed to Judge Brand, he stated certain matters as embodying his recollection of the hurried conversation he and I had, and then said: 'Understanding the view of the law as expressed in this letter I answer your question, "whether or not it is your purpose to request the assistance of the military in taking the prisoner from Atlanta to Monroe."

"In answer to the letter I wrote to Sheriff W. B. Starke he stated that in view of this fact that 'those most interested in the case have denied any intention of lynching the defendant on the occasion when he was accompanied by the military guard, but that the law would be allowed to take its course, and in view of the fact that if there is any intention on the part of the people to lynch him when brought here for trial next Tuesday, such intention is kept from me, I therefore have not deemed it necessary to call for military aid at this time.'

"The authentic information received by me, as shown by the above letters, did not authorize me to order out the military and thus seemingly to place the civil authorities in subordination to the military. The constitution of this state provides that the civil authorities shall be superior to the military authorities. When I was ready and stood willing to aid the civil authorities, the facts are presented to me by the communications above set out did not authorize me as commander-in-chief of the military forces in this state to order out the military and send them to Walton county in charge of the prisoner when no civil official of that county nor the judge of the superior court of that circuit had requested me to do so, but on the contrary had written me that they would not request such action on my part."

Attorney General Hewlett Hall declases that Governor Brown did everything in his power to protect Allen, but that the governor was not in a position to act, as the judge and sheriff replied that no troops were needed.

Adjutant General A. J. Scott stated that he had expected Allen to be lynched if he were carried back to Walton unprotected by troops. "It is an outrage," said General Scott, "that the laws of the state can be trampled under foot in such a manner. When peace officers of the state fail to protect prisoners how can we expect homeseekers from other states to believe they will receive protection?"

Sheriff W. B. Stark, of Walton county, blames Judge Brand for the affair, saying that had it not been for Judge Brand's speech in Monroe and his failure to order out troops at this time, that he himself would have requested them. "I did not ask for troops because the judge took the responsibility upon his own shoulders in saying that we did not need them," said the sheriff.

"LET WOMEN MIND THE BABIES AND LOOK AFTER THE HOUSE"

—Ordinance Committee.

"What shall we do with the petition from the Woman's Civic League regarding female suffrage in Atlanta?" asked Councilman Evins at a meeting of the ordinance committee of council, yesterday afternoon.

The committee was considering the petition and for a while nobody answered the momentous question.

"I say put it in the incubator," suggested Councilman Evins.

This means to sidetrack it indefinitely.

"I am against the women voting," stated Alderman Warren. "I say that a woman's place is at home looking after the house and minding the babies. I want women to rule supreme in her home and make the men stand around all they can, but I draw the line at the ballot box."

"Those are my sentiments to a T," said Alderman Kelley. "I want the women to stay at home to look after the house. They have no business trying to vote."

When asked his reasons for being against women suffrage, Councilman Evins remarked:

"Oh, there are a million reasons."

The committee then decided to put the petition in the "Incubator."

COLE TO TRY NON-STOP TRIP FROM ATLANTA TO SAVANNAH

In an attempt to make a non-stop trip from Atlanta to Savannah, a Cole 1912 model, forty-horse power car, will leave The Constitution office at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

In the car will be Renfroe Jackson, H. W. McFadden, of the Firestone Tire company; Mr. Guinner, and probably two others. Mr. Jackson will drive part of the way, while Mr. Guinner will relieve him.

The party expects to arrive in Savannah some time this afternoon. Mr. Jackson has high hopes of making the flying trip, which will break all records, as all other persons have found it necessary to stop en route.

Leap From Ferryboat.

New Orleans, June 27.—R. H. Browne, one of the oldest lawyers in New Orleans and father of Arthur H. Browne, United States commissioner for the eastern district of Louisiana, committed suicide today by leaping from a ferryboat in the middle of the Mississippi river here. Despondency because of ill health and financial reverses is attributed as the cause of his act. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Death by Lightning.

Mobile, Ala., June 27.—News was received here today from Richton, Miss., telling of the death at that place of C. M. Gilley, of Citronelle, this county, who was struck by lightning. Gilley was standing with two other men under a tree during a shower, when a bolt of lightning came down and struck him dead. The others were not even burned or injured by the stroke.

A Clerk's Costly Experience

IF the clerk I treated several years ago had seen me when he was first troubled, I think I would have saved him money and suffering. When he finally did see me, he had been in a chronic condition for nearly a year and in that time he had paid out a considerable sum of money to various doctors. His troubles first started with gonorrhea. The doctor he consulted made light of the disease and told the clerk it amounted to little. He treated him a short time, removed the visible symptoms of the disease and discharged him as cured. Soon afterwards he was again stricken and after going through the same experience several times he found himself in a chronic condition with the glands and follicles of the urethra badly affected. His trouble had crept into the deep urethra and the seminal vesicles were also affected. I explained to him carefully the danger of the condition he was in and told him it would require careful treatment which would clean out the germs of the glands and follicles of the urethra and that such careful treatment as I would give him was the kind to effect a permanent cure. He did as I advised and the letters I have received from him every now and again indicate that there has never been a return of the trouble. I was able to do what the other physicians had failed to do because I know diseases of men, nervous disorders and chronic diseases. For over a third of a century I have been studying them and specializing in them. This experience has taught me how to handle these difficult cases and has shown me that there are more human wrecks caused by chronic gonorrhea than by any other disease. Because of my long experience I have no hesitancy in saying I can cure any case of the diseases in which I specialize which CAN be cured. My office hours are from 8 to 7; Sundays and holidays 10 to 1. My monographs are free by mail in plain, sealed wrapper.

JUDGE BRAND WARMLY DENIES RESPONSIBILITY FOR LYNCHINGS

Athens, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Judge Brand tonight made the following statement to The Constitution exclusively:

"The Constitution representative has presented to me a telegram from The Atlanta Constitution which states that Governor Brown has given to the press copies of his letters to me in reference to the Tom Allen rape case and says that it is up to me to give out copies of my letters to him. I note the evening papers of Atlanta quote Sheriff Starke stating in substance that I am responsible for the lynching of Tom Allen because I did not call out the military to accompany him from Atlanta to Monroe.

"From a hurried reading of today's evening papers it appears that the responsibility for this lynching is endeavored to be laid upon me and it seems that I am not only requested, but it is necessary in order for the public to form a fair opinion, that I should state the facts.

"I deny that I am responsible for the lynching of this negro, my conscience is clear before man and God. But to the facts.

"My Conscience Is Clear."

"My policy has been since I have been judge to have speedy trials of cases of this character, though always giving the defendant and his attorneys all the time necessary and requested after indictment had been returned. The constitution guarantees to every citizen charged with crime a speedy trial. In my judgment ordinarily a speedy trial is the only thing which will prevent a lynching.

"This has been demonstrated to my satisfaction several times while I was solicitor general and since I have been judge, notably in the Vanderford case in Gwinnett county where a white man was charged with raping a young girl, which occurred three or four years ago, and in the Jackson county case, which occurred recently, where the negro was charged and convicted on undisputed and satisfactory proof that he had violently assaulted a good white woman.

Called Grand Jury Together.

"Acting upon this policy as soon as I heard of the case in Walton county, I passed an order calling the grand jury in session to investigate the charge. I could not preside on account of a telegram from my wife, who was then at Johns Hopkins hospital under treatment, and Judge Park, of the Ocmulgee circuit presided for me. A bill of indictment was returned against Tom Allen for rape and Colonels Felker and Roberts were appointed by him to defend the negro.

"I went to Monroe the day set by his order to try this case. Previous to that time I had heard threats of lynching. The sheriff so informed me. At the request of Governor Brown I notified him when the court was set for trial, giving in my letter to him extracts from the sheriff's letter telling him what I then believed the situation was. Acting upon the information then obtained, efforts were then made to put upon me the responsibility of calling the military to accompany the negro to Monroe. I declined to assume this responsibility then as I have consistently declined to do since for the reasons assigned in my letter to Governor Brown, a copy of which I have furnished to Mr. Bickers at the request of The Constitution under his statement that Governor Brown gave me permission to do so.

"Did Not Request Military."

"I did not request the military to be sent to Monroe on the first trial. On the day this case was first set for trial in Monroe, after the same was continued when on account of the military discipline the people were not allowed to enter the court room, I felt it my duty to let the people know the facts and why the case was continued and in a short public talk to them I gave the reasons why the case was continued.

"Some one in the crowd asked me if I ordered the military to Monroe. I replied that I did not, but the law made it the duty of the judge, if he was on the ground and knew the situation, to do so, if he thought it necessary, but that in his absence and when he did not know the situation, it devolved upon the sheriff, the city court judge and the mayor of the town to do so if they thought it was necessary. This was all I said about the presence of the military, notwithstanding the many false statements in the press and otherwise to the contrary.

"No Time to Ascertain Situation."

"As stated in my letter to Sheriff Stark, a copy of which I have also furnished to Mr. Bickers, I had no time on this day to ascertain the real situation in Walton county. I promised the people on that day in that open talk that when the lady was able to come to court that I would again pass an order convening the court to try the negro. Later on I heard that she was able to come to court and in compliance with my promise I passed an order calling the court for June 27, as it was the only day before August court that I could try the case when Mr. Felker, one of the defendant's attorneys, could be present, as he was a member of the senate and his presence in that body was a lawful excuse from being at court.

Mailed Copy to Sheriff.

"I sent the original order to the clerk of the court. I mailed a copy the next day to the sheriff and the defendant attorneys. Not having received any acknowledgement from these officers of the receipt of this action on the part of the court, I again wrote the clerk and called his attention to what I had done, and stating therein that I did not know whether he had received this order or whether the sheriff had received a copy of the order, and asked him to read and exhibit in person the original order to the sheriff.

JUDGE CHARLES H. BRAND.
Who refused to call for troops.

"Later I received the letter from Sheriff Stark, a copy of which I have furnished Mr. Bickers. This was the only letter and the only message which I ever received from Sheriff Stark from the day this case was first set for trial until this good hour.

"I replied to this letter, a copy of which I have also furnished to Mr. Bickers, which is the only letter I hvae ever received since said case was first set for trial from any human being, officer or citizen in Walton county, except from one friend in Monroe, who wrote me he thought the people were going to allow the case to be tried without violence. Editor Camp wrote an article in The Walton Tribune of last week to the same effect.

Talked With Governor.

"On Tuesday, June 20, I met Governor Brown near the Phi Kappa hall, on the campus, and had a talk with him, which he began, about the situation in Monroe. And on June 23 I received a letter from him, a copy of which I suppose has been furnished to The Constitution. I replied to this letter promptly, a copy of which I have also furnished to Mr. Bickers, which briefly contains my position in this matter.

"In the meantime, one day last week Colonel T. W. Rucker called me up over the phone and told me that he had been employed with Mr. Felter to defend this negro, and that a change of venue would be asked. I told him then that I did not think that I had jurisdiction of the question in vacation. Later I received a petition for a change of venue signed by the negro Tom Allen himself, which was sworn to by him, and without the signature of any attorney's name asking for a change of venue. No evidence by affidavits or otherwise accompanied this petition. I passed an order declining to take jurisdiction of the matter. It could only be entertained while the superior court was in session and when the prisoner was present.

"Later on Mr. Rucker came to see me in person, to wit: Saturday afternoon last, and suggested that I allow the prisoner to waive his presence and that on today, and while I was at Monroe, that I could hear evidence on this question pro and con and decide whether I would change the venue. I took the matter under advisement, without giving him any definite answer. He returned to Atlanta on Sunday morning's train. Later, and during the day on Sunday, his son, Mr. Lamar Rucker, told me that his father had decided that he would have nothing further to do with the case, which he repeated on yesterday afternoon on my return from Jefferson, and therefore the request for this suggestion to be adopted was thus withdrawn, and was not thereafter made by any person whomsoever.

Hears Sheriff's Purpose.

"Sunday afternoon I heard that it was the purpose of Sheriff Stark to carry this negro to Monroe Monday night. Early Monday morning while at the depot waiting for the train to go to Jefferson I asked Mr. Knight, the court reporter, to 'phone his father, which he did, asking him on his own responsibility to suggest to Sheriff Stark not to start with the negro from Atlanta until Tuesday morning. On arrival at Jefferson we heard from Judge Knight stating that the sheriff had gone but that he had made this suggestion to his deputy, Mr. Gibson, who declined to communicate with the sheriff upon the subject. I then told my court reporter, the son of Judge Knight, as the latter said he knew where he could locate the sheriff at Atlanta, to make the suggestion to him. He agreed to do this and did do it over the 'phone, but the sheriff did not give him any satisfaction and certainly did not ask that I give my consent to do so.

"I thought then as I thought at the first trial that it would be better to carry the prisoner there and take him away in the day time. Later on about half-past 9 o'clock yesterday morning I saw the solicitor general, who lives in Monroe, and I told him that I heard that the sheriff intended to carry this negro to Monroe the night before and that it would be a wise thing on his part to communicate with him and suggest that he do not leave Atlanta before Tuesday morning.

Learns of Lynching.

"This morning while I was on the eve of going through the country to Monroe to try this case I received a message from Judge Knight stating that the negro had been killed at Social Circle. And later on today I have heard that another negro was taken from the jail at Monroe and killed. This is a plain statement in detail of the history of this whole matter since the last trial and my connection and knowledge of the situation. I do not want to be put in the attitude of criticizing any officer, but I contend that it was a mistake to carry the military to Monroe in the first instance, though the sheriff thought so and led me so to think at that time. This irritated the people and the best and most law-abiding people in the county at that.

"If the sheriff had summoned from the people of the county, as he had a right to do under the law referred to in my letter to Governor Brown, which gave him the right to summon five hundred people and arm them with repeating rifles if he thought it necessary, it being a misdemeanor to refuse to serve or to protect the prisoner, I honestly believe that he would have been tried when the court was first called without any violence or any blood being shed. He and the local authorities were on the ground and knew the situation better than I did as it existed in Monroe during the last few days.

Sheriff Had Authority.

"The sheriff knew, or could have known, whether or not a compliance with the act of 1893, which gave him the right to summons and arm any number of citizens to accompany him to Atlanta and return with this prisoner, would have prevented any violence; and, if he thought that this procedure could not cope with the situation, he knew, and the local authorities knew, better than I could know whether it was necessary to call for the military or not.

"The duty was upon him not only under the act of 1893 as to summoning citizens, but also on him, in my absence, as to requesting the military to accompany the prisoner. Instead of that, he goes to Atlanta and, without adopting the suggestion to leave with him during the day on the morning train, at midnight he sends this negro with two or three bailiffs to Social Circle, he remaining in Atlanta, arriving there at 2 o'clock last night, when the only people present, in all probability, were the people who had determined to take the law in their own hands and take revenge for the assault of this negro upon this good white woman.

"The offense was committed in this section of the county, and therefore the people in this section were more enraged than the people in any other section of the county, and, whether the sheriff meant to or not, he could not have selected a better time, place and opportunity to have allowed the negro to be taken in hand by the enraged people.

"I am opposed to lynching. I believe in letting the law take its course. These rape cases of negroes upon three good white women in the three counties of my circuit within 40 miles of each other and within two months' interval of each other have given me more trouble and concern and anxiety than anything that has ever happened during my public life. It has preyed upon my mind and heart day and night. I longed and prayed that, while justice might be meted out to the defendant in accordance with the facts, the law would be allowed to take its course.

"Duty Upon Sheriff."

"While I am against lynching, I am against rape. One cannot shut his eyes to the fact that if one of his own family is assaulted by a negro fiend and brute like these ladies were that all the wrathful passions of a decent, respectable white man become aroused and uncontrollable. At the heart of every respectable white man judgment is dethroned and reason loses her sway. Under such circumstances the distress and the sorrow of the victim destroys obedience to the law among the people directly affected. I did not order the troops to be sent to Monroe with this prisoner, first because I was under no duty to do so. I did not order them sent there because I did not know there was any necessity to do so. I did not order them sent there because the law gave the sheriff ample authority to protect the prisoner without calling for the troops. I did not order them sent there because the duty was upon the sheriff and the local authorities in my absence and in my ignorance of the situation to call for them, if they thought it was necessary.

"I do not think that the troops ought to be called for until all other means have been exhausted, and, as stated, the law affords ample means before calling upon them, because when the home people are charged with a prisoner, those who would take the law in their own hands would be loath and slow to attack them, for fear of killing some of their own friends, and for this reason—the best reason in the world—the prisoner's life can be protected and a trial had Whereas, if the military is sent in charge of a prisoner, a conflict is more liable to ensue and the lives of not only the soldiers, but of the home people, would be imperiled, and in all probality many sacrificed.

White Men or Negro Rapist?

"If I had called the military when I didn't know it was necessary, and when the law didn't devolve this duty upon me, and some young man among the soldiers was killed or some of the citizens of Walton county were killed, I would never forgive myself. The clods falling upon the grave of such an one would ring in my ears as long as life lasted, and I would go to my grave reproaching myself for my folly.

"And, while I want to discharge and have performed every duty which the law imposes upon me, I don't propose to be the engine of sacrificing any white man's life for all the negro rapists in the country by assuming a responsibility that the law does not impose upon me, and in taking this position whatever other people may think about, I am in perfect accord with my conscience and my God."

CORRESPONDENCE OF BRAND WITH GOVERNOR AND SHERIFF

The correspondence of Governor Brown, Judge Brand and Sheriff Stark on the question of the proper protection of Tom Allen, negro charged with assault, follows in full:

"Monroe, Ga., June 22, 1911.—Judge C. H. Brand, Athens, Ga. Dear Sir: I am in receipt of copy of your formal order setting the case of the State v. Tom Allen for trial next Tuesday, June 27, at 9 a. m., and was also shown your letter to Mr. Shelnutt of the 20th instant. In reply will say that I have complied with your order in summoning the jurors and subpoenaing the witnesses.

"I will, with my deputy and bailiffs, undertake to comply with that part of your order directing that the defendant be in court at the hour and day set. However, you have been upon the ground and understand the situation here and can understand how difficult it will be to comply with that part of your order.

"There has been two murder cases in the county recently and they have consumed most of my time and attention keeping me away from Monroe most of my time.

"Very truly yours,
"W. B. STARK,
"Sheriff of Walton County."

Brand's Reply to Stark.

"Athens, Ga., June 23.—Mr. W. B. Stark, Monroe, Ga. Dear Sir: Your letter of June 22 acknowledging receipt of the copy of the order of the court, which was sent you several days ago, and wherein you state that Mr. Shelnutt exhibited to you my letter to him, received this morning. You not having acknowledged receipt of the order sent you, I felt it necessary to write the letter referred to Mr. Shelnutt.

"Referring to that part of your letter which states that I have been upon the grounds and understand the situation here. Say in reply that while I was at Monroe when this case was first set for trial, as you know, I had neither the time nor the opportunity to discuss or acquire any knowledge of the situation at that time. Not having been there since, I do not know what the situation is now. I certainly know less about it than you or your advisors and the local authorities.

"Yours truly,
"C. H. BRAND."

Governor Brown's Letter.

The letter written by Governor Brown to Judge Brand follows:

"Hon. Charles H. Brand, Judge Superior Court, Athens, Ga.—My Dear Judge: In reference to our conversation last Tuesday in which you expressed the view that the negro to be tried for rape in Walton county next Tuesday will be lynched unless properly guarded, and in view of previous correspondence and orders in connection with the same case, I feel it my duty to take up the matter with you in this form again.

"I call your attention to the following section of the code of the state of Georgia (1911):

"'1434. Governor's Duty.—Whenever any judge of the superior court, or a city court, county sheriff, mayor of any incorporated city, town, or village, in this state, whose authority shall rank in the order named, shall have reasonable cause to apprehend the outbreak of any riot, rout, tumult, insurrection, mob, unlawful assembly or combination to oppose the enforcement of the law by intimidation, force or violence, within the jurisdiction of which such officer is by law a conservator of the peace, which cannot be speedily suppressed or effectually prevented by the ordinary posse comitatus and peace officers, it shall forthwith become the duty of the judge, sheriff or mayor to report the facts and the circumstances to the governor and to request him to order out such portion of the militia of the state as may be necessary to preserve the peace; and it thereupon shall be the duty of the governor, if he deems such apprehension well founded, to order out, or direct to be held in readiness, such portion of the militia of the state as he may deem advisable for the enforcement of the law; and he may require the officer in command of the troops to report to such civil officer as he may direct, and to obey the orders of such civil officer; or, if the governor deems it advisable, he may specially instruct the officer in command of such troops as to duties required of them, and to direct their execution under the immediate control of the governor.'

"As you will note it is first made the duty of the judge when he 'shall have reasonable cause to apprehend the outbreak of any riot,' etc., to report the facts and circumstances to the governor 'and to request him to order out such portion of the militia of the state as may be necessary to preserve the peace,' etc.

"I write, therefore, to ask if it is your purpose to request the assistance of the military in taking the prisoner from Atlanta to Monroe and preserving order there during the session of your court which will be engaged in trying him, to advise us of the fact as early as possible.

"In order to obtain the best service from the military it is well that they receive their orders in advance in order that they may make proper preparations.

"I am sending a letter to the sheriff of your county, calling attention to the duty which the law places upon him in the premises.

"Respectfully yours,
"JOSEPH M. BROWN,
"Governor.

"June 23, 1911."

Brand Writes Governor Brown.

"Athens, Ga., June 24, 1911.—Hon. Joseph M. Brown, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Governor: Yours of the 23d received a short while ago. I beg to qualify one expression in the beginning of your letter to this effect. You having spoken to me about the matter and the situation, I told you that I did not know personally what it was, but that I had heard of threats of lynching, and also I had heard that the sheriff was not going to order the military there, as he had done in the first instance. I did not intend to speak accurately about the situation and if I left this impression on your mind I was to this extent misunderstood.

"I note you quote section 134 of the code, and in commenting on the same statement in your letter that it is first made the duty of the judge when he shall have reasonable cause to apprehend the outbreak of any riot to request the military, etc.

"I call your attention to the following words in the seventh line of this section of the code as stated in your letter, namely: 'Within the jurisdiction of whom such officer is by law a conservator of the peace.' As I wrote you in a letter before the first trial and as I told you in person in the conversation to which you refer, I construe this section of the code to mean, and many military officers agree with me in this construction, as I wrote you in said letter and told you in said conversation, that it is the duty of the judge if he is on the ground to request the military, if he deems it necessary, but not being on the ground and not being familiar with the situation but on the contrary being out of the county, that the duty to call the military, if the necessity to do so existed was upon the other officers named in said section.

"In this conversation I respectfully told you that I did not feel it my duty to be looking after the prisoner under these circumstances, but that it was the duty of the local authorities and you agreed with me about this. I told you also that I had other troubles on my hands, that I was taxed and worried about many things, among others about the long illness and absence of my wife at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore and her present condition, and that I did not feel called upon to assume a responsibility which the law did not impose upon me, and that I did not propose to request you to send the military to Monroe, and you again agreed with me, stating that you did not blame me.

Posse Instead of Militia.

"We both agreed on the proposition in this conversation that the sheriff should have in the first instance, if he thought it was necessary to protect the prisoner's person, summoned a posse of his home people and thus obviate the call for the military. He is fully authorized to do this under article 7 of the penal code of 1910 of this state, entitled "mob violence," wherein the duties of the sheriff are clearly defined. Entertaining the view of the law as expressed in the letter I answer your question, 'whether or not it is your purpose to request the assistance of the military in taking the prisoner from Atlanta to Monroe' by saying that it is not. I answer this question plainly and unequivocably but with the utmost respect and deference to you personally and as the chief magistrate of this state, and I do so with the firm conviction that I am within the limits of the law, the constitution and the oath of my office and with the earnest and sincere hope, God being my judge, that the law will be allowed to take its course.

"With high regards, I remain, respectfully yours, C. H. BRAND."

Stark Writes Governor.

Monroe, Ga., June 24.—To His Excellency Joseph M. Brown, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: In reply to your inquiry expressed in your letter to me of the 23d inst., as to whether or not I will make requisition for military aid on the occasion of the trial of Tom Allen set for next Tuesday, will say that in view of the fact that those most interested in the case have denied any intention of lynching the defendant on the occasion when he was accompanied by the military guard, but that the law would be allowed to take its course, and in view of the fact that if there is any intention on the part of the people to lynch him when brought here for trial next Tuesday, such intention is kept from me; I therefore have not deemed it necessary to call for military aid at this time.

Respectfully yours,
W. B. STARK, Sheriff.

Water Mains Laid.

Cedartown, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—To meet the growing demands for water supply and to afford better fire protection for the Central of Georgia passenger station, the city water and light department is laying a new line of mains on Park street. When completed that section of the city iwll be as well cared for in this respect as any part of town.

Take the 4:10 or 5:45 train Saturday and spend the week-end at Sweetwater Park Hotel, Lithia Springs. Special Week-End Rate. Back to Atlanta in time for business Monday morning.

The Eucharistic Congress.

Madrid, June 27.—The second general assembly of the Eucharistic congress was held today in the church of San Francisco. The bishop of Beja caused a sensation in a speech attacking "the masonic government of Portugal." He expressed the hope that the monarchy would be restored. A telegram was read from Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary, expressing the satisfaction of the pope at the splendid inauguration of the congress.

A Corporation With a Soul

THAT the MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE INS. CO. deals fair with all policy-holders, old as well as new, is shown by the following extract from a letter received from the oldest MUTUAL BENEFIT policy-holder in Georgia, Mr. A. Smith Irvine, Secretary-Treasurer Georgia Chemical Works, Augusta:

"I took this policy back in 1857—54 years ago. I took ordinary life because there was no other kind in those days. The cost has been steadily reduced by increasing dividends which I find aggregate more than half total premiums paid.

"The original policy promised only payment at my death with no allowance whatever for lapse or surrender. Such a thing was unheard of then. But as the company prospered, and gradually liberalized its policy contracts, granting first, paid-up policies, then extended insurance, then loans and cash values, these privileges were all voluntarily added to my policy, the same as in the Company's new policies. So that while my policy may be the oldest in Georgia, I find that it is fully abreast of the most modern contract issued today. In other words, the Company has treated me throughout as a partner in the business."

THERE is one company in America in which new privileges or advantages, adopted from time to time, are made to extend back and include the old members. That Company is the Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co.

AFTER MAGAZINES GOVERNMENT GOES

New York, June 27.—A civil suit was filed in the United States court today for the dissolution of the Periodical Clearing House and about a score of other magazine defendants. The petition, filed by District Attorney Wise, alleges unlawful combination and conspiracy to restrain interstate trade and foreign commerce in magazine and other periodical publications.

The petition charges that the defendants since July, 1909, have been engaged in an illegal combination, a dissolution of which is asked for.

The Concerns Involved.

The proceeding in equity is against the Periodical Clearing House, Doubleday, Page & Co., Crowell Publishing Company, S. S. McClure Company, Current Literature Publishing Company, Phillips Publishing Company, Harper & Bros., Leslie-Judge Company, Review of Reviews Company, International Magazine Company, New Publication Company, Butterick Publishing Company, Standard Fashion Company, New Idea Publishing Company, Ridgeway Company, American Home Magazine Company, Short Stories Company, Limited (hereinafter referred to as defendant publishers), Frank H. Doubleday, Herbert S. Houstin, Frederick L. Collins, Charles D. Lanier and George Von Utassy.

The Periodical Clearing House in the petition is described as a corporation organized under the laws of the state of New York, carrying on business throughout the United States and foreign nations, with its offices and principal place of business in this city. Its authorized capital stock is of the par value of $2,000, consisting of twenty shares of the par value of $100 each, of which fourteen are issued and outstanding.

The Suburban Press, a New York corporation; Good Housekeeping, a Massachusetts corporation, and Hampton's Magazine, a New York corporation, together with the defendants, are the stockholders of record of the defendant Periodical Clearing House; Doubleday, Collins, Houston, Lanier and Von Utassy constitute its board of directors, and Houston, Von Utassy and Lanier are respectively president, vice president and secretary and treasurer. These officers of the Periodical Clearing House are officials also of one or the other of the defendant corporations engaged in the publication of magazines.

What the Petition Says.

The petition says that prior to July, 1909, there were and are now in this country upward of twenty thousand corporations, copartnerships and individuals engaged in producing, publishing and selling periodicals in open and free competition; that following the organization of the Periodical Clearing House in July, 1909, notices were sent to the principal subscription agencies and agents in the country "notifying them that they would have to sign the contract with the Periodical Clearing House, if such agencies intended to further business with the 'members' of said Periodical Clearing House."

The petition then recites that the Periodical Clearing House prepared a so-called "official price list" of magazines and periodicals containing rules governing sales of subscriptions and "the publishers' wholesale price list." The petition continues:

"The contracts force upon agents and require them to sell all periodicals not listed in the aforesaid lists at the regular publication price, without any reduction, whatsoever. The publishers of many of the periodicals listed in said lists have been and are willing that the agencies shall sell their periodicals to the public at prices less than those fixed by the defendants in said price lists, but said agencies have been and are prevented by the aforesaid contracts from selling such subscriptions at less than the prices fixed by the defendants and set forth in said lists."

It is alleged that the clearing house had a system of fines for offending agents.

POSITIVE AND CONVINCING PROOF

There are very many remedies on the market that are claimed to cure catarrh, but ask yourself this question, how can a blood germ disease be cured by a local treatment? It cannot, never was and never will be; you must understand that catarrh affects the mucous membrane or the lining that coats the whole inner system, the same as the skin coats the outer system. A great many people are of the opinion that catarrh is simply a disease of the head; that is a very sad mistake. It does originate in the head, but that nasty phlegm and mucous that you hawk and spit out in the daytime, you swallow at night, the food you eat assimilates with that poison that causes the food to sour, a gas arises which causes indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn. How can you cure indigestion when it's caused from catarrh unless you remove the cause? Sometimes people imagine their heart is affected. It is not; the trouble comes from the pressure of gas crowding the heart, causing it to jump and flutter, which causes shortness of breath, dizziness, headache, seven cases out of ten of stomach, kidney, bladder trouble, weak, rundown condition of the system is caused from catarrh, and nine cases out of ten of consumption, it was catarrh at the commencement.

Don't Neglect That Cold in the Head—Here Is a Cure.

All these troublesome symptoms vanish like mist before the rising sun, when a proper course of Quaker Herb Extract is taken, as it cures that soreness of the lining of the stomach and allows the gastric juices to flow in and make perfect the digestion. It tones up the system. Here's a report from Mr. P. F. Foster, who resides at 36 Hardin street, in this city. He has suffered with catarrh of the stomach, also had a hacking cough, rising nasty chunks of phlegm and slimy mucous, bowels sore and constipated, had to take something all the time to make his liver act. His kidneys caused him much trouble, especially at night. Had a weak, run-down feeling most of the time, poor appetite, nervous. As he said: "I have tried many different remedies, some would give me relief for a time and then their virtue was gone. I have had more benefits from the two bottles of Quaker Herb Extract and one Oil of Balm than all the remedies I have ever used. My kidneys and bowels act just fine, my coughing is about stopped, and I am feeling better than I have in a long time, and I am recommending Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm to every person I know. Gray, at Coursey & Munn's, 29 Marietta street, told me that the Quaker remedies would cure catarrh in any form, rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach and blood troubles, indigestion, constipation, and the Extract will expel all worms from man, woman or child, and I believe him."

Call today and have a talk with Gray, the Quaker Health Teacher. It costs nothing. If you can't call, order by mail, the remedies will be sent to you by express on receipt of price, all charges prepaid on orders of $3 or over. Quaker Herb Extract $1 or 3 for $2.50; six for $5.00; Oil of Balm, the greatest liniment for pain, internal or external, 25c, or 5 for $1. Quaker Cough Syrup has no equal for coughs and colds, 25c, or 5 for $1. All healing salve for piles, old sores, corns, 25c. Soap for pimples, blackheads, rash, itch, 3 for 25c. Quaker Gray, at Coursey & Munn's drug store, 29 Marietta street, from 9 a. m. to 9 p m. daily. Gray proves what he says. HECTIC THIRTEEN-INNING SCRAP

MILLER'S SMASH IN THIRTEENTH

Wins Heartrending Pitcher's Battle From Lookouts.

Every Inning Had a Thrill—Britton's Hitting and Fielding, Buemiller's Fielding, Knott's Homer and the Work of Both Pitchers the Features.

By Dick Jemison.

"The greatest game of the season!" That, in brief, fitly describes Tuesday's game between Atlanta and Chattanooga.

It was one of those nerve-racking pitchers' battles, spiced with brilliant fielding, both in the in and outfields, and both teams threatening to send across the winning tallies in practically every inning of the thirteen played.

Those who attended the game were treated to a highly exciting exhibition of the national pastime. There was not a dull moment from the time the first ball was pitched until the last. Sparkling all the way through with pepper on both sides, with brilliant stabs and catches, marvelous pitching, and, in fact, everything that goes to make up a great game, it was indeed a treat after the big scores we have been having.

For thirteen innings "Rube" Benton, of Chattanooga, and "Doggie" Miller, of Atlanta, toyed with the opposing batsmen, and it was not until the seventh inning that either side could score. Chattanooga slipped over two in the "stand-up session," and Atlanta tied it in their half of the eighth.

From then on both clubs threatened to send across one run, which would prove, in the closely-contested contest, sufficient to win.

Miller Wins Game.

But not until the thirteenth round could the winning tally be produced. Then "Doggie" Miller won his own game with a terrific line drive, with Buemiller and Knotts onthebases. The smash would have been good for the circuit, had it been necessary, but two bases were sufficient. It's a pity, though, for Miller was robbed of five pounds of tobacco by not getting credit for a homer.

Benton and Miller twirled brilliant ball, with the honors entirely even all the way. Neither appeared to have any particular edge, and both received support of a sensational nature.

Arlie Britton's all-around work was probably the real feature of the entire game. This lad, who is a pitcher and subbing for Watson in right field, smashed out a single, a double and a triple out of five trips to the pan, and made two sensational catches, close up against the right field fence, that robbed the batters of three-baggers, and possibly home runs.

Buemiller continued his grand work at the short station and three of his stops and throws were of the Walker-esque order, which is about as sensational as the stops could possibly be described.

Knotts' Homer.

Joe Knotts' home run clout to deep left field in the eighth inning, tying up the game, must not be overlooked in the many satellites that shine out from this baseball gem. It was a duplicate of the one Swacina hit here in the Mobile series, the ball going behind the bleachers in deep left field.

We could never tire writing of the brilliant phases of this game, but space is limited, and the manner in which the runs were scored must be foretold.

Neither team was able to do a thing for six rounds. In the seventh, with one man gone, Moran pasted the pill to the scoreboard for three sacks, and romped home when Lister made a two-cushion carry to Corbinville. Higgins was an easy out, but Nill produced a nifty smash to center for one count, Lister tallying.

The eighth opened up rather inauspiciously for the Crackers, Corbin hitting the breezes, and Buemiller fouling out to first, but Earl Sykes tore loose a timely little bingle to left center for one bag. Knotts walked plateward, got a couple of balls, then a couple of strikes, then a ball, fouled off three good ones and then laced a low liner over Murch's head behind the bleachers, scoring Sykes ahead of him.

Both Threaten.

Chattanooga threatened in the ninth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth, but the necessary pinch hit was not coming. Atlanta threatened in the tenth and twelfth, and in the lucky thirteenth were fortunate enough when Benton let down to get their winning run.

Benton walked Buemiller and Sykes promptly sacrificed him to second. Knotts drew a base on balls. Miller fouled off two balls, then took a ball. The next one broke over mighty pretty, but it never crossed the plate. Miller landed on it, the ball drawing up against the signboard on the centerfield fence, a clean home run, had it been needed.

Buemiller tallied from second and Miller was given the benefit of the doubt, with a two-bagger. He and Knotts could both have scored on the hit.

TODAY'S GAME STARTS EARLIER

Today's game will start at 3 o'clock in order to allow the Chattanooga and Atlanta teams to catch a train, the Atlanta team going to Memphis and the Lookouts home.

Manager Jordan has selected Harold Johns to do the twirling and Harry Coveleskie will be pitted against him. It will be a battle of the southpaws, and here's hoping that the local southpaw wins.

Manager Jordan has decided to make a change in his batting order. Buemiller will lead off, Zimmerman dropping down to his place in the batting order.

Nashville, Tenn., June 27.—Memphis showed a complete reversal of form today, defeating the locals 6 to 1. Although Nashville got eight hits off of Finlayson, he was untouchable in the crisis of the game. Bair began pitching for Nashville, but he was relieved at the end of the third in favor of Anderson, who did little better. Crandall got a pair of triples, which featured the game.

Montgomery, Ala., June 27.—Birmingham won a pitchers' battle by bunching hits in the thirteenth inning, two singles and a double giving them two runs. Johnston singled and scored on Yantz's double, who scored on Ellam's single. Sparks and Maxwell fought the greatest game seen here this season on a heavy field, the former allowing eight hits and the latter five. In the third inning Phelan spiked McElveen, cutting a long gash in his leg, but he had it patched and played the game out. The score:

NOTHING HEARD FROM T. ATKINS

Nothing has been heard from Frank M. ("Tommie") Atkins, the former Cracker southpaw, secured by trade from Baltimore, since Joe Dunn wired the local club that he would leave for Atlanta at once.

Manager Jordan is not worried about it, though he believes that the little southpaw will drift in here today. If he does he will probably twirl the opening game against Memphis, in Memphis Thursday, Johns having been selected for today's game.

Pittsburg, June 27.—The body of Mrs. Thomas W. Leach, wife of the well-known member of the Pittsburg baseball club, who died in a hospital last Saturday, was shipped last night to Lynn, Mass., her former home for burial.

You're building better than you know when you plan to go. Mind's best dreams are beaten—heart's highest hopes are bested, when you come to Colorado. You have imagined nothing that compares with these dazzling peaks, these wonder gorges—these crags and torrents. Colorado is nature's supreme burst of beauty—all other places seem pygmies of pleasure after a visit here. The golf you play, the fishing you do, the rides you take—all seem incidental to the joy of just being in Colorado.

Colorado is near you—you would be surprised how quickly it can be reached on the Frisco's splendid

Southeastern Limited

This superb train is especially equipped, for the benefit of Colorado tourists, with a beautifully appointed electric lighted sleeper through from Jacksonville, Atlanta, Birmingham and Memphis to Kansas City and Colorado, without change; and carries a modern electric lighted chair car and a handsome electric lighted dining car serving the kind of meals that only Fred Harvey knows how to prepare.

A vacation in Colorado can cost less than you think. With reduced round trip excursion fares, and with splendid hotels providing acommodations at rates that most anyone would consider reasonable, you would be surprised how little you need to spend.

Our Colorado literature, beautifully illustrated, is just what you ought to have in planning your trip. Let me send you some free books now. Write today; and if I can help you in any way, please say so.

WARRANTS SWORN OUT FOR MONTGOMERY PLAYERS

Montgomery, Ala., June 27.—Warrants were sworn out today by Julius C. Hendrix, at the request of the Sunday League, charging the nine Montgomery ball players who took part in last Sunday's game with violating the state law prohibiting Sunday baseball. It has been agreed that the players shall furnish nominal bond for the submission of the cases later to the grand jury.

The proceedings, it is understood, will test the validity of that section of the Montgomery commission government bill authorizing the commissioners to regulate Sunday amusements within the city limits.

CUBS 5, CARDINALS 4;
CARDINALS 8, CUBS 7

St. Louis, June 27.—Before a banner week-day crowd, estimated at 16,000, St. Louis divided honors with Chicago in today's double-header, winning the second game 8 to 7. The first game went to the visitors by a score of 5 to 4. The second game was hotly contested, Chicago using three pitchers in an effort to make it two straight. President Lynch was a spectator.

First Game—Score: R. H. E.
Chicago. . . . . .002 100 011—5 7 3
St. Louis. . . . . .010 010 020—4 9 4

ORVAL OVERALL MAY BE TRADED

Chicago, June 27.—That Orval Overall, pitcher, now on the reserve list of the Cubs would be traded to some other team in the National League if such a thing is possible, was not denied by President Murphy last night prior to his departure for St. Louis with the team. Dispatches from Philadelphia indicated there was a deal between Fogel and Murphy on. This Murphy would neither deny nor affirm. He declared, however, that at the request of Manager Chance circular letters were sent to each of the National League magnates asking what they had in return for Overall and Willis. Many replies have been received, but the offers were not what Chance thought they should be and were rejected.

It does seem queer that most people who live on the sunny side of Easy street are away from home so much.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

White Sox 3, Tigers 0.

Chicago, June 27.—Pitcher Walsh proved to be too much for Detroit today, holding the visitors to four scattered hits, while Chicago shut out the league leaders, 3 to 0. The game was marked by sensational catches by both sides.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Athletics 7, Red Sox 3.

Boston, June 27.—Philadelphia closed the series with Boston today by winning the last game, 7 to 3. Both Wood and Karger were hit freely, Wood leaving the game at the end of the third inning. McInnes, first at bat in the eighth inning, took advantage of the warming-up rule and drove the ball to center field for a home run before the Red Sox fielders had taken position.

Score: R. H. E.
Philadelphia . . . . 111 120 010—7 11 1

Batteries: Karger, Wood and Nunamaker; Bender and Thomas. Umpires, Egan and Sheridan. Time, 1:47.

Senators Win Two.

New York, June 27.—Washington, after having lost eight games in a row, turned on the Highlanders today and registered two victories, the score being 5 to 2 and 6 to 3. A costly error by Knight gave the visitors the chance to win the first game, and they took the second by hitting Coakley freely. Elberfeld made a clean steal of home in the second game. In the first contest Catcher Street had the thumb of his throwing hand broken.

Score (first game): R. H. E.
New York . . . .000 101 000—2 8 3

Score (second game): R. H. E.
Washington . . . .200 211 000—6 14 2

Batteries—Walker and Henry; Coakley and Blair. Time 1:44. Umpires O'Loughlin and Connelly.

Cleveland-St. Louis—Off day.

WATSON STILL OUT OF THE GAME

Jules Watson, the big right fielder of the Crackers, was not able to get into the game on Tuesday, and it is doubtful if he will be able to get into it today, either. His leg continues to be sore and refuses to mend as rapidly as could be hoped.

WELL'S FINGER MENDS SLOWLY

Phil Wells' split finger mends mighty slowly and the little catcher will be forced to take a rest for a few days longer. He is anxious to get into the fray once more, and hopes to be in the Memphis series.

SIMPSON LEADS IN WESTERN GOLF

Grand Rapids Mich., June 27.—With a card of 75 for the 18 holes, Robert Simpson, the youthful professional from Kenosha, Wis., led the field of forty-four in the qualification round of the Western Golf Association open championship tournament today. W. C. Sherwood, of Memphis, scored the second low.

SOUTH ATLANTIC

Scouts 3, Electrics 0.

Jacksonville, June 27.—Jacksonville played rings around the Columbus club today and won easily. The visitors were decidedly bad on the bases, and their coaching was decidedly off color, no less than three men being thrown out at the plate. A one-handed catch of Lewis' line drive by Viola was a feature, as was the all-round work of Catcher Leary, of the locals. Score:

Score: R. H. E.
Jacksonville . . . .200 000 100—3 4 3

Batteries—Gavin and Krebs; Samuels and Leary. Time, 1:45. Umpire, Moran.

Tourists 4, Indians 3.

Augusta, June 27.—Augusta played fine ball under the new management of Lafitte, and by steady hitting and fast work on bases won the game by a score of 4 to 3. In each of the first three innings a run was secured, and Savannah scored two in the sixth on two bases on balls, a hit batsman, a single by Crabbe. Redfern replaced Abercrombie in this inning.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Savannah . . . . . .000 002 001—3 5 3

Batteries—Redfern, Abercrombie; Crabbe and Griebel. Time, 1:30; umpire, Derrien.

Palmettos 9, Gulls 4.

Columbia, S. C., June 27.—Charleston played bush-league ball today and Columbia easily won its eighth straight game, 9 to 4. Bussey deserved better support, the Charleston fielders letting flies drop for hits at many critical stages. Clark was effective except in one inning. Foul fly catches by Powell and a double play engineered by Harbison at a critical point were the features.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Columbia . . . . .001 125 00x—9 15 0

UMPIRE KLEM IS FINED $50

St. Louis, June 27.—President Lynch, of the National League, announced tonight that following an investigation and the taking of testimony concerning the blow Umpire Klem struck Roger Bresnahan, manager of the St. Louis Club at the close of last Friday's game in Cincinnati, that he would fine the umpire $50. Bresnahan was complimented for not retaliating when he was hit.

"Umpire Klem, in striking Manager Bresnahan, forgot the most essential part of an umpire's duties, that of keeping his temper."

Whitney's Turnover Won.

Newmarket, England, June 27.—The race for the maiden 2-year-olds, selling plate of 200 sovereigns, distance 5 furlongs, run here today, was won by H. P. Whitney's Turnover. The Prepare Colt was second and March Wind third. There were fourteen starters.

MERRICK WINS FROM AL MULLER

In a Driving Finish for the Latonia Feature.

Latonia, Ky., June 27.—Despite a heavy track, the racing at Latonia today was good and the finishes close. Merrick won the feature event from Al Muller by a length in a driving finish. High Private, the favorite, was third, two lengths back.

It was a day of upsets, the favorites faring poorly.

FIRST RACE—Purse $500, 2-year-old fillies, 5 furlongs: Tillies Nightmare, 110 (Ganz), won; Dorbie, 110 (McCahey), second; Sadie Shapiro, 110 (Loctus), third. Time 1:05 2-5. Limousine, Ruby H., Henrietta W., Oreen, Gagnant, Miss Money and Foretop ran.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Tillie's Nightmare, straight, $14.80; place, $11.90; show, $5. Dorbie, place, $12.40; show, $6.90. Sadie Shapiro, show, $4.20.

SECOND RACE—$500, selling, 3-year-old, 6 furlongs: Helene, 112 (Loftus), won; Corinth, 108 (Glass), second; Marsand, 108 (Mountain), third. Time 1:18. Startler, Brandelin, Edna Collins, Chemulpo, Helen Scott and Bayerin ran.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Helene, straight, $7.80; place, $3.80; show, $2.70. Corinth, place, $8.10; show, $3.80. Marsand, show, $2.90.

THIRD RACE—Selling, 2-year-olds, colts and goldings, 5 furlongs: Col. Cook, 108 (McTaggart), won; Almitos, 105 (Glass), second; Grif, 105 (Austin), third. Time 1:03 4-5. Clearwater, Inciter, New Haven, Moonlight, Yanker, John Robert and Hamilton ran.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Col. Cook, straight, $7.40; place, $5.50; show, $4.40; Almitos, place, $3.70; show, $3.50. Grif, show, $9.70.

FOURTH RACE—Purse $500, selling, 3-year-old and up, 6 furlongs: Merrick, 111 (Glass), won; Al Muller, 111 (Mountain), second; High Private, 116 (McCahey), third. Time 1:16 2-5. Volthorpe, Rubia Granda, Spalding and Wool Sandals ran.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Merrick, straight, $6.00; place, $3.70; show $2.50. Al Muller, place, $4.50; show, $2.70. High Private, show, $2.70.

CORNELL OARSMEN PULL OUT VICTORY

HOW COLLEGES FINISHED IN FOUR-MILE CONTEST

Cornell first, time 20 minutes, 10 4-5 seconds.

Wisconsin, fourth, 20 minutes, 34 seconds.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 27.—While two men lay practically helpless in the Columbia shell, Cornell 'varsity eight pulled out a victory today in one of the greatest four-mile rowing races ever seen at Poughkeepsie. It was Cornell's race by a scant length and a half, with only six seconds to spare. Her time was 20 minutes, 10 4-5 seconds; Columbia's time, 20 minutes, 16 4-5. Pennsylvania was third; Wisconsin fourth, and Syracuse a helpless fifth.

Columbia freshman eight carried off honors in the youngster division, winning by two lengths from Cornell. Syracuse was third, and Pennsylvania but a half a length behind. The Wisconsin freshmen were a badly outclassed fifth. The official time for Columbia was 10:13 1-5.

Syracuse fought in the 'varsity fours but Courtney's men defeated them by half a length, with Columbia two lengths behind and the Pennsylvania four twenty lengths in the rear in the wash. No official time was taken.

The freshmen win was Columbia's first victory in sixteen years, their 'varsity crew having won in 1895, the year the Poughkeepsie course was established.

The 'Varsity Contests.

Under a hazy sky with a wisp of a southern breeze stirring flag and bunting the 'varsity crews shot away from the mark at 5:15 p. m. for the four-mile grind. Columbia was quick to take the lead. For the first quarter mile they held it, then the powerful rhythmic stroke of Cornell sent the red and white shell ahead until the half-mile when Cornell led by half a length. It was clear now that the struggle was between Cornell and Columbia.

The mile post passed. Cornell and Columbia were so even that picking the leader became guesswork.

At the two-mile mark Columbia came into the lead, slowly at first but with a strong, clear stroke. It looked at this point as if Columbia's was the strongest crew and had forced a lead after two miles from a weakening Cornell eight.

Columbia held the lead by nearly a length as they passed under the bridge —the three-mile mark—but clear of the structure, Courtney strategy came into play.

Cornell's Winning Spurt.

Sheltered from the wind by the gay craft on the east of the course near the finish, Cornell started a spurt which not only began to eat up Columbia's slight lead, but so taxed her eight that Sage, at bow, reeled in his seat and Downing, stroke, wobbled fitfully.

Both crews were stroking 35 but Columbia's weakness was apparent. She had rowed herself out and at the last quarter Cornell began her dash to victory. On she swept, steady, sure, precise.

In the last 250 yards Columbia wavered, then relinquished the lead she had so bravely held and another victorious Cornell 'varsity crew crossed the finish line.

Fifteen lengths back Pennsylvania nosed out a close third place from Wisconsin and Syracuse struggled in a badly vanquished fifth.

Tennesee Tennis Tourney.

Memphis, Tenn., June 27.—Only two games were played today in the Tennessee tennis tournament, rain interrupting early in the afternoon, Wallace Johnson, of Philadelphia, won his match with Clinton, of Memphis, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, and Esmond Phelps, of New Orleans, defeated Elliott Middleton, of Memphis, also in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

PERTINENT VIEWS ON THINGS TIMELY

BY DICK JEMISON.

We take this opportunity to slip to the members of the Atlanta baseball team a little exhortation on their playing and present standing in the race and plead with them to start an upward march to the first division and then to the top of the ladder.

You boys are discouraged. That's all that is the matter with you. You have no license being at the foot of the ladder. You have too good a team to be there. You have no cause to complain over the support you have received.

You have received support from the three local sport writers of a nature that a league leading team has been getting. You have no kick from that source. The three papers are still with you, and it behooves you to pull together, fight harder and bring home more games than you have been bringing of late.

True you have had to work behind bad pitching, but if you will get in there with "plenty of pep" from the jump and all the way throughout the game, your pitchers will not go so bad.

In conclusion, the writer pledges his support to your efforts, like he has all season, but it will take more winnings than have been on tap of late for that support to continue for an indefinite period. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Vedder Sitton showed in his first work-out, that when he gets rounded to, he will make the Crackers a most consistent hurler and that's just what the team needs—one good, consistent hurler. The rest of the staff will then chime in. It remains to be seen just what Atkins will do his first time out, and if he shows any of his old-time form, the staff should be most formidable.

So Jim Lafitte has been appointed manager of the Augusta club to succeed Tommy Stouch. Here's hoping that Jim has a world of success with the Tourists and that every man on the club will give the local lad his best efforts at all times. And he won his first game, too.

Jordan's idea in putting Buemiller in the lead-off position on the team, is because he is such a good waiter. The new shortstop shows remarkable judgment in waiting on bad balls when at bat, and in the lead-off position ought to be able to get on more often.

Arlie Britton's work in the outfield on Tuesday stamps him as a man who will go mighty good if played there regularly and the chances are that such a plan will be adopted, though just how the change will be made is too hard to figure. But it is predicted right here now that when Atkins reports Britton will not be the man on whom waivers will be asked, as everyone thinks, but some one else.

One of the surprising things of the Chattanooga series has been the rooting for the Atlanta team. The feeling of the early season has worn out and despite the fact that Atlanta is in last place the rooting has been consistently for the Crackers to win.

And another remarkable thing is the roasting that some of the former Atlanta players on the Chattanooga team have received during the series. Roy Moran was openly accused from the stands by not one but many of the fans present of "laying down" when a member of the local club. Whether this is so or not we do not really know or would we wish to make the assertion if we did, but at least the fans have it that way.

It will be another repetition of the Coveleskie games of the past today. The Crackers are going to adopt every kind of a tactic to "get his goat" and get away with the game. It has been a dogfall on the result of these tactics to date. Here's hoping that Otto succeeds today.

Let's make today's game three out of four. Come on, you Crackers, work hard. A bunch of "pep" today.

"CHICK" EVANS PLAYS FOR OPEN GOLF TITLE

He Goes Around English Course in 78, Making Total Score of 156.

Sandwich, England, June 27.—In the second round of play for the open golf championship today, Charles Evans, Jr., of Chicago, went around the course in 78, making an aggregate score of 156.

The British amateur champion, H. H. Hilton, of the Royal Liverpool Golf Club, at present leads in the tournament with an aggregate score of 150.

J. G. Anderson, of West Newton, Mass., did the second round in 86, his aggregate score being 172.

WITH THE AMATEURS

BY WALTER REYNOLDS, JR.

NO-HIT GAME.

Waycross, Ga., June 27.—Pitching a hitless game until the ninth, when the only single was secured, with two down, Monk Lowther led the Y. M. C. A. team to a 10 to 0 victory this afternoon over the heavy-hitting Atlantic Coast Line team. Catches in center by Kilson and Gardner were other features.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

A. C. L. .....000 000 000— 0 1 3

Y. M. C. A. .....023 040 010—10 9 2

Batteries: Lubick and Spencer; Lowther and Smith.

ROYSTON 6, GAINESVILLE 5.

Royston, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Royston won the second game of the series from Gainesville, by the score of 6 to 5, in the tenth inning. The first game went to Gainesville, 6 to 0. Batteries: First game, Gainesville, Hutcherson and Orr; Royston, Blackman and Barber. Batteries: Second game, Gainesville, Cox and Orr; Royston, Edwards and Barber.

FIFTH REGIMENT MEETING.

Tonight at the Armory hall, the members of the Fifth Regiment ball team will hold a meeting. The hour is set for 7.30 o'clock, and all the players are requested to be present.

FIFTH REGIMENT V. NORCROSS.

On Thursday afternoon the Fifth Regiment team, of Atlanta, will take a trip to Norcross, Ga., where they will play the strong team of that place.

AMERICUS 2, COLUMBIA 1.

Americus, Ga., June 27.—(Special.)—Decidedly the classiest game played in Americus this season was that this afternoon between Columbia, Ala., and the locals. Through to the first half of the ninth inning Columbia had Americus shut out in 1 to 0, but in the final the Americus champs redeemed themselves and scored 2 runs, thus capturing the game by the final score of 2 to 1.

Lee and Hooks, for Americus, with Baker and Morse, for Columbia, constituted opposing batteries. Columbia's bunch is undoubtedly the best aggregation yet playing Americus. A doubleheader is scheduled for tomorrow.

CRACKERS OPEN IN TURTLETOWN

The Crackers leave Atlanta after the game today, opening up a five-game series in Memphis on Thursday. One of these games is a postponed affair from the last trip of the Crackers to Memphis.

Memphis played four games in Atlanta, winning one and losing three. Of the two games played in Memphis, the teams split even. Thus it will be seen that the Crackers have some edge on the Turtles.

WOMAN AND HER WORK---PROGRESS AND DEVELOPMENT IN THE HOME AND OUT OF IT.

NURSERY GOVERNESS PLACE SOUGHT BY MANY WOMEN

That there are many young women in this state equipped for the responsible position of nursery governess, is proven by the many letters addressed to this department in reply to the announcement made several days ago, that the position was open to applicants.

The position which called forth the article has been filled, but the names of the young women applicants have been put on file in this office, and any one desiring to employ a nursery governess may apply for the names of those who have applied.

The fact that gradually the tendency of the city resident is to get to the country for his permanent home makes it difficult for the smaller children to get to the schools provided for him, and the governess in this case is the only chance. In many cases the nursery governess can not only take care of the little folks but when necessary coach the bigger ones who may need aid in some of their studies.

Of the letters written applying for the position of nursery governess the one following more nearly seems to fill the requirements:

Editor Woman's Department: Your article, "Easy for Women to Make Money in Summer Time," appeals strongly to me.

In your article, you mentioned that you knew of two families with whom some cultured and refined young lady might secure a place as companion and governess for the children. I have been wishing for a position of that kind.

I am hoping that you will pardon the liberty I am taking in asking you to address the inclosed stamped envelope to one of the ladies and inclose this letter to her.

I am a graduate of the state normal school, Athens, Ga. I have had a three years' course in child study and psychology together with five years' experience in teaching. During the past four years I taught in Poplar Springs Industrial School, Dublin, Ga. I know a great many stories that all children enjoy.

I shall be glad, upon request, to furnish recommendations or any other information concerning myself. If the lady desires an interview with me, I could go to Atlanta for a day to see her.

From Smyrna, Ga., comes the following:

Editor Woman's Department: Seeing in The Constitution that an Atlanta lady wished a nursery governess and being desirous of just such a position, I would like to ask for particulars. Could you give them to me?

For the past year I have been a teacher and can give best of references.

I thank you for your kindness.

NEW DANCES TO BE TAUGHT IN ATLANTA

That Atlanta will not be behind the times in the three new dances is assured by the fact that an Atlanta teacher is in New York at the normal school for dancing and that she mentions among the new dances the "coronation," the "princetor" and the "Astor."

"I am studying at the Duryea School of Aesthetics," she writes "and Mr. Romeo's ballet school, that I may be equipped to teach both the 'grown ups' and little folks.

"The teacher of the foreign dancers has been imported to the Duryea school, while the teacher from London is expected this week bringing all the dancing tips from the coronation events."

Aside from the pleasure of dancing as a social pastime it is a normal and excellent exercise, conducive to reducing flesh and to graceful movement. This is not an age when either men or women are markedly graceful, so that a few lessons are helpful to young and old alike.

The art of the Russian dancers has elevated the standards of dancing, in the world, not only among the professionals but among those people who appreciate the meaning of all-round development. As the Russian artists present dancing, it is a form of expression for the loftiest thoughts as well as for physical grace and people are beginning to see what was formerly only a frivolous pastime in the light of a very important branch of art.

ART SCHOLARSHIPS

The Atlanta Art Association offers to the public school teachers of Atlanta fifteen free scholarships at the summer school of art in Atlanta, of which school Mr. Harry Haviland Osgood, is director. The scholarships have been limited to the number of fifteen, that being the extent of the great generosity, expressed by the art association which has no fund except membership dues. The school opens July 5th. Applications may be made to Mrs. E. V. More, secretary of the association, her address is Ansley Park.

This will be an excellent opportunity for the young teachers, who will not have the advantages of a normal summer school this year, as the teachers in all large cities have, and there can be no doubt that the opportunity afforded by the art association at the Atlanta Art School will be eagerly sought for.

Mr. Osgood is one of the foremost artists and instructors in the country and has had the advantage of normal training in both Chicago and in Paris where he studied and taught several years.

GRAY AND TAN VEIL

Each year the outing veil—the one for general wear in riding, motoring, or walking changes color to meet popular demand. Last year the vivid colors prevailed—the coral, rose and purples and greens; the year before that brown was the fad. This year it is the shades of gray or tan. They are said to be restful to the eye, as well as durable, and neither color shows the dust as much as any other kind. The grays are generally the more becoming; but the tans stand the dust better.

The veils this year are so worn as to hold the hat down; then protect the face. Other veils are made to be worn without a hat, especially in the evening. They are drawn down hood fashion, with rosettes at the ears, and the scarf ends tying in front and then thrown over the shoulders in the back.

The gray glove and the tan glove are worn, and have the same advantage of the veil—do not show so easily as other colors, the dust.

FRIENDS IN OPERA

Knowing her fondness for animals, Mme. Tetrazzini has been asked to serve (and has accepted) on the committee organizing a coronation fete in the botanical gardens, London, July 1 and 15 given by "Our Dumb Friends League," a society for the encouragement of kindness to animals.

Mme. Marguerite Lemon has arrived in Rome, where she will sing in the special summer season of opera to be given in that city during the exposition now being held there. The role in which the American soprano will make her debut has not yet been decided.

Reports from Rome state that the first performance in that city on the evening of June 1 of Puccini's "The Girl of the Golden West" was a tremendous success. The king and queen were present and the audience was a brilliant one. Signor Bassi in his ever popular role of Dick Johnson, was recalled many times after each act, but the audience insisted upon a repetition of his prayer in the third act and would not allow the performance to continue until it was accorded them.

THE MIRTH WRINKLE

By Jane Belfield.

A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market.—Lamb.

It is the mistaken fashion of some well-meaning folks to ignore unpleasant facts. The Quaker mother who said to her child when the bee stung its finger, "Thy finger doesn't hurt. Does thee hear, it doesn't hurt?" may have succeeded in so far dominating her child's mentality as to sound a truce to pain. But in general, we are apt to experience an instant antagonism when our keenly felt ills are relegated by others to the domain of imagination or impossibility.

Perhaps a better fashion is to recognize the ill, face it, and look around for the best means for its amendment. Sometimes it happens that in the looking around process the keen edge of the misfortune is considerably worn away. At all events, we improve the mental circulation by invigorating action; and we keep its tone healthfully raised by the manner in which we allow our ills to affect us.

We cannot, it is true, always avert the blow; but we can receive it as we choose. We can sink beneath the heavy weight and allow it to peacefully rest as a tombstone over the spot where we have been submerged; or by climbing on top, we can use it for a point of vantage from which to meet the next onslaught of circumstance.

The first step on the upward climb must be the attainment of a frame of mind which makes effort possible—that is, cheerfulness.

We are told that man is the only animal possessing the power to smile. At any rate, the sense of humor has helped its fortunate possessor over many a hard bump. There is a funny side to everything, if we but look for it. Perhaps there is no better way of being able to keep sweet as the days pass than the ability to see the funny side. The sense of humor is an answer to Mrs. Wiggs' prayer, "Lord, keep me from growing sour!"

Did you ever notice the smile wrinkles in a man or woman's face? They are never a deformity—they never transform the tell-tale countenance into a furrowed mask. Did you ever watch the genial wrinkles spread and glow till you felt the welcome sensation of warmth and lightness stealing into your own heart? Already you were conscious that other women will find, as I have done, that the following lines are as true in business as in all other things in life:

"There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure and true—
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

"For life is the mirror of king and slave,
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you."

SUMMER RECIPES

Curried Eggs—Allow one egg for each person and put into boiling water sufficient to cover them. Cover the pan tightly and let stand on the side of the range for half an hour. Then put into cold water for a moment, remove the shells, and stand aside until needed. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and when it begins to color add an onion cut into very thin slices and a tablespoonful of Chutney sauce. Stir all together until cooked to a delicate brown, then add a cupful of good stock mixed with a tablespoonful of curry powder and let simmer for ten minutes. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise, place in the curry mixture, cover tightly, and let stand until thoroughly hot. Serve with rice cooked in a separate dish and pass Chutney sauce.

Rice For Curry—Rice accompanies almost all curries, and this, to be toothsome, must be properly cooked. The only correct method of accomplishing this is the following: Wash the grains carefully and gently in two waters and dry in a soft towel. Place a large pot over the fire and pour in water to three-fourths of its capacity. Salt and allow it to reach the boiling point. When the water bubbles fiercely, scatter in the rice, stirring for a moment with a long skewer. Keep the water boiling sufficiently hard to cause the rice to dance about therein, and watch carefully that it is not overcooked. As soon as the grains can be broken between the fingers, they have boiled enough and must be drained through a colander, well shaken, and placed in an open oven until all moisture has evaporated.

Jellied Beef Tongue—Parboil a beef tongue and two calves' feet, then take out and skin and clean the tongue well and remove the bones from the calves' feet. Mince two onions very fine and fry in a tablespoonful of butter. When brown, lay in the well-seasoned tongue and calves' feet and simmer ten minutes. Then add one pint of strong consomme and five minutes later a glass of white wine. Let them smother together, keeping well covered, for an hour and a half or longer. Then take the tongue out and let the calves' feet cook and reduce for another half hour. After this add the tongue for two minutes longer. Put all into a bowl or dish and let cool. It will make a delicious jelly.

CANDLER SAYS PEACHTREE WILL WANT ROSE WATER SOON

Will they want rose water on Peachtree road?

Mayor Pro Tem. John S. Candler stated at a meeting of the ordinance committee of council yesterday afternoon that rose water would be wanted in that section of the city before very long.

What called forth the mayor pro tem's. rose water prophesy was an ordinance which certain residents on Peachtree road wanted passed. The ordinance sought to prohibit the use of muffler cut-outs on autos and also sought to put a stop to too much smoke in the wake of the cars.

Alderman Kelley, Alderman Warren and Councilman Evins and Alderman Candler all favored the prohibition against muffler cut-outs. They also all favored abating the auto smoke nuisance except Judge Candler. He said it would be unjust and arbitrary to pass any such law as many good citizens who were not auto experts would be haled before the recorder and fined.

"We can tip off the recorder, suggested Alderman Warren, "and get him to fine only the flagrant violators of the law."

"I will not be a party to the tipping off of any judge or court," replied Judge Candler.

Among the Peachtree road citizens present were John E. Murphey and James H. Nunnally. It was after they had insisted upon the smoke nuisance being abated along with the muffler nuisance, that Judge Candler made his remark about rose water and Peachtree road.

Mr. Nunnally did not like the remark and said that Peachtree road was not the only spot interested.

Judge Candler was out-voted by the other members of the committee and a favorable report was made on the ordinance both as to smoke and mufflers. Judge Candler dissented and he will make a minority report.

BOYS' CLUB CAMP PROVES GREATEST OF SUCCESSES

The Boys' Club camp at Silver Lake is proving a most popular terminus for Sunday automobile drives, and is attracting scores of visitors. Last Sunday over 200 people visited the pretty little lake and inspected the camp. All of them were highly pleased.

Last week there were thirty-two boys in the camp, all of them healthy and happy, and always hungry when meal time came. All get good, wholesome food in abundance, though, and they are having the time of their lives, boating, swimming, fishing and working.

The last named is one of the first requisites of the good time that they are having, insists Superintendent George C. Dorr, who makes all the boys work. None of it is onerous because it is divided out among all the boys, but each one has his share to do, and this, thinks Mr. Dorr, is one of the best features of the camp.

The camp is well equipped, but another boat is badly needed, and some more blankets, and Mr. Dorr would be glad if these needs were recognized by generous Atlantans, and supplied.

Also, though the price for the boys is only $1.50 a week for the life in the camp, there are many who cannot get even this small amount to attend the camp, and it is believed that if the public only knows of this need there will be a number of people who would like to help send other boys to the camp. If such is the case, a check may be mailed to Superintendent George C. Dorr, at Chamblee, Ga., R. F. D. 2, and he will see that as many boys as possible are benefited by the amounts received. Such contributions will be for the boys who otherwise would have no chance to live at the camp.

MOVED ACROSS STREET HOUSE BLOCKS PASSAGE

A large two-story house, one of the modern up-to-date residences, occupied yesterday a place in the center of Fifteenth street.

Sometimes small frame houses are moved through a street, but the moving of such a one as was seen Tuesday on Fifteenth street, was a spectacle that is not often witnessed.

The house was being moved across and down Fifteenth street and about one hundred yards from its original site. It stood for several hours in the very center of the street as complete, chimneys and all, just as it was before the moving began.

The house was bought by Edward T. Inman from Thornwell Jacobs, at No. 108 Fifteenth street, and will be the home of Mrs. Emily McDougald, Mr. Inman's sister, when it occupies its new site.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL THE MARKETS

FIRMER TONE SHOWN BY THE COTTON MARKET

Covering by Old Crop Shorts and Better Buying of New Crop the Cause.

New York, June 27.The cotton market showed a firmer tone today, on covering of old crop shorts and better buying of new crop positions which appeared to be inspired by the failure of weather reports to show further rain in the western belt, and rather less favorable crop advices. The market closed very steady from 16 to 30 points net higher, with old crop positions relatively strong.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 to 10 points, in response to better cables than expected, and in the first few minutes new crop positions sold from 17 to 18 points above the closing figures of yesterday, on reports of dry weather in the western belt, the forecast for generally fair weather in Oklahoma and Texas, and a private crop report indicating that an area producing about 1,500,000 bales in Texas and Oklahoma is injuriously dry, and liable to severe deterioration should rains not fall within the next ten days.

There were also rumors that preliminary returns to the National Ginners' Association showed a slight deterioration in the condton of the crop durng the past month, but around 13.24 for October offerings became heavier, and the new crop months eased off slightly from the best. The old crop, however, continued very firm, and during the afternoon July contracts sold up to 14.70, or 32 points net higher on covering, while August advance dto 14.64 with shares evidently influenced by claims that near months have been depressed below a parity with foreign markets and that exoprts were likely from the local stock.

The strength of the old crop positions helped to sustain the new months during the afternoon, notwithstanding the rather more favorable weekly weather report and rumors of showers in the southwest, and closing prices were only a little off from the best. Exporters were buying here in the late trading, and there was a continued good trade demand for early new crop deliveries, although perhaps the bulk of the new crop buying came from covering of shorts.

Receipts today, 1,689 bales, against 2,328 last week and 4,266 last year. For the week, 8,000 bales, against 7,056 last week and 25,343 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 455 bales, against 1,336 last year, and at Houston, 182 bales, against 181 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet, 15 points higher; middling uplands, 14.90; do gulf, 15.15; no sales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 27.—Spot cotton easy, unchanged; sales on the spot, 14 bales; to arrive, none; low ordinary, 11⅝, nominal; ordinary, 12 7-16, nominal; good ordinary, 13⅞; strict good ordinary, 14¼; low middling, 14 9-16; strict low middling, 14 13-16; middling, 15 1-16; strict middling, 15 5-16; good middling, 15½; strict good middling, 15 11-16; middling fair, 15 15-16; middling fair to fair, 16 5-16; fair, 16 11-16, nominal; receipts, 455; stock, 68,376.

Cotton futures opened quiet at an advance of 3 to 4 points, on good cables and continued dry weather in Texas. Good buying orders were in evidence on the first call, and a little later the market firmed up on increased activity and an increase of speculative interest in the situation. Reports from several sections of Texas and Oklahoma were unfavorable, indicating that moisture was needed badly. The forecast promised fair weather in both Oklahoma and Texas. At the end of the first half hour of business the list was 7 to 11 points over yesterday's close, the new crops showing the most strength.

The market was moderately active, and very steady throughout the morning session. Commission houses received buying orders from outside sources, and scalpers generally took the long side for a turn. The market at 11 o'clock was helped by the weekly reports from the weather bureau, which were not as favorable as expected. The mention of high temperatures and deficient rainfall in important sections of the belt stimulated buying.

At noon the old crop months were 13 points over yesterday's close, and the new crops were 16 to 17 points over.

In the afternoon session the market was quiet, but steady. Prices showed little change. At 2 o'clock the list was 13 to 16 points over yesterday's close.

The market closed steady at a net advance of 11 to 18 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, June 27.—The cotton goods markets were quiet for the day. Stocks of men's wear and many staple lines of cotton goods are stated to by the smallest carried in years by large houses. Yarns rule very quiet. Silk velvets are being called for more freely than any single silk fabric.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, June 27.—Closing: Cotton spot in increased demand, prices 10 points lower; American middling fair, 8.57; good middling, 8.25; middling, 8.03; low middling, 7.88; good ordinary, 7.57; ordinary, 7.32. The sales of the day were 7,000 bales of which 400 bales were for speculation and export and included 6,600 American. Receipts, 7,000 bales, including 4,800 American. Futures opened steady and closed irregular.

LISTLESS MOVEMENT WITHIN NARROW LIMITS

Stock Market Showed Gains Early in Day, but Afterwards Lost Most of Them.

New York, June 27.—Aside from a few issues which were selected for special attention at the hands of traders, stocks moved listlessly within narrow limits today. Reading, Union Pacific, the Erie issues and the local tractions all gained a point or more in the early part of the day, but most of the gains were cancelled. Erie, however, displayed exceptional strength. An early movement in Union Pacific and United States Steel was attended by circumstantial reports of uncommon interest. Much of the buying of Union Pacific seemed to originate from brokers whose names are frequently associated with the operations of "insiders" in the Harriman properties. There were further reports of speculative contests in United States Steel. The bulk of the buying in this issue came from London, and was said to be for the account of a prominent western speculator who was credited with an extensive short interest in the stock. Shares of roads affiliated with Canadian Pacific were fairly active at higher prices, but the latest movment in these stocks was without effect elsewhere in the list.

An important feature of the trading was the heaviness in the copper stocks, particularly in American Smelting, which declined 2 points. The pessimistic statement of a report of the Guggenheim interests in regard to business conditions and the cancellation of the Cunningham claims in Alaska, were apparently used by bear traders to good advantage.

The street has expressed some disappointment because the recent decision of the federal court in the Harriman merger has failed to stimulate more speculative interest. Except in the case of a few prominent commission or wire houses, business is no less dull now than it was immediately before the decision in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases were made public.

Uncertainty as to the outcome of the crops continues to be a deterring factor, but the situation in this respect is undoubtedly better than was the case a fortnight back. The weekly weather reports told of beneficial rains in many districts where conditions had become critical.

A number of the important railway systems submitted their returns for May, among which those of the Harriman lines attracted most attention because of the large decreases in gross and net earnings. Union Pacific's shrinkage in gross of $572,000, and Southern Pacific's decrease of $849,000 were larger than had been expected. A marked contrast was presented in the Rock Island report, showing a gain in net revenue of more than $200,000.

First returns of national banks to the latest call of the comptroller of the currency show loan expansions over last year in this state, Pennsylvania and Illinois, while some western institutions report a scaling down. Alabama, the only southern state which has yet made returns, shows a fairly large loan increase.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,005,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Section Director.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, June 27.—Liverpool was favorably affected by a bullish crop report that the drought was severe in Texas and not relieved. On these advices our market quietly advanced some 15 points on the new, while the old crop recovered some 30 points from yesterday's close. There is some uncertainty as to the accuracy of the reports of the rainfall from Texas, official and private advices differing as to the extent of the recent showers. Nevertheless, the market is and will be controlled by the lack of rain in the southwest, and unless rain comes in a few days the market will advance. The near positions appear to be in demand from spot houses on the basis of the low prices of yesterday.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, June 27.—Cotton seed oil was steady with trading confined for the most part to switching of July into later months. Some of the July selling was thought to be for short account. Tommorrow will be delivery day and there is considerable speculation regarding the amount to be tendered. Futures closed 3 points higher to 1 lower.

By Joseph Wardin.

When anything goes wrong about the poultry yard, find the cause. If the eggs are infertile and do not hatch, if the chicks die off, if the hens get sick or do not lay; in fact, if anything happens that is not as it should be, stop and find the cause of it as soon as possible, that you may remedy it and avoid its happening a second time. Some people talk about "luck;" they have "bad luck" with raising their chicks; "they never have any luck" trying to get winter eggs; they have "bad luck" here and "good luck" there, and to hear them talk one would think the poultry business was all "luck," good or bad, mostly bad. But this is not true. Everything in this world follows the laws of cause and effect. A certain cause produces a certain effect, and every effect of any kind is produced by a certain definite cause or causes. This is as true with poultry as with anything else, and what is more true, most of the causes in the poultry business are well within the control of man or woman. It is true that weather conditions and the peculiarities of heredity cannot be completely controlled by them; that sometimes a hen becomes "ornery" even with the best of care, and it may be that one may call this "luck," but on general principles "luck" is a term which does not belong to a poultry-raisers vocabulary. Everything has its cause; most of these causes are within one's control, and the chief business of the poultry raiser is to arrange the proper causes that will produce the desired effects—good stock, healthy birds, full egg baskets. In just the proportion that they are able to know and control the causes, in that proportion will they attain success. To illustrate, I have had several letters lately from club members saying their chickens, old and young, were dying. One, in particular, wrote that they had lost 150 half-grown chicks "from a cause yet unknown." Too many poultry keepers have such losses, and are too shiftless to try to remedy them. They make the same mistakes year after year, and wonder why they do not prosper. It is only by stopping the little leaks that one can succeed; and to do this they must study carefully each case as it comes up, that it may not happen a second time.

Sometimes there are several causes and one has to look carefully. If you do not find that one method helps out, try another. One party wrote me some time ago that he didn't believe it paid to try for winter eggs. He had tried it one winter, building an elaborate chicken house, and feeding his chickens a ration to produce eggs, but eggs did not come, and concluded winter eggs did not pay. When I wrote him about the matter, asking a few questions, I found that among other things, he had twice as many hens in the house as he ought to have had, which was sufficient reason for no eggs. He had arranged one cause to produce eggs, but had failed in others. If changing one cause does not produce the desired effect try another, and keep on studying and trying until you do get the desired effect. It may mean a little time and trouble, but it pays. Do not think your hens are doing "good enough;" do not be satisfied until they are doing all that can be expected from them. Do not stop studying cause and effect and changing methods until you can hatch and raise as large a percentage of good chicks as is possible to do, until your hens lay as well or better than the best, or until your profits reach the highest water mark. It pays to do anything you undertake with all your might.

Exchange List.

Earle Johnson, Modoc, S. C., has for exchange trio of Silver Wyandottes for Indian Runner ducks.

Mrs. Anna Learson, Horseland, Ga., has a 20-acre tract of land to exchange for standard bred chickens, horse, mule or other live stock. Tract near town; cost $20 per acre. Square deal.

J. W. Mitchell, Ware, Ala., has for exchange white lady peas and pointer dog and pup for white guineas. The dog is well broken and fine stock; also have all of Charles Dickens' works to exchange for guineas or eggs.

Joe Evans, Clarkesville, Ga., has Light Brahma hens 1-year-old; also a fine fox hound to exchange for Brown Leghorn hens or eggs, or Indian Runner ducks or eggs.

B. P., Athens, Ga.—Uncle Joe: I would like to know from you the following questions:

1. What is the trouble with little chicks appear drowsy, and when you examine them you find in some cases their crops are empty. In the last stages their eyes close up and they begin to gasp for breath, and soon die. In some cases they have a watery discharge, and their head falls to one side. It seems impossible for them to straighten it. They appear drowsy, their wings drop to one side and they soon fall over.

2. What do you think of the following feed for chickens from one week old to six weeks old? Two-thirds wheat bran, one-third corn meal and one-tenth beef scrap, with charcoal mixed. This is fed in a dry mash three times a day, and is given night and morning.

3. What do you think of the following mash, which is fed wet, being mixed with either water or milk and fed in a crumbled state: Bran, meal and middlings, equal parts, with one-tenth beef scrap and charcoal mixed with it? This is fed to chicks two or three times a day, and they are given what they can eat up clear in about fifteen minutes. Given to chicks from 4 to 12 weeks old.

4. About ten days ago I noticed that some of my chicks were getting droopy, so I decided to try the following remedy in their drinking water, as this remedy is used by a large breeder of Rhode Island Reds: Three drops each of carbolic acid and tincture of iron to one pint of waer and tone drop of each being added each day until there was six drops of each in a pint of water? Do you think this water could have caused the rtouble asked about in question No. 1, or what do you think caused the trouble?

Answer—At this season of the year when little chicks are drowsy, crops or craw empty, and having in some cases a watery discharge, it's "dollars to doughnuts" that the chicks are lousy. This may nettle you, but it's so. Examine your chicks well, put on your glasses and look on top of the head, under wings, on the neck and around vent, you will find them. Use a little carbolated vaseline on parts mentioned and watch results. Their heads wabble from side to side or hang down simply because they are weak from loss of blood sucked by the lice, and they have not energy enough to eat what is put before them. It's impossible to raise lice and chicks on the same spot. It's the nature of a chick to live, and if breeded right, will live, but they can't stand vermin.

2. Chicks from one week to four weeks old should be fed at least four times a day, not much at a time, but often. I would much prefer keeping the meat scrap and charcoal separate in hoppers, where the chicks could have access to them at all times during the day. Dry bran could be kept in hopper the same way. Then I would feed nothing but cracked grain during the day—any of the prepared chick feeds on the market. If you want to find out just how fast a chick will grow, try a few pounds of granulated dry chick bran and feed this in hoppers and watch results. It's the best thing I know of for chicks.

3. As stated above, I would rather feed granulated grain rather than ground grain in mashes, wet or dry. You impair digestion when you feed so much soft food, give the gizard something to do as it will become inactive.

4. No; the tonic you gave did not cause trouble mentioned in No. 1. Douglas mixture would have been better than what you did give, though. Kill the lice, and you will have no more trouble.

Mrs. L. A. Polston, Kilmichael, Miss.—Dear Uncle Joe: When I tell you that I take The Constitution principally for "the chicken page," you will understand how much I appreciate it without any further eulogy. I am raising pure-bred Silver and White Wyandottes. Have just discarded the Leghorns, as I am too delicate to keep up with such active birds, and, besides, my Wyandottes lay as well as the Leghorns (where the Leghorns are confined to a limited space). They are the best all-round chickens I ever had; make good mothers, fine layers and produce nice sized, quick-growing fowls for table use. Several years ago I sold my Wyandottes to try other breeds, but have now got back to only two yards of chickens, and that is Silver and White Wyandottes. My third yard is ready for some little White Orpingtons, and when I get Barred Rocks and Light Brahmas for the last two pens I shall be satisfied with my selection. Don't imagine, Uncle Joe, that I am going to crowd my chickens because I speak of wanting two other breeds, for I have my pens three or four times as large as the average poultry raiser. I hatch both with hens and incubator, and, while I get very good results from the incubator, still I want some instruction right along here. This incubator is kept in a small well-celled room adjoining my bed room. It sits against the inner wall, and is covered on top with quilts. I have to get up once or twice each night to regulate the temperature, as the least change in the weather tends to raise or lower the thermometer. Now, Uncle Joe, if my questions are not unfair, please answer them:

1. Are all incubators as susceptible to each little variation of the weather as this one?

2. Would you mind telling me what make of incubator you use?

If you want to answer this last question privately, say so, and I will send postage. Life is too short to experiment on a lot of hatching machines, and I would rather have ten words from an intelligent and reliable owner of an incubator than a thousand from the seller.

Answer—It's pretty hot weather to give a fellow "taffy," as the English call it; it gets one's hands in such a sticky mess "all-ee same-ee," it tastes good to me. Why, you are going to have chickens and chickens, and more chickens, when you get your yards complete. Let me see—why, you will have five breeds, and all good ones. You can eat eggs at your house all the year round, and some chickens, too. First and foremost, you have your incubator in a very bad place to get good results. The vibration on the floor caused by walking over the floor will cause the thermostat and regulator to bob up and down. To get the best results from an incubator, it must be on a dirt floor, where there is no vibration. A cellar or a good tight outhouse is the place.

1. All incubators are more or less susceptible to sudden changes of temperature. The single-wall machines more so than the double wall; hot air sooner than hot water.

2. I use two kinds of machine—my own make and the Reliable standard. As stated above, there are several good makes of incubators.

SEED, PET STOCK AND SUPPLIES.

SEED POTATOES.

THIS is the season to plant your fall crop of Irish potatoes. The Lookout Mountain is the best variety; wonderfully prolific, and of fine quality. They are getting scarce, and we have only a few bushels left. Price, 60c per peck; $2 per bushel.

COWPEAS AND SORGHUM.

COWPEAS and sorghum sown together make an abundance of fine forage. This is a good time to plant them. Sow one bushel of each to the acre. Price of peas—Whippoorwill, $2.50 per bushel; sorghum, $1.50 per bushel.

GARDEN SEED.

AFTER the drouth it is not too late to plant beans, both pole and bush; squash, corn, cucumber, watermelon, winter cabbage and collard seed; also set out tomato plants for late tomatoes.

GOLDFISH.

JUST RECEIVED a fine lot of beautiful goldfish. As this is their breeding season, they are hard to get and we do not know when we will be able to get any more. Price, between 15c and 25c each. Globes, from 25c to $2 each.

POULTRY FOOD.

SCRATCH FOOD—Though the price of Purina Scratch, the cleanest and best food on the market, has advanced considerably in car lots, we will continue to sell it for the next week at $2 per 100 pounds.

CHICKEN CHOWDER—Just received a fresh shipment of this mash food, which is the very best to be obtained; 8½-pound packages, 25c; 100-pound bag at $2.25.

CHICK FEED—Our rice special is the best chick feed to use at this season of the year, as it contains no corn, being composed of rice, millet, kaffir corn, wheat and sunflower seed, ground the proper size. We are the only people in this locality that handle it; 8c per pound; 100 pounds $2.50.

DISINFECTANTS—Chloro-Naptholeum dip is the best mite and lice exterminator on the market. A disease preventive that has no equal, and something that no poultry breeder should be without. One quart, 50c; half gallon, 90c; gallon, $1.50; 2-gallon size, $3.00.

POULTRY REMEDIES—We carry a complete line of Lee's, Conkey's and Hess & Clark's, the recognized standard poultry remedies.

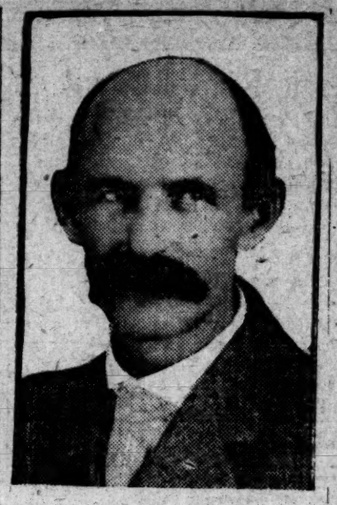
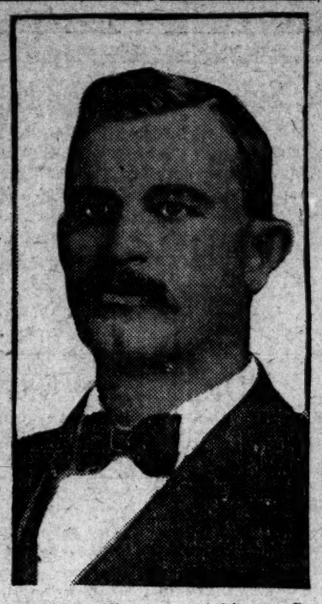
Four Active Members of the Lower House of General Assembly

Hon. Bion Williams, representative of Meriwether county, was born near Warm Springs, in Meriwether county, on the farm of his father, Hon. F. J. Williams, who also represented Meriwether in the lower house in 1878-1879. Mr. Williams was elected to the senate from the thirty-sixth district in 1894 and unseated. He has been for sometime chairman of the board of trustees of Woodbury school district, councilman of that town and also mayor of Woodbury. He is the owner of The Woodbury Georgian, and established that paper. He is greatly interested in agricultural and educational matters.

Judge W. R. Jones is now serving his third term in the house from Meriwether. He was born on the farm, taught school, graduated in law at the state university, and began the practice of his profession in Greenville in 1893. He was elected mayor of Greenville a short time after moving there. The city court of Greenville was established in 1899, and he was elected judge, which position he resigned after he was elected to the legislature in 1907. He took high rank in the legislature, having been chairman of the committee on appropriations of the last house, and prominently spoken of as speaker of the present house, but declined to run.



Hon. J. A. Darsey, who represents Spalding county in the next general assembly of Georgia, was born near Sunnyside, Ga., Spalding county, on January 1, 1869. He was educated in the public schools under some of the most prominent and successful educators in the state. His early life was spent on the farm. In 1882 he was admitted to the bar, and after practicing his profession in Griffin for awhile he began teaching in the public schools, soon becoming one of the most successful educators in Georgia. He has never been in politics before, and his race for the place against Hon. R. F. Strickland, whom he defeated by an overwhelming majority, was one of the most remarkable campaigns ever conducted in this county. He belongs to the Hoke Smith school of politics, but is a man of independent ideas. He is particularly interested in education matters and the preservation of fish and game in this state. He will introduce a bill at the coming session for the protection of fish and game.



B. G. Middleton, of Atkinson, Ga., was born in 1872 and raised on a Wayne county farm. He married at the age of 21 years and is the father of three children. Soon after he married he began the turpentine business and has been turpentining and farming ever since. He now owns several thousand acres of land and has been very successful, never having failed in a business enterprise. He has been a member and president of the board of education in Wayne county for several years. What he had made has been self-made, as he started out in life with very little help except having been taught to work six days in the week, which he says is one of the greatest helps a boy can be given along with education.

M'LENDON STILL BELIEVES PRIMARY WILL NAME SENATOR

Stating that he believed and still believes that the people will be given a chance at a primary to express their choice for the United States senate, S. G. McLendon, former railroad commissioner, has issued the following card:

My announcement for the senate was predicated upon the belief that the people would be permitted to express their choice, and that when given this opportunity, which is theirs by right, they would exact of those seeking the office of United States senator an open declaration of opinion and position on those questions of governmental policy which vitally affect the laborer, the manufacturer, the producer and the consumer.

The malady of American politics is the increasing distrust by the masses of their representatives, and consequently, a general weakening in public confidence of the representative form of government; that is, the North American or Anglo-Saxon system. For remedy of this malady, many urge, I think with inconsiderate and ill-advised haste, that we turn to the long-practiced, but now abandoned, methods of Latin-American countries, namely, the initiative, referendum and recall. South and Central American countries tried these principles for more than a century, and sometimes the initiative, referendum and recall were all in full operation simultaneously, or crowded so closely upon the heels of each other that the establishment of permanent and well-ordered civil government seemed an impossibility. Within the last generation Latin-America has abandoned the revolutionary forms and has adopted the representative forms of government. Mr. Jefferson, in the Declaration of Independence, as an everlasting warning to his countrymen, said:

"Prudence dictates that government long established should not be changed for light and transient causes."

The proper remedy for the evils of the hour, in my judgment, is not a fundamental change in our form or system of government, but rather a practical and sensible change in our political manners and political methods. The people have the remedy in their hands, and it is simple and efficacious. Let them require those seeking public office to discuss, openly and fully, the office which is to be filled and its duties, how these duties are going to be discharged, and let the people themselves give respectful hearing, forbidding on the part of public speakers all acrimony and mere personal abuse, and refraining themselves from all impeachment of the honesty and integrity of the speaker, merely on account of a difference of opinion. This openness and candor, emphasized by mutual respect, would eradicate that canker of suspicion as to secret pledges made to, or secret alliances made with this, that or the other interest, which often attaches to those holding or seeking public office, and would at the same time give every man's friends an opportunity to give him their undisguised support without fear of throwing the cloud of suspicion upon his character or his motives.

For example, I favor the protective policies of Jefferson, Madison and Monroe. These are of greater importance to the south at the present time than every in its history. I wish to discuss these policies before the Georgia cotton producer, cotton manufacturer, wage earner and consumer. If my position on the tariff and other great questions is openly declared, fully discussed and approved by the people themselves, and they then elect me to office, I would be in fact their representative. Any man elected on any other principle would always be open to criticism, no matter how he might vote on these questions.

I believed, and still believe, that the people desire, and that the people will be given an opportunity to hear these questions discussed, hence I have made no appeal to the general assembly. When the citizen of Georgia learns that in 1910 American cotton mills turned out $616,000,000 worth of cotton goods, and that all the world outside of the United States only bought $33,000,000 worth of these goods, or about 5 per cent, he is apt to wish to learn what became of the remaining 95 per cent, and what the tariff has to do with cotton in its raw state, and what it has to do with its manufactured products. I am convinced that when these great questions are discussed with decorum and in perfect good faith, something which has not been done in the south within the last forty years, the people of Georgia will return in their allegiance to the protective principles of the founders of American democracy.

SMITH SILENT; CANDLER WAITS

lief in the statement which has been circulated to the effect that Mr. Watson controls some 25 or 30 votes in the legislature, and that he has a power in this respect which may be used with some force.

Judge Covington On Hand.

"No, I have not opened headquarters yet," said Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie. "I only reached Atlanta at 7 o'clock this morning, slung my grip into the check room, and have been busy ever since shaking hands with friends. No, I have no statement to make at the present time, but I am feeling fine, and ready for the fight."

Senator Emmett Shaw, of the eleventh, one of Judge Covington's strong supporters, announced that he was ready to back up his assertion that Judge Covington would receive 40 votes on the first ballot.

Hon. Joe Hill Hall, of Bibb, another of Judge Covington's friends, thought that was about his strength on the first roll call.

Terrell Confident.

Senator Terrell and his friends seemed unusually confident Tuesday of the outcome of the fight, and are construing the evident bad split in the Hoke Smith camp to mean a Terrell victory.

The senator spent the day in his headquarters as on Monday, and with the increased arrival of members his rooms at the hotel were thronged both morning and afternoon.

Hon. Pleasant Stovall, of Savannah, was busy during the day holding conferences with friends from various sections of the state, and it was their declaration that things were coming his way.

Mr. Stovall's friends believe that with the tie-up, which now appears to be a certainty, there will be a splendid chance for his election, especially in view of the south Georgia sentiment which the senatorial discussion has aroused.

South Georgia Determined.

The south Georgia members are getting more and more clannish in respect to the senatorship.

Regardless of their general political inclinations, they are now urging the election of a south Georgian to the senate seat, and with a deadlock on they express the belief that they will have an excellent opportunity to carry out this design.

Mr. Stovall and Judge Covington are the south Georgia candidates, and if this movement takes definite shape it is probable that one of these would prove the beneficiary of it.

Whether it could be made strong enough to elect, however, is another question.

Hudson on the Scene.

Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson, generally reputed to have engineered the Hoke Smith senatorial campaign with a view to making the race for governor in case Mr. Smith should go to the senate, has just returned from a trip to New York and Washington and was busy greeting his friends during the day.

Mr. Hudson refused either to affirm or deny the report that he had conducted the Smith senatorial campaign.

"I feel this way concerning it," he said. "As you know I have been away from Georgia about two weeks, and as far as the political situation is concerned, I am in practically total ignorance. Senator Terrell's friends, I believe, have been responsible for connecting me with the Smith campaign, and I have just concluded that if they think spreading such reports will help their cause, I will not deny them."

"Will you be a candidate for governor in the event of Governor Smith's election to the senate?" he was asked.

"As to that I cannot say," he replied. "All my friends know that I have intended making the race for congress, and though I am being urged to become a gubernatorial candidate, I have not yet decided definitely what I will do. Of course, I feel it would be the highest of honors to become governor."

Mr. Hudson refused to discuss the senatorial race except to say that he felt sure Governor Smith would have a good a chance of election, whether he went through on the first ballot or not.

Mr. Hudson declined to discuss the senatorial predictions of Governor Smith's election which he is said to have made to a newspaper man in Washington.

Alleged "Deal" Resented.

"Do you know," said the legislator who has served in that capacity for the last ten years or more, "that not only members of the general assembly, but people everywhere, are strongly resenting this alleged deal between Hoke Smith and Tom Hudson?

"I have come across this resentment in several sections of the state, and on my arrival in Atlanta I found it even more pronounced among certain members of the legislature.

"I was taking breakfast this morning with two members of the house who have always been strong Hoke Smith men, when I was surprised to hear one of them, bringing his fist down heavily upon the table, make this remark:

"There are two men in this senatorial race who will never get my vote. One of them is Joe Terrell and the other is Hoke Smith.' And the other one immediately agreed with him.

"I found there, and I have found in conversation with other members, that there is a strong resentment cropping out on account of the reported deal by which Governor Smith was to go to the senate and Tom Hudson was to become governor.

"I believe you will find that the people are not going to have it."

Holding Up Patronage.

The proposed movement to hold up the patronage of Governor Smith in the senate by refusing to confirm his appointments until after the senatorial situation is settled was generally discussed in the Kimball lobby during the day.

According to one member of the senate, who is for neither Smith or Terrell, the so-called anti-Smith majority in the senate has agreed to this course, and the belief is expressed among them that it will have the effect of drawing support away from the governor.

There were still rumors current that Governor Smith would not let his name go before the legislature, and coupled with it the statement already reported, that he could not hope for election unless he would announce his candidacy.

McLendon Makes Statement.

S. G. McLendon, former railroad commissioner, gave out a statement Tuesday in connection with the senatorial race in which he professes belief that a primary will yet be held. He says he has not talked with any members of the general assembly with a view to soliciting their support, because he believes a primary should be held and he expresses confidence that it will yet in some way be brought about.

1911 LEGISLATURE CONVENES TODAY

there is any member of the house they have not seen, he has kept himself successfully hidden out.

Charles S. Northen will go in as secretary of the senate, and John T. Boifeuillet as clerk of the house, without opposition.

Flynn Hargett has no opposition for messenger of the senate, and Dan Paulk, of Ben Hill, has a practical walk-over for messenger of the house.

It is the doorkeepership of both bodies which seems to be creating the warmest contest, and there are four candidates in the senate and about eight in the house.

Governor's Message.

As soon as the two houses are organized and ready for business they will notify each other to that effect, and then a joint committee will be sent to Governor Brown to let him know that everything is in working order.

Governor Brown's message is all ready, and will be sent in to both bodies shortly after this notification is received.

The governor's message, it is stated, follows generally the lines already indicated, and repeats some things he said in his former messages. It is understood he urges changes in the new registration law, which, he considers, has resulted in the disfranchisement of many thousand white voters in Georgia; also, that he repeats his recommendation for a reduction of the membership of the railroad commission from five to three.

Outside of organization, the reading of the governor's message and making preliminary plans for the inauguration, it is not likely that any business will be transacted by either house.

The Inauguration.

The general assembly will appoint at once a joint committee to make plans for the inauguration of Governor Hoke Smith, which will take place on Saturday.

This committee will confer with the retiring and incoming governors, and make a report to the general assembly, probably Thursday, as to the plans for the inauguration.

The ceremony this year, it is stated, will take place in the hall of the house of representatives, before both bodies in joint session, as has long been the custom. Committees will escort the incoming and outgoing governors into the hall of the house, the joint session will be opened with prayer, Governor Smith will deliver his inaugural address and then take the oath of office, administered probably by Chief Justice W. H. Fish, of the supreme court.

The outgoing governor will receive the great seal of the state from the secretary of state, will deliver it to the new governor, who will then intrust its custody again to the secretary of state.

Following this simple ceremony, the joint session will dissolve and the Saturday session will come to an end.

Talking Legislation.

There is a good deal of talk of new and interesting measures to be brought to the attention of this session, and there is every indication that it is going to be one of the busiest in the history of the state.

In addition to the election of a senator, which is, quite naturally, going to consume some time, general appropriations and tax laws will have to be enacted for the ensuing two years, and both of these consume considerable time, particularly toward the close of the session, when every member is seeking to get his bill through.

Among some of the interesting pieces of legislation which will be presented for the consideration of the legislature are the inheritance tax, the anti-lobby bill, biennial sessions bill, a bill to amend the state constitution so as to require the payment of corporation taxes by September 1 of each year; a bill to change the time of the holding of legislative sessions to January; a bill to provide for a state auditor; a bill to move the state capital to Macon; a bill to provide for the office of commissioner of roads, and others which are attracting widespread attention.

MARKETS

Coffee.

New York, June 27.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 1@8 points, in response to higher cables. Realizing was moderately active at the advance, but with firm offers from Brazil a shade higher and with reports of low temperatures causing some uneasiness, although official advices did not indicate temperatures low enough to suggest any material harm to the trees at this time of the year, offerings were well absorbed and the market held the initial advance, closing quiet at a net gain of 1@3 points. Sales, 30,000 bags.

Havre was ¼@½ franc higher. Hamburg ¼@½ pfennig higher. Rio 100 reis higher at 7$600; Santos 50 reis higher; fours 6$900; sevens 6$400. 27,000 last year. January receipts, 10,100 against 27,000 last year. January receipts, 10100 against 18,800 last year. Very cold weather was reported in all districts of Sao Paulo.

Wool.

St. Louis, June 27.—Wool unchanged; medium grades, combing and clothing, 18@20½; light fine, 17@19; heavy fine, 14@15; tub washed, 22@30.

Boston, Mass., June 27.—Transfers in the wool market continue comparatively light owing to the uncertainty in the tariff legislation. Bidding for the new clipped western fleeces, however, is very active and values are well maintained. It is estimated that the bulk of the early new clip has been sold and holders are seizing the opportunity of disposing of old wool at fair prices. The most active western wool state is at present New Mexico, where it is said prices extend over a wide range from 13 to 17 cents, with lively bidding.

The buyers have not yet reached nearby growers, although a little Ohio medium has come into the market. The leading domestic quotations range as follows:

Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces: Delaine washed, 30 bid, XX, 27@28; fine unmerchantable, 22 asked; half blood combing, 25 bid; three-eighths blood combings, 24½@25; quarter-blood combings, 23@24; Delaine unwashed, 24@25; fine unwashed, 19@19½.

Country Produce.

Chicago, June 27.—Butter steady; creameries, 19@23; dairies, 17@21. Eggs firm; receipts, 14,500 cases; at mark, cases included 11@11½; firsts, 13½; prime firsts, 14½. ANNISTON HONORS KILLED PATROLMAN

Anniston Ala., June 27.—(Special.)—Nearly every business house in this city of 20,000 closed this afternoon during the hours of the funeral of J. L. Cunningham, patrolman, killed in a pitched battle between officers and Will McGuffin, moulder, last Sunday. Militia, firemen and city officials were among those at the funeral, city patrolmen acting as pallbearers.

McGuffin now claims he knows nothing of the battle, saying he was in a trance caused by tiger liquor. He may lose one eye from gun wounds. Chief Glosson will recover soon, it is believed. Paranoia will be McGuffin's probable defense.

Race Riot Is Checked.

Elkins, W. Va., June 27.—Randolph county authorities early today had under control the American-Italian race riot that has been going on for the past few days, as the result of which three Italians are dying and one American is in a serious condition from stab wounds. While there are still open threats of vengeance, Sheriff Pritt, with a force of ninety men, said he could prevent further bloodshed.
